RUSSIANS STATE KLEIST'S SOUTHERN ARMY SMASHED

Germans Bitterly Accuse Red Civilians Of Attacking From Rear

(By Associated Press)

Moscow, under the direst threat itself, proclaimed tonight that Rostov-on-Don had been delivered, its German captors routed from their week-old prize and plunged into westward flight by one of the most startling counter-offensives of the war.

The sharpest menace to the oil-rich Caucasus thus apparently had been shattered, for Rostov is the northern gateway to that vital region.

Premier Joseph Stalin himself sent a message of congratulations to his southern commanders for "deliverance of Rostov from the Fascist invaders" and "raising again our glorious Soviet flag in Rostov."

Declaring the southern army of Field Marshal General Ewald von Kleist smashed, the Russians said four divisions—the 14th and 16th tank divisions, the 60th motor division and the S. S. Viking division—were in full flight toward Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov.

The Moscow radio said that Red troops recrossed the Don and invested Rostov from the south in their major assault while other troops broke through to the northeast. The Germans were said to have lost 5,000 killed.

Adolf Hitler's high command already had acknowledged a partial withdrawal from the city.

Meanwhile in Paris two German soldiers were killed and many others wounded in a bomb explosion in a Montmartre restaurant. German authorities immediately set a 6 p.m. curfew for that section of the occupied capital.

Frenchmen Out After Early Curfew Warned They Will Be Shot

PARIS, Occupied France, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Germans announced tonight the death of two German soldiers and the wounding of many others in bombing attacks in defiance of a Nazi warning that further such incidents "would cause grave consequences for the Paris popularity."

The announcement was accompanied by an order from Lieutenant-General Ernst von Schaumburg, German commander of Paris, clamping on a strict curfew in the famed Montmartre district, scene of the latest attacks, and a warning that anyone venturing out there after 6 p.m. would be shot by Nazi patrols.

The latest attacks shifted to the far side of Montmartre hill—famed art and night life center—after previous explosions in the left bank student quarter on the other side of Paris.

The Montmartre attacks were reported to have occurred in restaurants requisitioned for Germans. In addition to the Germans, a French girl was said to have been killed.

They came on the heels of previous bombings in which no lives were lost, but which brought from von Schaumburg a 1,000,000-franc (officially $20,000) fine on the city of Paris and a warning of "grave consequences" if the attacks continued.

The curfew on all public places in the Montmartre district was set for a half hour before the curfew on individuals in the streets.

He served notice further that German patrols would use firearms against anybody keeping their windows open from 6 p.m. on.

JEROME A. HAYES SUED FOR LIBEL

Action Brought Against Funds Supervisor By Bolivar E. Kemp

AMITE, La., Nov. 29.—(AP)—District Attorney Bolivar E. Kemp today filed suit in the Tangipahoa district court against Supervisor of Public Funds Jerome A. Hayes for $10,000 damages for alleged libel.

The petition was in answer to Hayes' motion for Judge Robert S. Ellis to recuse himself in criminal proceedings in Tangipahoa pending against Hayes. The motion, which yesterday brought a contempt of court citation from Judge Ellis, declared that Sheriff Frank Edwards and District Attorney Kemp are leaders of a "courthouse ring" seeking to discredit him after he reported Sheriff Edwards' accounts reflected irregularities of more than $100,000.

The allegations in the district attorney's petition include:

"On November 26, 1941, Supervisor of Public Funds Jerome A. Hayes filed a motion demanding the recusal of Judge Robert S. Ellis. The motion in which it was seen fit to lug your petitioner's name and make false accusations against your petitioner was given wide publicity through the newspapers.

PRICE-CONTROL BILL ATTACKED

McNary Characterizes Measure As 'Toothless And Timorous'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, called the administration's price control bill "toothless and timorous" today as indications multiplied that bipartisan efforts would be made in the senate to rewrite the much-amended measure passed by the house yesterday.

Joining with McNary, the minority leader, in criticism of the bill, Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, said that if there was to be effective control of prices the senate would have to write a much more drastic measure than that approved by the house.

In one of his rare public statements on legislation, McNary asserted that price fixing must be accompanied by elimination of "waste" in the defense program and by reduction in non-defense expenditures.

"I am afraid the measure passed by the house is toothless and timorous," he continued. "I am certain no price-fixing bill will be effective until we remove flagrant waste in defense expenditures, decrease non-defense expenditures and improve the pattern of our defense and domestic program."

McNary indicated his objections to the measure centered on the elimina-

PRESIDENT SAYS NATION BACKING FOREIGN POLICY

Nipponese Reportedly Massing Troops In French Indo-China

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. — (AP) — Alertly watching for Tokyo's next move in the acute Japan-American crisis, President Roosevelt warned other nations today that America is united behind his foreign policy of opposition to aggression anywhere on earth.

"That there is debate, or that there are statements of conflicting opinion prior to the decisions should not be taken by persons abroad as an indication of lack of cohesion among our people, though that mistake is sometimes made," he said. "While there I have always felt that those differences were of degree but not of principle."

Mr. Roosevelt's reply was made public by the senator. Whether it was timed to coincide with Japan's consideration of her next step was a matter of Washington conjecture. DEWEY SPEAKS FOR CRIMINALS

Thinks They Should Have Chance After Paying Debt To Society

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—In eight years as a rough, tough district attorney, Thomas E. Dewey showed little mercy toward criminals; now, about to step from office, he has a kind word for some of them.

One of his greatest dislikes, he said yesterday in a virtual valedictory preliminary to his return to private law practice January 1, is the official oppression of ex-convicts such as Irving (Waxey Gordon) Wexler after they have paid their debt to society.

"They should be left alone and given a chance to rehabilitate themselves," the prosecutor asserted in criticizing officials who keep "pushing and elbowing crooks around" after they have served prison terms.

Referring specifically to Mayor F. H. La Guardia's standing orders to the police department to throw out of the city such characters as Gordon—former beer baron whose prosecution for income tax evasion Dewey lists as his most important case—and Bookmaker Frank A. Erickson, the district attorney declared:

"Personally I strongly disagree with that policy. I disapprove of it. I've felt all along that it's the business of

Interpreting The War News

By Kirke L. Simpson
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

British hopes of ultimately sweeping axis forces out of North Africa seemed keyed to the port of Tobruk as the second week of the Libyan offensive waned.

Grimly held by an allied British garrison for months against encircling German-Italian foes, that best harbor of the eastern Libyan coast is a vitally important supply bridgehead for further prompt British advance westward.

With reported British completion of the Rezegh-Tobruk junction at Ed Duda to slam shut the western gateway of the British trap on axis forces east of that line, the first phase of the fight was near a conclusion favorable to British hopes. There were indications, despite sharply conflicting British and axis accounts of what was happening with the trap, that German-Italian forces were making desperate attempts to break out westward for retreat into the mountainous Libyan hump.

A Cairo announcement said Tobruk's relieved garrison and comrades who cut their way to the Ed Duda junction have now struck out westward from the Tobruk front. That means they are endeavoring to clear up the deep ring of axis fortifications built up about the port, leaving the mopping up of axis resistance centers east of the Tobruk-Rezegh line to other forces.

With Tobruk firmly held by the British and its nearby siege zone cleared of axis forces, direct British sea-borne contact with Alexandria would be possible. It would free the desert highways and the Matruh-Alexandria railroad of much of the war traffic burden to sustain the British westward drive.

Tobruk, where the British navy managed to land tanks at night for use on the besieged garrison, is as vital for quick reinforcement of the Rezegh line as for a base to support a drive at Derna.

British determination to hold Tobruk for such ultimate use, even when Wavell's army was being hustled back to the Egyptian border by axis armies, is now plain. The garrison at Tobruk was ordered to hold out at all costs for that reason, relying on its sea supply route. British lives lost in that prolonged siege were not wasted if the port can now be converted into a spring-board for a driving attack to pen axis Libyan armies into the mountain hump west of Derna and north of Bengasi.

There is still no British word of the whereabouts of the column far to the south aimed at cutting axis communications west of the hump. Rome has reported it within almost striking distance of the Tripoli-Bengasi road but now hints it has been itself cut off in the desert.

If it is still moving westward and reaches its objective, coupled with the westward drive from Tobruk and the British patrol of the Mediterranean, a siege of the Libyan hump seems certain to develop.

NORTHERN STATES GET 'HEAT WAVE'

(By Associated Press)

Residents in most of the northern states forgot, temporarily at least today, that winter is just around the corner.

With the exception of some spots in the northern plains states, where typical fall weather prevailed, temperatures generally throughout the northern half of the nation were described by the United States weather bureau as "unseasonably high."

A temperature range from 65 to as high as 72 was in prospect for Missouri, Kansas, eastern Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio. The Chicago weather bureau attributed the "heat" wave to a low pressure through extending from the Texas Panhandle to the Great Lakes, which, combined with a high pressure condition in the east, resulted in strong warm winds from the southwest.

The outlook for the central west for tomorrow was for partly cloudy weather with a continuation of mild temperatures, dropping slightly in some areas.

Nippy temperatures, meanwhile, prevailed in the Dakotas. South Dakota readings were below freezing, while Devils Lake, N. D., had 11 above early this morning. The Chicago weather bureau said, however, that this cold air was moving slowly eastward, would not dip very far south.

Axis Troops In Libya Try To Fight Way Out Of British-Laid Trap

Smash Head-On Into New Major Tank Battle With Enemy Forces

CAIRO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—German and Italian forces trapped east of Tobruk have reassembled "their remaining tanks" and, in a mighty effort to escape from their encirclement, have smashed head-on into a British wall and become deadlocked in a new major tank battle, the British announced today.

The battle began yesterday morning southwest of Rezegh and continued fiercely throughout the day and into the evening, "without either side having given or gained ground," the British middle east command stated in its communique.

The problem of the German commander, General Erwin Rommel, is to get his once-powerful mechanized and motorized panzer units westward out of immediate danger as efficiently as possible; the British aim is to keep them isolated, break them into smaller units, and annihilate them.

In assembling for the big break-out effort the Italian Ariete (Battering Ram) division managed to join the Nazi panzer forces, a British spokesman said, thereby forming a combination making the battle highly important and on a "considerable" scale.

Infantry fighting as heavy as any yet seen in Africa was raging around Tobruk, the spokesman said, although he emphasized that the main British aim was to smash the panzers.

With British air force attacking the axis forces steadily and with the British tanks holding fast against the hour-after-hour pounding, the spokesman described the situation generally as "very satisfactory."

(An authoritative source in London cautioned against any assumption "that it is impossible for the German and Italian tanks to break out of the encirclement." This source said there was no definite indication whether the axis armored forces possess sufficient quantities of supplies within the trap to permit prolonged fighting without relief.)

The British wall was being steadily strengthened as the axis forces smashed against it. The British communique said that British and New

Navy Says Organization Trading On Grief Of Dead Men's Families

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The navy charged today that an "organized campaign" was being waged to undermine civilian morale by trading on the grief of survivors of American seamen lost in the battle of the Atlantic.

Secretary Knox made public copies of a letter which the navy said had been circulated among parents of men lost when the destroyer Reuben James was sunk on October 31. The letter was put out, the navy department declared, by "We, the Mothers, Mobilized for America, Inc.," with headquarters in Chicago.

The particular copy which Knox made public had been forwarded to him by parents of a man first believed lost on the Reuben James but later found safe. The parents, writing at a time when they thought their son was dead, told the secretary:

"We reject sympathy from such an organization. They belong with the Nazi. Wipe them out of the U. S. A."

The names of the parents were not made public.

A spokesman said on behalf of the navy department that the letter was "part of an organized campaign to undermine civilian morale and the morale of the armed forces."

Secretary Knox disclosed at a press conference Wednesday that naval enlistments had dropped 15 per cent since the Reuben James and Kearny

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The tumult of war in Europe and the far east intruded but faintly on President Roosevelt and a tardy Thanksgiving dinner with the patients at the Warm Springs foundation for victims of infantile paralysis.

He shared an evening of fun with the patients at the foundation, their friends and relatives.

Each day brings us nearer and nearer to the greatest holiday of the year. The stores are overflowing with all the good things of life suited to make happy young and old. Up and down DeSiard street "angel" forms are placed at vantage points to be illuminated and later equipped with music so that Christmas carols will ring out to the populace when the Christmas fiesta is held next Saturday. There is joyfulness in the air as busy shoppers good naturedly jostle each other as they make their way to busy counters to make their purchases.

But while all this setting adds to the happiness of the persons who have the good things of life, there are many little tots who are uncared for and to whom Christmas is but another drab and dreary day in their young lives. For just such as these, Good Fellows came into being and is the medium of imparting a ray of sunshine into lives that otherwise would know little real happiness on Christmas day.

Here is one of the letters reproduced as it came to us Saturday: "To the Good Fellows, city: I am writing you so that you can receive my letter in time for Christmas. I am a widow. Have had a paralytic stroke and can only use my left side a very little. Am on relief but I get such a small amount that it takes it all for rent and what I am forced to buy for food. Unless Good Fellows aid, I shall not have any Christmas dinner. I also need some gowns and a sweater. I am 55 and would so much appreciate anything you can do for me. Thanking you in advance, I am—"

Oregon State, Mississippi State Capture Loop Titles

By Herb Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Oregon State's Beavers captured the Pacific Coast conference football championship and a probable Rose Bowl assignment today as Mississippi State won the Southeastern conference crown for the first time in history and Navy turned back the Army for the third successive year.

The Beavers settled the wild Pacific Coast conference race with an exciting 12-7 decision over the University of Oregon as Stanford, only remaining contender, was badly beaten by California, 16-0. Oregon State lost to Southern California and Washington State but all other conference teams dropped at least three decisions in the conference.

Oregon State had to come from behind to win for Oregon gained a 7-6 lead on Curt Mecham's 53-yard touchdown run. Joe Day, Beaver fullback, scored the decisive touchdown on a 28-yard run a short while la[illegible]

Mississippi State annexed the Southeastern title by whipping the University of Mississippi, 6-0, on a 38-yard quarterback sneak by Sophomore Jennings Moates. Both Mississippi State and Mississippi entered the game undefeated in conference play.

Meanwhile Navy closed out a brilliant season by running over hard-fighting Army, 14-6, as a crowd of close to 100,000 looked on at Philadelphia. Army, dominating play in the first half, pushed over a touchdown in the second period but could not match Navy's closing drive. Led by Bill Busik and Howie Clark, the Tars scored twice in the third period and closed down on every Army threat. Navy thus closed a successful season marred only by the defeat by Notre Dame and a tie with Harvard.

Other leading engagements in the east saw Fordham's once-beaten Rams trounce New York University, 30-9, to keep alive their hopes of a bowl

BANKS MAIL OUT CHRISTMAS CASH

Central Savings Distributes Over $100,000; Ouachita Fund Also Large

The annual Christmas savings funds of both the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company and the Ouachita National Bank closed Saturday and checks will be in the mail Monday, officials of the banks stated. The Central Savings Bank and Trust Company is mailing out, according to Vice-President J. S. Washburn, more than $100,000, which is by far the largest sum similarly disbursed, he said. Ouachita bank officials, while not giving exact figures, stated that the sum also will be larger than in past years.

The Central Savings Bank and Trust Company's savings fund checks total $100,347.39 this year, Mr. Washburn said. Every year has seen a substantial gain made without any great effort on the part of the institution which annually closes the fund on the last day in November and opens it for the succeeding year on December 1, he said.

More people this year continued their weekly or monthly deposits than in past years, which is regarded as indicating more prosperous times for the community, he said.

One account was in the sum of $5,000; two were for $1,000 each, and one for $750, stated officials of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company.

Both banks on Monday will open the Christmas savings fund for 1941-1942.

HITLER FORCES MEET REVERSES

northwestern fringe of Moscow's defense zone plunged headlong across snowy plains last night, the Germans striking through for a frontal onslaught against the capital and the Russians fiercely attempting to halt them short of their goal with a flank offensive.

The fate of Moscow appeared to be wrapped up in the question of whether the Red army could strike the German flank hard and deep enough to deflect the drive.

The Russians were reported sweeping across the ice-paved Volga, driving the Germans out of town after town in the Kalinin sector, 90 miles northwest of Moscow, while the Germans announced in swift succession the capture of three important strong points between Kalinin and Moscow—Volokolamsk, 65 miles from the capital, Klin, 50 miles, Solnetschnogorski, 31 miles.

On the southern front, Soviet troops battled at the gates of Rostov-on-Don to press one of the biggest setbacks yet experienced by the Germans in two years of war.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters admitted that German forces had fallen back from the principal sections of Rostov, relinquishing their grip on a strategic prize for the first time since the withdrawal from Narvik, Norway, in the spring of 1940.

The big Don river port, with a normal population of 500,000, guards the northern approach to Russia's great Caucasus oil fields.

Bitterly accusing Rostov's civil population of attacking German troops from the rear, the Nazi high command marked the city for several reprisals. Presumably, Nazi troops were evacuated to permit retaliation in the form of bombing, shelling or dynamiting the city.

Countering these reverses, German military dispatches besides claiming the fall of three key points on Moscow's defense arc reported that axis armies in the Crimea had seized the Black sea port of Balaklava, scene of the storied "charge of the light brigade," just a few miles southeast of Russia's big Sevastopol naval base.

The Russians had conceded Nazi thrusts to the Klin sector several days ago and the Germans have previously claimed their advance troops had reached Solnetschnogoski.

With Japan closely watching the ebb and flow of Europe's conflict, the day brought reports of axis reverses from Arctic Murmansk to the sands of North Africa:

These were the high spots:

1. Arctic—The London admiralty announced that British submarines slashing at German reinforcements en route to the far north front around Murmansk had sunk at least eight Nazi troop and supply ships and damaged five others.

Informed London quarters said the German troops were probably being sent to the Finnish port of Petsamo, west of Murmansk, for a winter offensive to cut off Russia's Arctic ports—probably including Archangel, port of entry for United States war supplies to Soviet.

2. Moscow front—The Russians declared that Soviet Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's armies had smashed back German forces in two key sectors on the south and west, around Stalinogorsk and Mozhaisk, and had driven the Germans from 10 villages in a progressing counter-attack in the north between Klin and Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of the capital.

3. Ukraine front—The Soviet radio reported that a powerful counter-offensive by Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's southern armies had recaptured the old section of Rostov-on-Don, in a 35-mile advance from the region of Novocherkassk.

4. North African front—The British reported that General Sir Alan Cunningham's desert armies were engaged in a great new battle of tanks with the axis, and that German General Erwin Rommel had thrown his last "remaining tanks" into action in a desperate attempt to escape the jaws of a British trap east of Tobruk.

The climactic struggle over the Libyan desert sands began Friday morning southeast of Rezegh, 10 miles from Tobruk, and was reported still raging in full violence "without either side having given or gained ground."

Glare blindness, caused by motor car headlights, lasts longer in women than in men, according to scientists.

AXIS TROOPS IN NEW BIG BATTLE

Zealand forces were "gradually widening their corridor of contact" established after the long-besieged Tobruk garrison battled its way to freedom and junction with the invading forces from the east.

Overhead the British air force cut hard at the axis forces struggling on the ground. "On a number of occasions," said the British bulletin, "our air force was able to take full advantage of opportunities offered to attack enemy concentrations in cooperation with our ground troops."

Bombing and Beau fighter machine-gun attacks were described as "particularly successful" against the German and Italian armored forces locked in tank battle at the jaws of the big British trap.

As the axis force moved westward, the air force, first to meet it, bombed it continuously. Then concetrations of British tanks and armored cars attacked, and the big battle was under way.

While the British communique placed the scene of the battle as being simply "southeast of Rezegh," other sources said it was being fought in the vicinity of 20 miles south of Gambut, which would be about 40 miles southwest of Rezegh.

As night descended the tank forces fought on by moonlight and battle lines were fluid.

This battle was the second big tank engagement of the current Libyan campaign. The first, joined soon after the British invasion began 12 days ago, ended with the British announcing that the axis forces had been defeated and divided.

As this fighting raged south and east of Tobruk, the British forces proceeding on westward from the town ran into German resistance described in the communique as stiff.

The British forces which battled their way out of Tobruk up to Wednesday night had captured 79 field and medium guns from the axis forces, with "quantities of light anti-aircraft and anti-tank artillery, machine guns and small arms," the British statement said.

Capture by the British of an "important stronghold" north of Bir El Hamed, near the Egyptian border, along with several hundred Italian prisoners was announced in the communique.

(The Italian high command Saturday announced destruction of a British motorized brigade on the central Bibyan front and capture of more than 1,000 prisoners, including the brigade commander. London sources in comment said no general of the names variously given—"Cownes" and "Karges"—was in the vicinity. Earlier the British had acknowledged that the fifth South African brigade had been "surprised" by axis troops at Rezegh early this week, and that casualties, including prisoners taken, might run to 1,200.)

PRESIDENT SAYS POLICY BACKED

of the peace in the Pacific, Japanese emissaries here were given a near-ultimatum several days ago, reasserting the American policy of opposition to conquest and aggression. The question of peace or war, some government spokesmen have said, rests upon Tokyo's response.

Meanwhile, Japan has been reportedly massing troops in French Indo-China for a drive into Thailand (Siam). The Japanese cabinet met for a second time today to consider the results of the Washington negotiations. Thailand was preparing for war and its officials were reportedly conferring with British authorities at nearby Singapore, the great English naval base. Domei, the Japanese news agency, warned that if the United States should institute an air patrol of the Burma road—Chinese army supply route—it would be considered an act of "provocation" by Japan.

Here, Secretary Hull and Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, talked over the Far Eastern situation for nearly an hour. Halifax told reporters the British and American governments were cooperating closely and that it was up to Japan alone to make the momentous choice.

At a press conference, Secretary Hull said there were no announcements to be made until Japan's decision is known. He declined to answer a question whether a Japanese attack on Thailand would bring on a major conflict in the Pacific, referring his questioners to the army and navy.

SHARK BITE

THREAT MADE TO PURGE BRITISH

United States to fish in troubled waters of East Asia by pitting East Asiatic peoples against one another and to grasp hegemony in East Asia.

"This is the stock in trade of Britain and the United States. For the honor and pride of mankind we must purge this sort of practice from East Asia with a vengeance."

Many countries, he said, were indulging in actions hostile to Japan.

The Domei news agency reported from an army air base in northern Indo-China that Japanese planes had bombed the Burma road, the route for United States aid to Chungking, for the first time in several months.

The press generally showed concern over the future of Thailand.

The newspaper said that only the joint defense agreement with Vichy prevented Indo-China from falling into these arms, so the policy was amply justified.

Domei referred to reports printed in the Japanese press that the United States had decided to start an aerial patrol of China's Burma road, and declared:

"If the skies over the Burma road are patrolled by United States air forces it is obvious this move would be taken as the result of discussions among the so-called A. B. C. D. group, and Japan must view such action as a most daring armed challenge against her on the part of the A. B. C. D. camp."

Domei said the aerial patrol at first glance appeared to be legal if the consent of the Chinese and Burmese were obtained.

All that observers knew was that the cabinet held its meeting, but they concluded from the fact that the cabinet gave consideration to the note yesterday that the ministers charged with making decisions in one of the most fateful hours of Japan's history were giving prolonged and careful examination to the Washington negotiations.

Observers agreed that the United States had tossed Japan the ball and that it was now up to the Japanese.

In the absence of any guiding policy, the press commented on the feverish crisis in rambling fashion.

Hochi said Britain's spurt to strengthen Hongkong's defenses was wasted effort because the city could be captured easily.

(Realistic war maneuvers with a blackout, mock air raid, civic guards chasing pseudo saboteurs, explosions, gunfire, parachute flares and simulated fires were held at Hongkong.

(A Reuters dispatch from Singapore said leave of all troops there had been cancelled as "a normal precautionary move in view of the Pacific situation.")

Miyako featured a photograph of United States ship unloading war supplies for China at Rangoon, Burma.

Asahi declared the Thais felt their nation would be involved in war if the Washington talks collapse and that Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet ambassador en route to Washington, had stopped in the Thailand capital to confer with British and American envoys there.

Asahi also said President Roosevelt's reference to unarmed American vessels in the Pacific under "present circumstances" was a "trick."

All papers gave prominence to the president's statements indicating the crisis may come to a head before Tuesday.

"American military leaders hold secret conference" was a typical headline over the president's conference with General Marshall, army chief of staff, Admiral Stark, chief of naval operations, Secretary of State Hull, Navy Secretary Knox and War Secretary Stimson.

A broadcast of Domei, Japanese news agency, quoted authoritative Japanese sources as saying institution of a United States air patrol over the Burma road, China's truck line to the outside world, would be "an example of the most provocative armed aggression."

The British radio reported that Thailand had sent a military representative to Singapore to confer with British defense chiefs.

Chungking authorities voiced apprehension that the Japanese intended to attack Thailand or the Chinese southern province of Yunnan in order to cut the Burma road.

In either case the defenders will not be fighting alone, these authorities declared.

Chinese reports in Chungking said United States warships were convoying lend-lease supplies to Rangoon for China.

In Hanoi, capital of Japanese-occupied French Indo-China, the governor general, Vice-Admiral Jean Decoux, denied French forces were being mobilized but reserved the right to take "all measures."

Observers at Manila, the Philippines, said Japan is reported to be completing two and possibly four new 35,000-ton battleships.

Manila quarters with close contact with Japan's puppet Chinese regime at Nanking said German diplomats, under direct instruction from Hitler, are trying to patch up a Chinese-Japanese peace with the idea of freeing Japan's army and air force for other theaters of action.

The Washington talks have strengthened the hands of a few peace advocates at Chungking, these sources said.

PRESIDENT SAYS WAR MAY COME NEXT YEAR

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said tonight it was always possible that "our boys in the military and naval academies may be fighting for the defense of American institutions" by next Thanksgiving. He then conferred with Secretary Hull by telephone, and considered rushing back to Washington because of the latest turn in the Japanese situation.

Mr. Roosevelt made his ominous statement about the possibility of fighting at a dinner at the Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis Victims.

Returning to the "little White House" on Pine mountain, he found a call from Hull awaiting him, and reached the opinion that he might have to leave here tomorrow afternoon, and arrive in Washington Monday morning, in view of a statement by Japanese Premier Hideki Tojo.

The premier asserted earlier today that Japan would have to do everything possible to wipe out a vengeance British and United States exploitation in the Far East.

Stephen Early, presidential press secretary, told reporters: "As soon as the president returned to the cottage following the dinner this evening, he found a call waiting from the secretary of state and they held a lengthy conversation.

"In view of the reported statement—an Associated Press dispatch by the premier of Japan, the president tonight is of the opinion that we may have to leave Warm Springs tomorrow afternoon, arranging the railroad schedule so as to arrive in Washington Monday before noon."

The chief executive spoke of people in other lands overrun or attacked and those even in countries which are attacking. Then he added solemnly: I think we can offer a little silent prayer that these people will be able to hold next year a Thanksgiving more like an American Thanksgiving. That is something to dream about, perhaps.

"In days like these, our Thanksgiving next year may remind us of a peaceful past; it is always possible that our boys in the military and naval academies may be fighting for the defense of these American institutions of ours."

The president, who twice postponed trips to Warm Springs, where he had planned to observe Thanksgiving, said he could not help thinking of those things and the dangers overhanging the country while he was in Washington contemplating his journey a week and a half ago. And he said he might have to go back tomorrow or the next day, but he did not know.

And, he said, this was a year for thanksgiving especially because the people in the Warm Springs dining room, in the community, the state and the United States were in a unique position today. The United States is one of the largest nations in the world, Mr. Roosevelt remarked, and nearly all the other large nations are involved in a war of some kind or normal lives within them are almost completely blotted out or controlled by a dictator.

Leading up to his remark that men from the military and naval academies might be fighting for defense in a year, the president said he had listened to broadcasts of two football games this afternoon, between Georgia and Georgia Tech at Atlanta and the Army and Navy at Philadelphia.

"They were great games, run in the spirit of peace," he said. "And the right kind of national spirit of peace is necessary for the right conduct of either the Georgia game or the Army-Navy game. How many other countries in the world could have things like that going on."

So, he went on, he thought Americans had great cause to be thankful that in the years since 1918 they had been able to hold their gains or carry on health and educational and other programs on a cooperative basis.

The chief executive spoke informally, without notes. Whether his words about the possibility of fighting were based on some undisclosed, specific knowledge of events that may be expected in the field of foreign affairs or merely were intended as a generalization and warning was not readily discernable.

DISSATISFIED WITH AMERICAN POSITION

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Japan has replied to the United States note setting forth America's position in the Far East and expressed dissatisfaction with certain points, the British radio said tonight in a broadcast relayed from Tokyo broadcast. The BBC broadcast was heard by NBC.

The Quartermaster Corps of the Fourth Corps Area, with headquarters in Atlanta, purchased 3,289,000 paper bags and 143,912 pounds of wax paper to wrap lunches for troops during the war games.

Penn State won a hard-earned 19-1[illegible] victory over South Carolina but West Virginia fell before Michigan State 14-12, and Xavier of Cincinnati scored a surprise triumph over Georgetown 14-6.

Nebraska, edging out Oklahoma 7-6 finished in a tie with the Sooners for second place in the Big Six conference race won by Missouri. Iowa State Big Six school, was no match for Marquette and went down, 28-13 Kansas State bowed to Arizona, 28-21.

Texas Christian rallied to whip Southern Methodist, 15-13, and thus tied Texas for second place in the Southwest conference race won by Texas A. and M. Rice walloped Baylor, 28-14.

Frank Sinkwich tossed three touchdown passes as Georgia easily whipped Georgia Tech, 21-0, in the Southeastern conference. Tennessee, showing surprising strength and depending largely on a pair of sophomores, Walter Slater and Bobby Cifers, handed Vanderbilt a bad beating, 26-7. Louisiana State mopped up erratic Tulane 19-0. Auburn upset favored Clemson 28-7.

In the Southern conference, North Carolina State surprised once-beaten William and Mary and won comfortably, 13-0. Virginia Tech stopped Richmond by the same score. Wake Forest was roundly drubbed by Texas Tech, 35-6.

Washington took a 14-13 decision from Southern California in a Pacific Coast conference game.

WINNERS NAMED IN STOCK SHOW

15-Year-Old Illinois Cattleman Has Champion Steer Among 691

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A 15-year-old Illinois cattleman and a Canadian wheat grower shared top honors today as the 42nd International Livestock exposition swung into its eight-day run.

There were 691 steers in the junior show, a record number.

Grain judges, meantime, finishing some of their work unusually early, named William Miller of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, as wheat king of the North American continent. His sample of Reward variety of hard red spring wheat was adjudged best.

The Pillsbury award, given this year for the first time, for the best wheat grown in the United States, went to L. E. Peterson, of Victor, Mont., on his sample of hard red winter wheat. Canadians have won the wheat king title every year since 1928.

Young Lacy, blond, a grinning 4-H club boy, bought the steer last January 18, when it weighed but 350 pounds. Under his care it was fed a commercial supplement, corn, oats, hay and a protein compound.

Lacy's father, Richard Lacy, said the steer came from the T-O ranch in New Mexico. The elder Lacy is a cattle feeder on his 160-acre farm and has exhibited carloads of Herefords at the international for 20 years.

"This was the first year I missed winning carload prizes, but my boy made up for it," he chuckled.

Reserve champion of the junior show was a heavy Aberdeen Angus shown by Robert Miller of Arcola, Ill.

Monroe Duck Hunter Learns Of Work Of Canadian Bird Refuge

Jack Miner Of Canada Spreads Gospel By Banding Fowls

When out duck hunting recently L. D. Vaughan, 602 Bres avenue, shot a bird that had a metal leg band on which was the name and address of Jack Miner, Kingsville, Ont., Canada. Mr. Vaughan communicated with Mr. Miner and was pleased to receive a letter revealing the interesting life work that has been entered into by this Canadian.

The letter received as reply to Mr. Vaughan, ran as follows:

"Dear Friend: Thanks for reporting the bird you got with a Jack Miner band on its leg. The said bird was banded by Jack Miner at the Jack Miner bird sanctuary, at Kingsville, Ont., which is but 25 miles from Detroit, Mich. If you have not done so, will you please return the band, as Jack Miner saves them for a little museum of natural history which he hopes friends will some day build here at the bird sanctuary.

"Jack Miner is the pioneer bird-bander on the continent. He tagged his first bird, which was a duck, at his bird sanctuary at Kingsville, in August, 1909, and it was reported shot by Dr. W. E. Bray, of Anderson, S. C., in January, 1910. His object in banding birds is to study their exact migration route. To learn how long they live. To learn how far they travel. All such information has a scientific value.

"On the duck and goose bands you will find the letter S or F. The S stands for spring and the F for fall, indicating the season when banded. Also a number indicates the year banded. Also on the duck and goose bands will be found a verse of Scripture from the Bible. Jack Miner is in no way a fanatic on religion, but he is a sincere believer in the Word of God found in the Bible, so to pass the Scripture along to others and cause others to think more and read the Bible more, he in his simple way puts Bible texts on each band. The Bible verse has been invaluable among the Eskimos and Indians who shoot the occasional goose, as they take the band to their missionaries to get the interpretation of the Bible verse. The missionary in turn takes the verse for his text on Sunday and all the natives turn out in large numbers. One newspaper gives Jack Miner credit for 'doing more real home missionary work than any other Canadian.'

"Thousands of mourning doves nest on the Jack Miner bird sanctuary, as well as robins—so he puts small bands on their legs and lets them go. The children of the community help him to band and they are ever eager to know where such birds are shot.

"If you would know more of Jack Miner and his work as carried on you can write to Reilly Lee Publishing Company, 325 West Huron street, Chicago, as they have literature concerning this subject."

The letter was signed by Manly F. Miner, secretary to Jack Miner.

4-H CLUB WINNERS LEAVE FOR CHICAGO

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Reather Gould of East Carroll parish, 4-H garden club champion, T. J. Parker, Mer Rouge high school corn club winner in the state contest, and Allen J. Mayeaux of Moreauville in Avoyelles parish, who won the cotton growing award in the state, left Saturday for Chicago to attend the National club congress being held there in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition.

The 4-H club members, who took top honors in the state, were each given the trip in recognition of their individual efforts in these three contests.

Miss Gould's award was given for her prowess in growing vegetables, and also for judging vegetables at the 4-H short course held at Baton Rouge each summer. There were 6,669 garden club members in the state who competed.

Young Parker, whose prize baby beef was auctioned by Governor Jones in recent months, is an old timer at winning prizes, and he has saved $250 from projects which he has carried out.

Mayeaux, who made more than $100 on his one-acre plot of cotton, took the profit and paid his first payment on a farm, complete with house, barn and good fences. He will pay the remaining installments of $800 over an eight-year period.

DIES AT GAME

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Henry C. Keith, 55, president of a tobacco company bearing his name, died of a heart attack today in the grandstand while watching the football game in which Louisiana State university defeated Tulane 19-0.

3-ACT PLAY TO BE PRESENTED

Junior College Speech Club To Give Comedy On Friday Night

"Janey," a three-act play, will be presented Friday, December 5, at 8 p.m. in the Junior College auditorium. This is to be one of the major productions of the Northeast Junior College Speech Club this year.

Last-minute preparations of scenery and costumes are being made to get ready for the dress rehearsals scheduled early next week, Edward Longerich, director, announced Saturday.

The play, by Dorothy Bennett and Link Hannah, is based on the problems that confront young people today: The girl who can't find a job; the boy who is trying to make a small farm support him; the youngsters who choose the corner drug store with its nickel-consuming phonograph for their favorite rendezvous. Back of this is the amusing circumstances of a young girl taking lessons in glamour to prepare herself for marriage, thereby providing the basis for the comedy.

Edith Lingle, freshman, has been chosen to play the title role in the production. Other members of the cast are Dorothy Duncan, Tommy Elrod, Peggy Morrison, Mignon Griffing, Helen Fernandez, Billy Harp, Robert George, Elise Abernathy, Sonny Bubb, Joyce Siegle, Jerry Juneman, Mrs. Crystal Anthony, Olga Lipson, Louise McDonald, Foster Wilson and Joe Saragusa.

OCONTO, Wis.—(AP)—After explaining how to detect counterfeit money, secret service agent John Voss passed around a spurious $5 bill at a women's club meeting.

A genuine $5 bill was returned to him. One of the women, comparing bills and becoming confused, kept the wrong one. Voss came to the rescue.

HITLER FORCES MEET REVERSES IN MANY AREAS

Germans Bitterly Accuse Red Civilians Of Attacking From Rear

(By Associated Press)

Moscow, under the direst threat itself, proclaimed tonight that Rostov-on-Don had been delivered, its German captors routed from their week-old prize and plunged into westward flight by one of the most startling counter-offensives of the war.

The sharpest menace to the oil-rich Caucasus thus apparently had been shattered, for Rostov is the northern gateway to that vital region.

Premier Joseph Stalin himself sent a message of congratulations to his southern commanders for "deliverance of Rostov from the Fascist invaders" and "raising again our glorious Soviet flag in Rostov."

Declaring the southern army of Field Marshal General Ewald von Kleist smashed, the Russians said four divisions—the 14th and 16th tank divisions, the 60th motor division and the S. S. Viking division—were in full flight toward Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov.

The Moscow radio said that Red troops recrossed the Don and invested Rostov from the south in their major assault while other troops broke through to the northeast. The Germans were said to have lost 5,000 killed.

Adolf Hitler's high command already had acknowledged a partial withdrawal from the city.

Meanwhile in Paris two German soldiers were killed and many others wounded in a bomb explosion in a Montmartre restaurant. German authorities immediately set a 6 p.m. curfew for that section of the occupied capital.

Frenchmen Out After Early Curfew Warned They Will Be Shot

PARIS, Occupied France, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Germans announced tonight the death of two German soldiers and the wounding of many others in bombing attacks in defiance of a Nazi warning that further such incidents "would cause grave consequences for the Paris popularity."

The announcement was accompanied by an order from Lieutenant-General Ernst von Schaumburg, German commander of Paris, clamping on a strict curfew in the famed Montmartre district, scene of the latest attacks, and a warning that anyone venturing out there after 6 p.m. would be shot by Nazi patrols.

The latest attacks shifted to the far side of Montmartre hill—famed art and night life center—after previous explosions in the left bank student quarter on the other side of Paris.

The Montmartre attacks were reported to have occurred in restaurants requisitioned for Germans. In addition to the Germans, a French girl was said to have been killed.

They came on the heels of previous bombings in which no lives were lost, but which brought from von Schaumburg a 1,000,000-franc (officially $20,000) fine on the city of Paris and a warning of "grave consequences" if the attacks continued.

The curfew on all public places in the Montmartre district was set for a half hour before the curfew on individuals in the streets.

He served notice further that German patrols would use firearms against anybody keeping their windows open from 6 p.m. on.

Action Brought Against Funds Supervisor By Bolivar E. Kemp

AMITE, La., Nov. 29.—(AP)—District Attorney Bolivar E. Kemp today filed suit in the Tangipahoa district court against Supervisor of Public Funds Jerome A. Hayes for $10,000 damages for alleged libel.

The petition was in answer to Hayes' motion for Judge Robert S. Ellis to recuse himself in criminal proceedings in Tangipahoa pending against Hayes. The motion, which yesterday brought a contempt of court citation from Judge Ellis, declared that Sheriff Frank Edwards and District Attorney Kemp are leaders of a "courthouse ring" seeking to discredit him after he reported Sheriff Edwards' accounts reflected irregularities of more than $100,000.

The allegations in the district attorney's petition include:

"On November 26, 1941, Supervisor of Public Funds Jerome A. Hayes filed a motion demanding the recusal of Judge Robert S. Ellis. The motion in which it was seen fit to lug your petitioner's name and make false accusations against your petitioner was given wide publicity through the newspapers.

PRICE-CONTROL BILL ATTACKED

McNary Characterizes Measure As 'Toothless And Timorous'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, called the administration's price control bill "toothless and timorous" today as indications multiplied that bi-partisan efforts would be made in the senate to rewrite the much-amended measure passed by the house yesterday.

Joining with McNary, the minority leader, in criticism of the bill, Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, said that if there was to be effective control of prices the senate would have to write a much more drastic measure than that approved by the house.

In one of his rare public statements on legislation, McNary asserted that price fixing must be accompanied by elimination of "waste" in the defense program and by reduction in non-defense expenditures.

"I am afraid the measure passed by the house is toothless and timorous," he continued. "I am certain no price-fixing bill will be effective until we remove flagrant waste in defense expenditures, decrease non-defense expenditures and improve the pattern of our defense and domestic program."

McNary indicated his objections to the measure centered on the elimina-

Each day brings us nearer and nearer to the greatest holiday of the year. The stores are overflowing with all the good things of life suited to make happy young and old. Up and down DeSiard street "angel" forms are placed at vantage points to be illuminated and later equipped with music so that Christmas carols will ring out to the populace when the Christmas fiesta is held next Saturday. There is joyfulness in the air as busy shoppers good naturedly jostle each other as they make their way to busy counters to make their purchases.

But while all this setting adds to the happiness of the persons who have the good things of life, there are many little tots who are uncared for and to whom Christmas is but another drab and dreary day in their young lives. For just such as these, Good Fellows came into being and is the medium of imparting a ray of sunshine into lives that otherwise would know little real happiness on Christmas day.

Here is one of the letters reproduced as it came to us Saturday: "To the Good Fellows, city: I am writing you so that you can receive my letter in time for Christmas. I am a widow. Have had a paralytic stroke and can only use my left side a very little. Am on relief but I get such a small amount that it takes it all for rent and what I am forced to buy for food. Unless Good Fellows aid, I shall not have any Christmas dinner. I also need some gowns and a sweater. I am 55 and would so much appreciate anything you can do for me. Thanking you in advance, I am—"

PRESIDENT SAYS NATION BACKING FOREIGN POLICY

Warns Other Countries People Of America Are Standing Together

Nipponese Reportedly Massing Troops In French Indo-China

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. — (AP) — Alertly watching for Tokyo's next move in the acute Japan-American crisis, President Roosevelt warned other nations today that America is united behind his foreign policy of opposition to aggression anywhere on earth.

"That there is debate, or that there are statements of conflicting opinion prior to the decisions should not be taken by persons abroad as an indication of lack of cohesion among our people, though that mistake is sometimes made," he said. "While there I have always felt that those differences were of degree but not of principle."

Mr. Roosevelt's reply was made public by the senator. Whether it was timed to coincide with Japan's consideration of her next step was a matter of Washington conjecture. In this connection, however, it was pointed out that Japan, in the opinion of some, had been proceeding upon the assumption that American public opinion does not support the president's foreign policy.

DEWEY SPEAKS FOR CRIMINALS

Thinks They Should Have Chance After Paying Debt To Society

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—In eight years as a rough, tough district attorney, Thomas E. Dewey showed little mercy toward criminals; now, about to step from office, he has a kind word for some of them.

One of his greatest dislikes, he said yesterday in a virtual valedictory preliminary to his return to private law practice January 1, is the official oppression of ex-convicts such as Irving (Waxey Gordon) Wexler after they have paid their debt to society.

"They should be left alone and given a chance to rehabilitate themselves," the prosecutor asserted in criticizing officials who keep "pushing and elbowing crooks around" after they have served prison terms.

Referring specifically to Mayor F. H. La Guardia's standing orders to the police department to throw out of the city such characters as Gordon—former beer baron whose prosecution for income tax evasion Dewey lists as his most important case—and Bookmaker Frank A. Erickson, the district attorney declared:

"Personally I strongly disagree with that policy. I disapprove of it. I've felt all along that it's the business of

Interpreting The War News

By Kirke L. Simpson
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

British hopes of ultimately sweeping axis forces out of North Africa seemed keyed to the port of Tobruk as the second week of the Libyan offensive waned.

Grimly held by an allied British garrison for months against encircling German-Italian foes, that best harbor of the eastern Libyan coast is a vitally important supply bridgehead for further prompt British advance westward.

With reported British completion of the Rezegh-Tobruk junction at Ed Duda to slam shut the western gateway of the British trap on axis forces east of that line, the first phase of the fight was near a conclusion favorable to British hopes. There were indications, despite sharply conflicting British and axis accounts of what was happening with the trap, that German-Italian forces were making desperate attempts to break out westward for retreat into the mountainous Libyan hump.

A Cairo announcement said Tobruk's relieved garrison and comrades who cut their way to the Ed Duda junction have now struck out westward from the Tobruk front. That means they are endeavoring to clear up the deep ring of axis fortifications built up about the port, leaving the mopping up of axis resistance centers east of the Tobruk-Rezegh line to other forces.

With Tobruk firmly held by the British and its nearby siege zone cleared of axis forces, direct British sea-borne contact with Alexandria would be possible. It would free the desert highways and the Matruh-Alexandria railroad of much of the war traffic burden to sustain the British westward drive.

Tobruk, where the British navy managed to land tanks at night for use on the besieged garrison, is as vital for quick reinforcement of the Rezegh line as for a base to support a drive at Derna.

British determination to hold Tobruk for such ultimate use, even when Wavell's army was being hustled back to the Egyptian border by axis armies, is now plain. The garrison at Tobruk was ordered to hold out at all costs for that reason, relying on its sea supply route. British lives lost in that prolonged siege were not wasted if the port can now be converted into a spring-board for a driving attack to pen axis Libyan armies into the mountain hump west of Derna and north of Bengasi.

There is still no British word of the whereabouts of the column far to the south aimed at cutting axis communications west of the hump. Rome has reported it within almost striking distance of the Tripoli-Bengasi road but now hints it has been itself cut off in the desert.

If it is still moving westward and reaches its objective, coupled with the westward drive from Tobruk and the British patrol of the Mediterranean, a siege of the Libyan hump seems certain to develop.

NORTHERN STATES GET 'HEAT WAVE'

(By Associated Press)

Residents in most of the northern states forgot, temporarily at least today, that winter is just around the corner.

With the exception of some spots in the northern plains states, where typical fall weather prevailed, temperatures generally throughout the northern half of the nation were described by the United States weather bureau as "unseasonably high."

A temperature range from 65 to as high as 72 was in prospect for Missouri, Kansas, eastern Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio. The Chicago weather bureau attributed the "heat" wave to a low pressure through extending from the Texas Panhandle to the Great Lakes, which, combined with a high pressure condition in the east, resulted in strong warm winds from the southwest.

The outlook for the central west for tomorrow was for partly cloudy weather with a continuation of mild temperatures, dropping slightly in some areas.

Nippy temperatures, meanwhile, prevailed in the Dakotas. South Dakota readings were below freezing, while Devils Lake, N. D., had 11 above early this morning. The Chicago weather bureau said, however, that this cold air was moving slowly eastward, would not dip very far south.

WON'T DELAY DRAFT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Adjutant General Raymond H. Fleming, state selective service director, announced today that men scheduled for induction into the army during December will not be deferred until after Christmas. He said that a rumor had been circulated that draftees of next month would be allowed to stay home for Christmas holidays.

Axis Troops In Libya Try To Fight Way Out Of British-Laid Trap

Smash Head-On Into New Major Tank Battle With Enemy Forces

CAIRO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—German and Italian forces trapped east of Tobruk have reassembled "their remaining tanks" and, in a mighty effort to escape from their encirclement, have smashed head-on into a British wall and become deadlocked in a new major tank battle, the British announced today.

The battle began yesterday morning southwest of Rezegh and continued fiercely throughout the day and into the evening, "without either side having given or gained ground," the British middle east command stated in its communique.

The problem of the German commander, General Erwin Rommel, is to get his once-powerful mechanized and motorized panzer units westward out of immediate danger as efficiently as possible; the British aim is to keep them isolated, break them into smaller units, and annihilate them.

In assembling for the big break-out effort the Italian Ariete (Battering Ram) division managed to join the Nazi panzer forces, a British spokesman said, thereby forming a combination making the battle highly important and on a "considerable" scale.

Infantry fighting as heavy as any yet seen in Africa was raging around Tobruk, the spokesman said, although he emphasized that the main British aim was to smash the panzers.

With British air force attacking the axis forces steadily and with the British tanks holding fast against the hour-after-hour pounding, the spokesman described the situation generally as "very satisfactory."

(An authoritative source in London cautioned against any assumption "that it is impossible for the German and Italian tanks to break out of the encirclement." This source said there was no definite indication whether the axis armored forces possess sufficient quantities of supplies within the trap to permit prolonged fighting without relief.)

The British wall was being steadily strengthened as the axis forces smashed against it. The British communique said that British and New

DRIVE TO HURT MORALE BARED

Navy Says Organization Trading On Grief Of Dead Men's Families

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The navy charged today that an "organized campaign" was being waged to undermine civilian morale by trading on the grief of survivors of American seamen lost in the battle of the Atlantic.

Secretary Knox made public copies of a letter which the navy said had been circulated among parents of men lost when the destroyer Reuben James was sunk on October 31. The letter was put out, the navy department declared, by "We, the Mothers, Mobilized for America, Inc.," with headquarters in Chicago.

The particular copy which Knox made public had been forwarded to him by parents of a man first believed lost on the Reuben James but later found safe. The parents, writing at a time when they thought their son was dead, told the secretary:

"We reject sympathy from such an organization. They belong with the Nazi. Wipe them out of the U. S. A."

The names of the parents were not made public.

A spokesman said on behalf of the navy department that the letter was "part of an organized campaign to undermine civilian morale and the morale of the armed forces."

Secretary Knox disclosed at a press conference Wednesday that naval enlistments had dropped 15 per cent since the Reuben James and Kearny

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The house labor committee today told the house that its bill combining "cooling off" and plant seizure proposals for dealing with strikes contained "every provision necessary at this time to protect the defense program."

But Representative Smith, Democrat, Virginia, advocate of more restrictive measures on labor, declared in a statement that the committee's bill was "almost worthless" and, with dissatisfaction expressed by others, it was apparent that the legislation would run into strong opposition when it comes up for debate Monday.

Oregon State, Mississippi State Capture Loop Titles

By Herb Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Oregon State's Beavers captured the Pacific Coast conference football championship and a probable Rose Bowl assignment today as Mississippi State won the Southeastern conference crown for the first time in history and Navy turned back the Army for the third successive year.

The Beavers settled the wild Pacific Coast conference race with an exciting 12-7 decision over the University of Oregon as Stanford, only remaining contender, was badly beaten by California, 16-0. Oregon State lost to Southern California and Washington State but all other conference teams dropped at least three decisions in the conference.

Oregon State had to come from behind to win for Oregon gained a 7-6 lead on Curt Mecham's 53-yard touchdown run. Joe Day, Beaver fullback, scored the decisive touchdown on a 28-yard run a short while later.

Mississippi State annexed the Southeastern title by whipping the University of Mississippi, 6-0, on a 38-yard quarterback sneak by Sophomore Jennings Moates. Both Mississippi State and Mississippi entered the game undefeated in conference play.

Meanwhile Navy closed out a brilliant season by running over hard-fighting Army, 14-6, as a crowd of close to 100,000 looked on at Philadelphia. Army, dominating play in the first half, pushed over a touchdown in the second period but could not match Navy's closing drive. Led by Bill Busik and Howie Clark, the Tars scored twice in the third period and closed down on every Army threat. Navy thus closed a successful season marred only by the defeat by Notre Dame and a tie with Harvard.

Other leading engagements in the east saw Fordham's once-beaten Rams trounce New York University, 30-9, to keep alive their hopes of a bowl

Eats 'Third Thanksgiving Dinner' With Paralysis Patients

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The tumult of war in Europe and the far east intruded but faintly on President Roosevelt and a tardy Thanksgiving dinner with the patients at the Warm Springs foundation for victims of infantile paralysis.

The chief executve arrived here at noon from Washington, greeted old friends, and spent the afternoon listening to part of the Army-Navy football game by radio while driving his own car around the foundation. He also outlined an informal address for the program following the dinner.

Mr. Roosevelt hoped to remain here at least until the middle of next week, but the length of his stay hinged on the prickly Japanese situation.

He shared an evening of fun with the patients at the foundation, their friends and relatives.

For Mr. Roosevelt, it was a "third Thanksgiving dinner." Pressing international and domestic affairs had compelled him to postpone twice his visit

'Practical' Education

A national defense emergency, with its demand for trained technicians, is pounced upon by those schoolmen who are opposed to traditional education with its emphasis upon the humanities. They become louder and more insistent in their demands for much that is embodied in what they denounce as "classical" education to be thrown overboard.

In lieu of this they would furnish to youth—all of it—in the secondary schools technical training for a livelihood. Furthermore, they would overhaul college curricula to the extent that subjects would be acid-tested for their own contribution to gainful living.

In this, of course, the propagandists of the "practical" go too far. Secondary schools today, at least in the larger cities, offer opportunities for technical training in arts and sciences for any who are not going on to college. And in the field of higher education the nation has institutes of technology unsurpassed anywhere.

Happily, therefore, the proponents of liberal arts in colleges give no sign of being stampeded by this clamor for subordinating everything else to training the individual for his job. In higher education that is the function not of the college but of the professional school. More and more such schools of national standing are requiring for admission a college degree or at least three years of college training by a student or proven brilliance.

The study of history, literature, languages, economics, sociology, psychology, philosophy, mathematics and elements of the natural sciences trains young men and young women to reason. It gives them balance. With that training they enter upon life better equipped because they have some sort of understanding of what man has thought and done, of what he is thinking and doing.

And, after all—as the unstampeded college presidents insist—this is a training not for an emergency, but for a fuller life in a better world after the emergency has passed. Even the traditional education is modified with the passage of the years, as witness the gradual disappearance of the teaching of Greek. But it is not, like Jericho's walls, to be tumbled at a shout. Many tolerant educators permit themselves a grin as they recall the furor occasioned a decade ago by the advocates of technocracy.

99 PER CENT'S PRETTY GOOD

Tax collections are a problem to almost every city in the country. Just how serious it may become was shown by a recent survey in Cleveland which revealed so much tax delinquent land that it could not be sold without disrupting the real estate market; acres and acres just hanging, useless, and virtually without any owner at all. The same situation holds in many cities which have not yet realized it.

Norwalk, Connecticut, tells a different story. This year's tax collections are expected to total 99 per cent of the levy. Intrigued, the Municipal Finance Officers' association found the reasons simple: (1) plenty of publicity and advertising; (2) good periodic reports to taxpayers; (3) diligence in getting after delinquents, and (4) efficiency and courtesy in the tax office.

No miracles, not even anything up the sleeve.

FIVE-CENT CIGAR DAYS

Tom Marshall, in idyllic days of his vice-presidency, wisecracked himself into immortality by jesting that "what this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

Well, the country got it. Now it's in danger of losing it.

Rising excise taxes on tobacco, shortage of cigarmakers (many of whom are girls who are turning to marriage or wives who are being enabled by husband's higher earnings to return to domesticity), higher tobacco costs, difficulty of obtaining machinery—all these factors are closing down on the old five-cent cigar. It still stands, like the Rock of Gibraltar, as a bulwark of the American way. But like the Rock of Gibraltar, the war is closing in on it. Taxes are in sight which would move the old five-center into the two-for-fifteen class, leaving its old place of honor to the lowly "two-fer."

LOW FLIGHT AND THE SEVEN DWARFS

Seven countries, announces Hitler triumphantly, have joined the anti-Comintern pact.

And what are the seven countries which have thus rallied about Hitler's Holy Crusade? Why, they are Denmark and Croatia, which have no government but that provided by the German military. They are Bulgaria, Rumania and Slovakia, which move only in a semblance of life at the pulling of Hitlerian strings. They are Finland, caught in the whirlpool between Soviet and Nazi floodwaters without a rudder of her own. And the Nanking regime in China, nameless and lifeless puppet of Japan.

This soaring flight into the ether of propaganda is supposed to impress a popeyed world. For us, it flies so low as scarcely to get off the ground at all.

President Quezon of the Philippines was reelected by a crushing majority—but his platform did not call for independence this time.

There's something almost eerie in the death the other day of Bud Abbott's dog, "Bitsey." Abbott acquired the pet when it was a nondescript puppy, over 13 years ago. At that time he and Lou Costello were eking out a precarious existence in vaudeville—playing unimportant bits. Hence the dog's name—Bitsey. Abbott intended it as a sardonic take-off on the professional unimportance of Abbott and Costello. About the time of their Hollywood debut and sudden success, Bitsey's health began to wane. As they climbed, picture by picture, to the top of the Hollywood ladder, the dog steadily declined—and finally died on the very day that Abbott and Costello started work in an MGM super-super at the highest salary they were ever paid.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

Boys and girls of all ages, like to belong to a society of their own, like to feel themselves strong and important there, and gladly do whatever work their belonging entails.

The Boy Scouts, the Campfire Girls, the Naval Cadets, are a few of the many good associations to which children and young people belong. Just now there is another one that appeals to them, one which should be encouraged and fostered by every father and mother, every teacher, social worker and national well-wisher in the country—The Junior Red Cross.

We are living in an atmosphere of trouble. War shadows our lives and whatever work we do, at home or abroad, touches this war notion so that we cannot escape it. We are building up the Red Cross to war strength, and wisely.

The children feel our unrest and anxiety. They hear about the Red Cross membership, its work, its reason for being, and their minds are troubled. If we are not careful to allay their fears we are going to have a lot of sick, ailing, fear-stricken children and young people.

The very best way to prevent this war-fear among them is to put them to work in the country's service. Fear is driven out the moment active work against it begins. A child busy with defense work will not be subject to fear so much nor so often as the one who sits and worries about it. Get them all to work.

The Junior Red Cross programs offer work that interests all kinds of children. They cook, mend, make things for soldiers. They knit and make bandages, and they collect necessary materials when called on. They plan and carry through entertainments that raise money, entertain ailing or lonely people. They make scrap books. They run errands. They type and they read; they even dance for their cause.

All they need is good leadership to start them on their way, hold them there, and through their experience, learn wholesome practical ways of living that will stand them in good stead in days to come.

I am against war scares and war propaganda for children. I believe they can be permitted to skip all that and still be trained and prepared for any emergency. "This thing you do," is good education and good training in any emergency, any day, anywhere and training in first aid, cooking, mending, housekeeping and hospital life, nursing, office work, errands, entertaining—any specific instruction that merges into practical service, such as the Junior Red Cross classes offer, will stabilize children and mature them mentally and physically.

All the children need for this work is good leadership and this is readily obtained, so readily, that not to avail oneself of its influence is unthinkable in this day of distress. Every school, every community, should organize its children in Junior Red Cross groups and do everything possible to forward the work to be found within its range.

There is no finer way to prepare children for war emergencies than this.

Sunday School Lesson

The Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 7
Text: Acts 2:41-47; Ephesians 4:11-16
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor of Advance)

When we consider the extent and nature of the Christian church in all its various branches today and in its worldwide organization, we are impressed with the simplicity of its early beginnings.

The Christian church did not arise out of the plans of some promotional organizer. There was no advance prospectus or blueprint of a proposed organization. The church definitely grew out of an experience. It was not a matter of organization awaiting or developing life; it was life leading to organization.

Jesus in one sense was the founder of the church, but in another sense its foundation came after He had left the earthly scene. Although Jesus did not formally organize the church, there was more organization associated with His ministry than is commonly supposed. He gathered about Him the apostles, to whom were committed special privileges and responsibilities, and with whom He communed concerning the deep things of the Kingdom, so that He developed an inner band of disciples—a sort of Christian cabinet—to carry on His work. Also, He organized the "seventy" who went through the villages teaching and preaching, two by two.

Although Jesus in one sense did not found the church, it was built definitely and directly upon Him and His teachings and upon the new experience of life through the gospel that He had brought to man. We sing today "The church's one foundation is Jesus Christ her Lord," and that is a sentiment thoroughly true to the New Testament in its account of the origin of the Christian church.

The church, as I have said, had its origin in the experiences of the new life. More definitely, it began as these experiences found expression in the remarkable events on the Day of Pentecost. Here, as the disciples were gathered together in one place, there came a strange outpouring of spiritual power. Peter, who formerly had denied his Lord, preached with great boldness and courage about the reality of the Christian way, and brought home to the hearts and consciences of his hearers the realization of their sin. The result was that many were brought into the Christian way, and as our simple record is, "The Lord added daily to the church those that were saved."

For the description of this early church and some detailed events of its workings, we are dependent largely upon the light from Paul's Epistles. The passage in our lesson from his Epistle to the Ephesians is one of the most striking of Paul's references to the church. Here he gives us some insight into its organization, and, what is more important, a clear statement of the nature and work of the church. It is a noble ideal that he sets before us, of the church as a body incorporating the spirit of Christ.

The church is still waiting for the fulfillment of that ideal, and the world itself will never find peace until the unity in love of which Paul speaks becomes the dominant mark of human society.

IN WASHINGTON

By Milton Bronner
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—Uncle Sam is a stingy boss who ought to pay many of his civilian employes a better wage.

Such is the claim of three rival national organizations of federal employes, the National Federation of Federal Employes, the Amercian Federation of Government Employes and the United Federal Workers of America.

They have many differing planks in their platforms, but all agree on three things:

A pledge in their constitutions that they will not tolerate strikes against the government.

A minimum wage of $1500 a year.

The government is the biggest employer of labor in the country. In the executive branches, there are 1,391,687 workers, 185,182 being right here in the capital. A survey made in 1937 by the Civil Service Commission showed that 92 per cent of all government employes outside the postal service received less than $3000 a year; 71 per cent got less than $2000; 44 per cent made less than $1500, and 11 per cent less than $1000.

To remedy this, Congressman John E. Sheridan of Philadelphia introduced a bill which provides that every annual compensation of less than $1200 shall be increased to $1500; compensation of more than $1200 and less than $3200 shall be increased $300, except that $3000 employes shall get $200 more and the $3100 employes shall get $100 more. Hourly wage rates would be increased 10 cents an hour.

Only One Appeal

Congressman Sheridan said millions of workers in private industry through their unions secure increased wages, but organized government workers do not have the same avenue of collective bargaining. They can only come to congress and ask for relief. He said a government survey in 1939 showed that the cost of living at maintenance level for a manual worker's family of four in Washington was $1481.76 a year. This means that 44 per cent of the government employes receive less than necessary to support a manual worker's family.

One striking fact is the small number of government employes who are enrolled in unions. According to their own figures, there are 75,000 in the National Federation of Federal Employes, 40,000 in the American Federation of Government Employes and 27,000 in the United Federal Workers of America. That adds up to only about 10 per cent of government employes.

The American Federation of Government Employes is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and the United Federal Employes are affiliated with C. I. O. The latter has announced it intends to drive toward enrolling 1,000,000 members. Michael Widman, assistant director of C. I. O. organization, directed the campaign among employes of the Ford Motor company successfully, and has been assigned this new job. The C. I. O. affiliate was founded in 1937, and has 203 locals of which 30 are in the District of Columbia. Like all C. I. O. unions, it does not go by crafts but takes in all employes.

Wants Moving Costs

The oldest organization is the National Federation of Federal Workers, founded in 1917. Formerly affiliated with A. F. of L., it withdrew in 1931. N. F. F. W. has 722 locals, 13 being in Washington. In addition to the planks common to all three organizations, it demands a shorter work week and allowance for transportation costs if employes are transferred from one city to another.

The American Federation of Government Employes was founded in 1932. It has 600 locals, 77 in Washington. Among its planks are demands for a bonus of $240 a year to offset the present increased cost of living, a five-day week, and establishment of a board of appeals to hear complaints of employes about decisions of the Civil Service Commission.

The right of government employes to organize in unions was conferred upon them by an act of Congress, approved August 24, 1912, but that organization has progressed slowly. Maybe it will be different now with hot-shot organizers at work for C. I. O.

University of Utrecht Marks 307th Birthday

FOUNDED about the time a small colony in America held its first Thanksgiving, the University of Utrecht in Holland celebrated its 300th anniversary in 1934.

The stamp above, issued in 1936 to commemorate the school's tercentenary, bears a picture of Minerva, the Greek goddess of learning and military wisdom.

The university, founded in 1634, was enlarged in 1894, and is attached to the Domkerk by old Gothic cloisters. Occupying the palace built for Louis Bonaparte, king of Holland, in 1807, is the valuable library which contains more than 200,000 volumes and manuscripts.

Containing examples of all branches of sacred art in the Netherlands is the episcopal museum, built in 1872. There is also a museum for natural history, botanical garden and an observatory in addition to extensive laboratories.

There are several other museums exhibiting the culture of Holland. One, the Museum Kunstliefde, has a small picture gallery remarkable for pictures by Jan Scorel (1495-1562). The museum of antiquities contains a miscellaneous collection.

The city was the scene of the treaty-making diplomats who concluded the War of the Spanish Succession, 1713 and 1714.

New York Day by Day

Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: The famil council has agreed to let Slug, th pup, go to young David Stinson, on farm, near Johnstown, Pa. Mary, wh held out longest against giving th dog away, voted with the rest of th jury when the excited Slug nearl threw the mistress down while cros ing the street on leash. . . . So I hav a trip ahead, delivering the dog to th boy. . . . It is strange that fountai pens are so easily lost and so diffi cult to replace. I become as attache to a pen as to a watch, and wande about in a fog when my favorite pe disappears. . . . Lawyer Tom Lyncl of Los Angeles, comes in to visi while on a brief visit to New Yorl He was a rising young red-heade lawyer in Omaha when I was a cu reporter, covering courts, there. . . Louis Bromfield, who hails froi Mansfield, O., and has achieved grea success as a writer of good nove that reach a large audience, has don it again with "Wild is the River." . . Florida, I learn, is represented i Statuary hall, Washington, by the fig ure of Dr. John Gorrie, credited wit the invention of artificial refriger ation. I have had many letters froi Florida, calling attention to this di tinction. But just now, in our le balmy New York, we'd like to hon the memory of the man who invente the idea of piping steam under th streets, to serve many buildings. It what makes life possible in many co gested areas.

In case you ever want to angel Broadway show, some figures I hear today might interest you.

A friend of mine had just receive an auditor's statement concerning musical comedy.

My friend has "a piece of the show as they say in Broadway. He has pu a bucketful of money into prepara tions. The musical comedy is now o the road, preparatory to opening i New York. This is the stage know as trying it on the dog.

It is customary for a show involv ing heavy expenditure to open i Washington, Baltimore, New Have Providence, Boston, or some such cit play a few nights for audience reac tion, and, if the backers can affor further trials move on to one or mor other cities before sending up th curtain on Broadway.

The road run of this particular mu sical is costing the backers $15,000.

Rarely does a show pay expens during its preliminary try-out run o the road.

The costuming of a musical come that has any chance of success wi cost from $25,000 to $40,000, dependin upon how elaborate are the costume how large the company, and ho liberal the backers.

There is an item called "buildin drapes, and painting."

That includes any changes in sta structure that have to be made, th building of heavy pieces, paintin such items, and the drapes at window and around the stage. This is s down at $26,000.

"Furniture and props" is an ite that includes all the furniture use in scenes and all the propertie which run from axes and handsaws stove pokers and push-carts. This a small item in the musical in whic my friend is interested. Only $1,10

Electrical equipment comes to $3,00

In many shows, a good deal of th electrical equipment is rented. Thu the bill is kept far below what might reach if the show bought th material outright.

"Frames and photos" is an impor tant item.

It includes the blown-up phot graphs used in lobby displays and i windows about town. Listed at $2.2 for this show. Only the best theatr cal photographers are employed.

Hauling, which means trucking sce ery and properties, comes to $2,80 Orchestrations and musical arrang ments cost $4,000.

Designers and directors have bee advanced cash amounting to $5,500.

Rehearsal salaries come to $6,100.

Rail fares for the out-of-town try outs, $3,000.

Office expenses, before the curtai rises on Broadway, $3,000.

So, you see, it's no business for piker. Because your show may be flop, no matter how much money yo put into it.

It cost $80,000 to ring up the openin night curtain for "Let's Face It."

PROTESTS PURCHASE FROM SHOUP FIRM

BANKS MAIL OUT CHRISTMAS CASH

Central Savings Distributes Over $100,000; Ouachita Fund Also Large

The annual Christmas savings funds of both the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company and the Ouachita National Bank closed Saturday and checks will be in the mail Monday, officials of the banks stated. The Central Savings Bank and Trust Company is mailing out, according to Vice-President J. S. Washburn, more than $100,000, which is by far the largest sum similarly disbursed, he said. Ouachita bank officials, while not giving exact figures, stated that the sum also will be larger than in past years.

The Central Savings Bank and Trust Company's savings fund checks total $100,347.39 this year, Mr. Washburn said. Every year has seen a substantial gain made without any great effort on the part of the institution which annually closes the fund on the last day in November and opens it for the succeeding year on December 1, he said.

More people this year continued their weekly or monthly deposits than in past years, which is regarded as indicating more prosperous times for the community, he said.

One account was in the sum of $5,000; two were for $1,000 each, and one for $750, stated officials of the Central Savings Bank and Trust company.

Both banks on Monday will open the Christmas savings fund for 1941-1942.

FEMALE COPS

BIRMINGHAM, England —(AP)— So that regular policemen may be relieved for more important wartime duties, Birmingham's chief constable has appealed for at least 50 women to form a women's auxiliary police corps. They will do clerical and telephone work and drive police cars. They will wear distinctive uniforms and be paid about $10 a week.

HITLER FORCES MEET REVERSES

northwestern fringe of Moscow's defense zone plunged headlong across snowy plains last night, the Germans striking through for a frontal onslaught against the capital and the Russians fiercely attempting to halt them short of their goal with a flank offensive.

The fate of Moscow appeared to be wrapped up in the question of whether the Red army could strike the German flank hard and deep enough to deflect the drive.

The Russians were reported sweeping across the ice-paved Volga, driving the Germans out of town after town in the Kalinin sector, 90 miles northwest of Moscow, while the Germans announced in swift succession the capture of three important strong points between Kalinin and Moscow—Volokolamsk, 65 miles from the capital, Klin, 50 miles, Solnetschnogorski, 31 miles.

On the southern front, Soviet troops battled at the gates of Rostov-on-Don to press one of the biggest setbacks yet experienced by the Germans in two years of war.

A bulletin from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters admitted that German forces had fallen back from the principal sections of Rostov, relinquishing their grip on a strategic prize for the first time since the withdrawal from Narvik, Norway, in the spring of 1940.

The big Don river port, with a normal population of 500,000, guards the northern approach to Russia's great Caucasus oil fields.

Bitterly accusing Rostov's civil population of attacking German troops from the rear, the Nazi high command marked the city for several reprisals. Presumably, Nazi troops were evacuated to permit retaliation in the form of bombing, shelling or dynamiting the city.

Countering these reverses, German military dispatches besides claiming the fall of three key points on Moscow's defense arc reported that axis armies in the Crimea had seized the Black sea port of Balaklava, scene of the storied "charge of the light brigade," just a few miles southeast of Russia's big Sevastopol naval base.

The Russians had conceded Nazi thrusts to the Klin sector several days ago and the Germans have previously claimed their advance troops had reached Solnetschnogoski.

With Japan closely watching the ebb and flow of Europe's conflict, the day brought reports of axis reverses from Arctic Murmansk to the sands of North Africa:

These were the high spots:

1. Arctic—The London admiralty announced that British submarines slashing at German reinforcements en route to the far north front around Murmansk had sunk at least eight Nazi troop and supply ships and damaged five others.

Informed London quarters said the German troops were probably being sent to the Finnish port of Petsamo, west of Murmansk, for a winter offensive to cut off Russia's Arctic ports—probably including Archangel, port of entry for United States war supplies to Soviet.

2. Moscow front—The Russians declared that Soviet Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's armies had smashed back German forces in two key sectors on the south and west, around Stalinogorsk and Mozhaisk, and had driven the Germans from 10 villages in a progressing counter-attack in the north between Klin and Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of the capital.

3. Ukraine front—The Soviet radio reported that a powerful counter-offensive by Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's southern armies had recaptured the old section of Rostov-on-Don, in a 35-mile advance from the region of Novocherkassk.

4. North African front—The British reported that General Sir Alan Cunningham's desert armies were engaged in a great new battle of tanks with the axis, and that German General Erwin Rommel had thrown his last "remaining tanks" into action in a desperate attempt to escape the jaws of a British trap east of Tobruk.

The climactic struggle over the Libyan desert sands began Friday morning southeast of Rezegh, 10 miles from Tobruk, and was reported still raging in full violence "without either side having given or gained ground."

Glare blindness, caused by motor car headlights, lasts longer in women than in men, according to scientists.

AXIS TROOPS IN NEW BIG BATTLE

Zealand forces were "gradually widening their corridor of contact" established after the long-besieged Tobruk garrison battled its way to freedom and junction with the invading forces from the east.

Overhead the British air force cut hard at the axis forces struggling on the ground. "On a number of occasions," said the British bulletin, "our air force was able to take full advantage of opportunities offered to attack enemy concentrations in cooperation with our ground troops."

Bombing and Beau fighter machine-gun attacks were described as "particularly successful" against the German and Italian armored forces locked in tank battle at the jaws of the big British trap.

As the axis force moved westward, the air force, first to meet it, bombed it continuously. Then concetrations of British tanks and armored cars attacked, and the big battle was under way.

While the British communique placed the scene of the battle as being simply "southeast of Rezegh," other sources said it was being fought in the vicinity of 20 miles south of Gambut, which would be about 40 miles southwest of Rezegh.

As night descended the tank forces fought on by moonlight and battle lines were fluid.

This battle was the second big tank engagement of the current Libyan campaign. The first, joined soon after the British invasion began 12 days ago, ended with the British announcing that the axis forces had been defeated and divided.

As this fighting raged south and east of Tobruk, the British forces proceeding on westward from the town ran into German resistance described in the communique as stiff.

The British forces which battled their way out of Tobruk up to Wednesday night had captured 79 field and medium guns from the axis forces, with "quantities of light anti-aircraft and anti-tank artillery, machine guns and small arms," the British statement said.

Capture by the British of an "important stronghold" north of Bir El Hamed, near the Egyptian border, along with several hundred Italian prisoners was announced in the communique.

(The Italian high command Saturday announced destruction of a British motorized brigade on the central Bibyan front and capture of more than 1,000 prisoners, including the brigade commander. London sources in comment said no general of the names variously given—"Cownes" and "Karges"—was in the vicinity. Earlier the British had acknowledged that the fifth South African brigade had been "surprised" by axis troops at Rezegh early this week, and that casualties, including prisoners taken, might run to 1,200.)

of the peace in the Pacific, Japanese emissaries here were given a near-ultimatum several days ago, reasserting the American policy of opposition to conquest and aggression. The question of peace or war, some government spokesmen have said, rests upon Tokyo's response.

Meanwhile, Japan has been reportedly massing troops in French Indo-China for a drive into Thailand (Siam). The Japanese cabinet met for a second time today to consider the results of the Washington negotiations. Thailand was preparing for war and its officials were reportedly conferring with British authorities at nearby Singapore, the great English naval base. Domei, the Japanese news agency, warned that if the United States should institute an air patrol of the Burma road—Chinese army supply route—it would be considered an act of "provocation" by Japan.

Here, Secretary Hull and Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, talked over the Far Eastern situation for nearly an hour. Halifax told reporters the British and American governments were cooperating closely and that it was up to Japan alone to make the momentous choice.

At a press conference, Secretary Hull said there were no announcements to be made until Japan's decision is known. He declined to answer a question whether a Japanese attack on Thailand would bring on a major conflict in the Pacific, referring his questioners to the army and navy.

SHARK BITE

THREAT MADE TO PURGE BRITISH

United States to fish in troubled waters of East Asia by pitting East Asiatic peoples against one another and to grasp hegemony in East Asia.

"This is the stock in trade of Britain and the United States. For the honor and pride of mankind we must purge this sort of practice from East Asia with a vengeance."

Many countries, he said, were indulging in actions hostile to Japan.

The Domei news agency reported from an army air base in northern Indo-China that Japanese planes had bombed the Burma road, the route for United States aid to Chungking, for the first time in several months.

The press generally showed concern over the future of Thailand.

The newspaper said that only the joint defense agreement with Vichy prevented Indo-China from falling into these arms, so the policy was amply justified.

Domei referred to reports printed in the Japanese press that the United States had decided to start an aerial patrol of China's Burma road, and declared:

"If the skies over the Burma road are patrolled by United States air forces it is obvious this move would be taken as the result of discussions among the so-called A. B. C. D. group, and Japan must view such action as a most daring armed challenge against her on the part of the A. B. C. D. camp."

Domei said the aerial patrol at first glance appeared to be legal if the consent of the Chinese and Burmese were obtained.

All that observers knew was that the cabinet held its meeting, but they concluded from the fact that the cabinet gave consideration to the note yesterday that the ministers charged with making decisions in one of the most fateful hours of Japan's history were giving prolonged and careful examination to the Washington negotiations.

Observers agreed that the United States had tossed Japan the ball and that it was now up to the Japanese.

In the absence of any guiding policy, the press commented on the feverish crisis in rambling fashion.

Hochi said Britain's spurt to strengthen Hongkong's defenses was wasted effort because the city could be captured easily.

(Realistic war maneuvers with a blackout, mock air raid, civic guards chasing pseudo saboteurs, explosions, gunfire, parachute flares and simulated fires were held at Hongkong.

(A Reuters dispatch from Singapore said leave of all troops there had been cancelled as "a normal precautionary move in view of the Pacific situation.")

Miyako featured a photograph of United States ship unloading war supplies for China at Rangoon, Burma.

Asahi declared the Thais felt their nation would be involved in war if the Washington talks collapse and that Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet ambassador en route to Washington, had stopped in the Thailand capital to confer with British and American envoys there.

Asahi also said President Roosevelt's reference to unarmed American vessels in the Pacific under "present circumstances" was a "trick."

All papers gave prominence to the president's statements indicating the crisis may come to a head before Tuesday.

"American military leaders hold secret conference" was a typical headline over the president's conference with General Marshall, army chief of staff, Admiral Stark, chief of naval operations, Secretary of State Hull, Navy Secretary Knox and War Secretary Stimson.

A broadcast of Domei, Japanese news agency, quoted authoritative Japanese sources as saying institution of a United States air patrol over the Burma road, China's truck line to the outside world, would be "an example of the most provocative armed aggression."

The British radio reported that Thailand had sent a military representative to Singapore to confer with British defense chiefs.

Chungking authorities voiced apprehension that the Japanese intended to attack Thailand or the Chinese southern province of Yunnan in order to cut the Burma road.

In either case the defenders will not be fighting alone, these authorities declared.

The Chungking foreign minister, Quo Tai-Chi, conferred for an hour with United States Ambassador Clarence E. Gauss.

Chinese reports in Chungking said United States warships were convoying lend-lease supplies to Rangoon for China.

In Hanoi, capital of Japanese-occupied French Indo-China, the governor general, Vice-Admiral Jean Decoux, denied French forces were being mobilized but reserved the right to take "all measures."

Observers at Manila, the Philippines, said Japan is reported to be completing two and possibly four new 35,000-ton battleships.

Manila quarters with close contact with Japan's puppet Chinese regime at Nanking said German diplomats, under direct instruction from Hitler, are trying to patch up a Chinese-Japanese peace with the idea of freeing Japan's army and air force for other theaters of action.

The Washington talks have strengthened the hands of a few peace advocates at Chungking, these sources said.

PRESIDENT SAYS WAR MAY COME NEXT YEAR

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said tonight it was always possible that "our boys in the military and naval academies may be fighting for the defense of American institutions" by next Thanksgiving. He then conferred with Secretary Hull by telephone, and considered rushing back to Washington because of the latest turn in the Japanese situation.

Mr. Roosevelt made his ominous statement about the possibility of fighting at a dinner at the Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis Victims.

Returning to the "little White House" on Pine mountain, he found a call from Hull awaiting him, and reached the opinion that he might have to leave here tomorrow afternoon, and arrive in Washington Monday morning, in view of a statement by Japanese Premier Hideki Tojo.

The premier asserted earlier today that Japan would have to do everything possible to wipe out a vengeance British and United States exploitation in the Far East.

Stephen Early, presidential press secretary, told reporters: "As soon as the president returned to the cottage following the dinner this evening, he found a call waiting from the secretary of state and they held a lengthy conversation.

"In view of the reported statement—an Associated Press dispatch by the premier of Japan, the president tonight is of the opinion that we may have to leave Warm Springs tomorrow afternoon, arranging the railroad schedule so as to arrive in Washington Monday before noon."

The chief executive spoke of people in other lands overrun or attacked and those even in countries which are attacking. Then he added solemnly: I think we can offer a little silent prayer that these people will be able to hold next year a Thanksgiving more like an American Thanksgiving. That is something to dream about, perhaps.

"In days like these, our Thanksgiving next year may remind us of a peaceful past; it is always possible that our boys in the military and naval academies may be fighting for the defense of these American institutions of ours."

The president, who twice postponed trips to Warm Springs, where he had planned to observe Thanksgiving, said he could not help thinking of those things and the dangers overhanging the country while he was in Washington contemplating his journey a week and a half ago. And he said he might have to go back tomorrow or the next day, but he did not know.

And, he said, this was a year for thanksgiving especially because the people in the Warm Springs dining room, in the community, the state and the United States were in a unique position today. The United States is one of the largest nations in the world, Mr. Roosevelt remarked, and nearly all the other large nations are involved in a war of some kind or normal lives within them are almost completely blotted out or controlled by a dictator.

Leading up to his remark that men from the military and naval academies might be fighting for defense in a year, the president said he had listened to broadcasts of two football games this afternoon, between Georgia and Georgia Tech at Atlanta and the Army and Navy at Philadelphia.

"They were great games, run in the spirit of peace," he said. "And the right kind of national spirit of peace is necessary for the right conduct of either the Georgia game or the Army-Navy game. How many other countries in the world could have things like that going on."

So, he went on, he thought Americans had great cause to be thankful that in the years since 1918 they had been able to hold their gains or carry on health and educational and other programs on a cooperative basis.

The chief executive spoke informally, without notes. Whether his words about the possibility of fighting were based on some undisclosed specific knowledge of events that may be expected in the field of foreign affairs or merely were intended as a generalization and warning was not readily discernable.

DISSATISFIED WITH AMERICAN POSITION

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Japan has replied to the United States note setting forth America's position in the Far East and expressed dissatisfaction with certain points, the British radio said tonight in a broadcast relayed from Tokyo broadcast. The BBC broadcast was heard by NBC.

The Quartermaster Corps of the Fourth Corps Area, with headquarters in Atlanta, purchased 3,289,000 paper bags and 143,912 pounds of wax paper to wrap lunches for troops during the war games.

Penn State won a hard-earned 19-1[illegible] victory over South Carolina but West Virginia fell before Michigan State 14-12, and Xavier of Cincinnati scored a surprise triumph over Georgetown 14-6.

Nebraska, edging out Oklahoma 7-6 finished in a tie with the Sooners for second place in the Big Six conference race won by Missouri. Iowa State Big Six school, was no match for Marquette and went down, 28-13 Kansas State bowed to Arizona, 28-21.

Texas Christian rallied to whip Southern Methodist, 15-13, and thus tied Texas for second place in the Southwest conference race won by Texas A. and M. Rice walloped Baylor, 28-14.

Frank Sinkwich tossed three touchdown passes as Georgia easily whipped Georgia Tech, 21-0, in the Southeastern conference. Tennessee, showing surprising strength and depending largely on a pair of sophomores, Walter Slater and Bobby Cifers, handed Vanderbilt a bad beating, 26-7. Louisiana State mopped up erratic Tulane 19-0. Auburn upset favored Clemson 28-7.

In the Southern conference, North Carolina State surprised once-beaten William and Mary and won comfortably, 13-0. Virginia Tech stopped Richmond by the same score. Wake Forest was roundly drubbed by Texas Tech, 35-6.

Washington took a 14-13 decision from Southern California in a Pacific Coast conference game.

WINNERS NAMED IN STOCK SHOW

5-Year-Old Illinois Cattleman Has Champion Steer Among 691

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A 15-year-old Illinois cattleman and a Canadian wheat grower shared top honors today as the 42nd International Livestock exposition swung into its eight-day run.

T. Richard Lacy, second year high school student from Kansas, Ill., emerged from among a record-breaking junior livestock entry list with the champion steer of the youngsters' show, a 950-pound Hereford steer named "T-O Again."

There were 691 steers in the junior show, a record number.

Grain judges, meantime, finishing some of their work unusually early, named William Miller of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, as wheat king of the North American continent. His sample of Reward variety of hard red spring wheat was adjudged best.

The Pillsbury award, given this year for the first time, for the best wheat grown in the United States, went to L. E. Peterson, of Victor, Mont., on his sample of hard red winter wheat. Canadians have won the wheat king title every year since 1928.

Young Lacy, blond, a grinning 4-H club boy, bought the steer last January 18, when it weighed but 350 pounds. Under his care it was fed a commercial supplement, corn, oats, hay and a protein compound.

Lacy's father, Richard Lacy, said the steer came from the T-O ranch in New Mexico. The elder Lacy is a cattle feeder on his 160-acre farm and has exhibited carloads of Herefords at the international for 20 years.

"This was the first year I missed winning carload prizes, but my boy made up for it," he chuckled.

Reserve champion of the junior show was a heavy Aberdeen Angus shown by Robert Miller of Arcola, Ill.

Monroe Duck Hunter Learns Of Work Of Canadian Bird Refuge

Jack Miner Of Canada Spreads Gospel By Banding Fowls

When out duck hunting recently L. D. Vaughan, 602 Bres avenue, shot a bird that had a metal leg band on which was the name and address of Jack Miner, Kingsville, Ont., Canada. Mr. Vaughan communicated with Mr. Miner and was pleased to receive a letter revealing the interesting life work that has been entered into by this Canadian.

The letter received as reply to Mr. Vaughan, ran as follows:

"Dear Friend: Thanks for reporting the bird you got with a Jack Miner band on its leg. The said bird was banded by Jack Miner at the Jack Miner bird sanctuary, at Kingsville, Ont., which is but 25 miles from Detroit, Mich. If you have not done so, will you please return the band, as Jack Miner saves them for a little museum of natural history which he hopes friends will some day build here at the bird sanctuary.

"Jack Miner is the pioneer bird-bander on the continent. He tagged his first bird, which was a duck, at his bird sanctuary at Kingsville, in August, 1909, and it was reported shot by Dr. W. E. Bray, of Anderson, S. C., in January, 1910. His object in banding birds is to study their exact migration route. To learn how long they live. To learn how far they travel. All such information has a scientific value.

"On the duck and goose bands you will find the letter S or F. The S stands for spring and the F for fall, indicating the season when banded. Also a number indicates the year banded. Also on the duck and goose bands will be found a verse of Scripture from the Bible. Jack Miner is in no way a fanatic on religion, but he is a sincere believer in the Word of God found in the Bible, so to pass the Scripture along to others and cause others to think more and read the Bible more, he in his simple way puts Bible texts on each band. The Bible verse has been invaluable among the Eskimos and Indians who shoot the occasional goose, as they take the band to their missionaries to get the interpretation of the Bible verse. The missionary in turn takes the verse for his text on Sunday and all the natives turn out in large numbers. One newspaper gives Jack Miner credit for 'doing more real home missionary work than any other Canadian.'

"Thousands of mourning doves nest on the Jack Miner bird sanctuary, as well as robins—so he puts small bands on their legs and lets them go. The children of the community help him to band and they are ever eager to know where such birds are shot.

"If you would know more of Jack Miner and his work as carried on you can write to Reilly Lee Publishing Company, 325 West Huron street, Chicago, as they have literature concerning this subject."

The letter was signed by Manly F. Miner, secretary to Jack Miner.

4-H CLUB WINNERS LEAVE FOR CHICAGO

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Reather Gould of East Carroll parish, 4-H garden club champion, T. J. Parker, Mer Rouge high school corn club winner in the state contest, and Allen J. Mayeaux of Moreauville in Avoyelles parish, who won the cotton growing award in the state, left Saturday for Chicago to attend the National club congress being held there in conjunction with the International Livestock Exposition.

The 4-H club members, who took top honors in the state, were each given the trip in recognition of their individual efforts in these three contests.

Miss Gould's award was given for her prowess in growing vegetables, and also for judging vegetables at the 4-H short course held at Baton Rouge each summer. There were 6,669 garden club members in the state who competed.

Young Parker, whose prize baby beef was auctioned by Governor Jones in recent months, is an old timer at winning prizes, and he has saved $250 from projects which he has carried out.

Mayeaux, who made more than $100 on his one-acre plot of cotton, took the profit and paid his first payment on a farm, complete with house, barn and good fences. He will pay the remaining installments of $800 over an eight-year period.

DIES AT GAME

3-ACT PLAY TO BE PRESENTED

Junior College Speech Club To Give Comedy On Friday Night

"Janey," a three-act play, will be presented Friday, December 5, at 8 p.m. in the Junior College auditorium. This is to be one of the major productions of the Northeast Junior College Speech Club this year.

Last-minute preparations of scenery and costumes are being made to get ready for the dress rehearsals scheduled early next week, Edward Longerich, director, announced Saturday.

The play, by Dorothy Bennett and Link Hannah, is based on the problems that confront young people today: The girl who can't find a job; the boy who is trying to make a small farm support him; the youngsters who choose the corner drug store with its nickel-consuming phonograph for their favorite rendezvous. Back of this is the amusing circumstances of a young girl taking lessons in glamour to prepare herself for marriage, thereby providing the basis for the comedy.

Edith Lingle, freshman, has been chosen to play the title role in the production. Other members of the cast are Dorothy Duncan, Tommy Elrod, Peggy Morrison, Mignon Griffing, Helen Fernandez, Billy Harp, Robert George, Elise Abernathy, Sonny Bubb, Joyce Siegle, Jerry Juneman, Mrs. Crystal Anthony, Olga Lipson, Louise McDonald, Foster Wilson and Joe Saragusa.

Faculty director is Mr. Longerich, instructor in speech, and Fred Young, freshman, is student director.

GOOD EXPLANATION

OCONTO, Wis.—(AP)—After explaining how to detect counterfeit money, secret service agent John Voss passed around a spurious $5 bill at a women's club meeting.

A genuine $5 bill was returned to him. One of the women, comparing bills and becoming confused, kept the wrong one. Voss came to the rescue.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS DATA RECEIVED

Northeast Junior College Library Has Collection Of Pamphlets

On display in the Northeast Junior College library is a collection of Public Affairs pamphlets. These handy little books, planned with a view toward preparing for an intelligent defense of democracy, are put out at regular intervals.

The public affairs committee is a nonprofit, educational organization whose purpose is to make available in brief and inexpensive form the results of research on economic and social problems. Many of the latest and best editions are ready for use in the library now, and more will be added soon, according to Miss Mary Clay, librarian. They may be checked out just as all other books.

The list includes the following pamphlets: Youth In the World Today; Why Women Work; Labor In the Defense Crisis; The South's Place In the Nation; Security or the Dole; Farmers Without Land; Adrift on the Land; Instalement Selling—Pros and Cons; Guns, Planes and Your Pocketbook; Man Meets Job—How Uncle Sam Helps; How Shall We Pay for Defense; Safeguarding Our Civil Liberties; America's Children; If War Comes; What Makes Crime?; America and the Refugees.

CHRISTMAS JOYS MAY MEAN LITTLE

telling tales of want and complete trust in Santa Claus that we cannot make a selection. They are all seemingly so worthy.

If one wants to really appreciate Christmas he or she must do something for someone else, for one who otherwise would have no cheerful holiday. In so doing one carries out the scriptural, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," and "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto Me."

There is no need to emphasize the fact that money is the great need of the hour. Without money we cannot make homes of the deserving and less privileged bright and happy. We want to see a large sum contributed this week. Can't we have your check now? Please send or bring all contributions to Good Fellows, News-Star—World.

BUSY DAY AT OUACHITA NATIONAL BANK

The News-Star—World staff photographer snapped a group at this financial institution Saturday, disclosing the personnel at work in the preparation of Christmas club checks that were mailed out Saturday. More persons completed their weekly or monthly deposits this year than in past years. Also, the sum total was larger than in any past year. Shown in the picture (left to right), Dan Cage, President F. F. Millsaps (standing), Mrs. Gerry Trimble, and Noel Learned.

torpedoings, but were slowly picking up again. He attributed the decline to the reluctance of parents to permit their sons under 21 to join the navy.

The navy said the letter circulated by "We, the Mothers. Mobilized for America, Inc.," was signed by Lyrl Van Hyning, as president, and Grace Keefe, as secretary.

The copy made public by the navy said that "our sincere and heartfelt sympathy goes out to your entire family in this dark hour of sadness for the loss of your beloved."

The men lost when the destroyer went down were called "brave, loyal Americans who obeyed orders," but the letter added that "this tragedy * * * might have been averted had the pleas of millions of our people all over this land been heeded by our officials in Washington."

It then declared that "any movement to avenge these, our dead, by throwing away the lives of millions more of our American men to punish a foreign nation, is but a false premise to involve us in war."

The writers said legal experts had advised them that officials could be sued in civil court if they unconstitutionally gave orders which resulted in the death of a member of the armed services.

"We owe it to our loved dead, to the country for which they died," the letter continued, "to call to account those who violated our constitution and heartlessly placed American men in the danger zone between two warring nations while we are at peace.

"This needless slaughter of American men constitutes the greatest of all blundering tragedies in American history."

FIGHT EXPECTED ON STRIKE BILL

stration, does nothing that is not already being done, except to provide for the 60-day cooling-off period," Smith contended.

The committee measure would recreate the national defense mediation board, give it power to seek settlement of defense labor disputes by conciliation, mediation and voluntary arbitration during a 60-day waiting period and, as a last resort, would authorize the government to take over and operate a defense plant or facility where production was impeded.

Informed sources said that the administration would support the bill vigorously as a "middle-of-the-road course," and Democratic Floor Leader McCormack of Massachusetts dictated this statement to reporters:

"The (labor committee) bill is the best bill in my personal opinion, providing for a period of reason, and adequately meets the conditions that require consideration at this time."

Smith has a bill pending which would freeze open and closed shop arrangements during the emergency and would forbid jurisdictional, sympathy and boycott strikes. Also pending is a measure by Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the house naval committee which would authorize the president to invoke compulsory arbitration.

Efforts to substitute one of these bills for the committee's measure are expected during house consideration of the legislation.

Meantime, William Green, president of the A. F. L., sent letters to all members of congress asking them to vote against any "anti-strike legislation."

the authorities to get the evidence of crime and prosecute and convict, or shut up."

Dewey said he realized that the police handling of the Gordon and Erickson cases was a "universal practice" and "old as the hills."

Commented Mayor La Guardia:

"That technique was learned from Tom Dewey himself. And, of course, the police are not looking for clients."

Dewey, who was a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination last year, refused to discuss his political future in general, or reports that he would seek the gubernatorial nomination next year as he did in 1938. "I'm not a prophet," he said. "No one can tell what will happen next year."

But skeptics noted that he would be ready for whatever happened. The term of the lease he signed for his new office was one year.

PRESIDENT WITH POLIO VICTIMS

to the foundation, and the turkey dinners planned for November 20 and then for November 27 were postponed, too.

Tonight's affair was billed as a "Founder's day dinner." The chief executive, who established the foundation, had a place at the head table with other trustees. One of the latter is Leighton McCarthy, Canadian minister to the United States, who became interested in the institution when his son, John, came here for treatment.

Invitations had been issued for 325 persons and L. C. Haughey, foundation comptroller, was trying diplomatically to pare it down because covers could be laid only for an even 300.

Mr. Roosevelt wasn't the whole show, for the patients had prepared a skit under the direction of Robert Hogg, school master at the foundation.

Paul McQuilkin of San Francisco, 21, former naval aviation cadet, had the lead. Dropping off to sleep, he heard the voice of the president appoint him dictator of Warm Springs and began issuing orders to members of the staff which completely threw the place into a turmoil.

PRICE-CONTROL BILL ATTACKEB

tion by the house of proposed licensing provisions by which price orders would be enforced. However, Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, said he was glad to see that the house had not given the price administrator power to take away summarily the right of a merchant to do business because he might have violated a price order.

The house-approved measure provided no control over wages, but Senator George said it was his belief that all factors of cost, including wages, ought to be taken into consideration in any price-fixing orders that were issued.

The house bill, creating an independent five-man board that would renew the price orders of an administrator, is expected to be assigned to the senate banking and currency committee Monday for extended study. Leaders said hearings might begin soon, but neither McNary nor George expected senate action on the measure before mid-January.

It was learned that the office of price administration, in anticipation of enactment of price controls, already has expanded its compliance section, organized a budding field service, and is at work on plans for swift conversion of existing semi-voluntary price schedules affecting 43 industries into full-dress "price regulations."

titioner is one of the leaders of a 'courthouse ring.' This is an accusation not easy to confirm nor refute and your petitioner will not attempt to do either.

"The motion further charges that as one of the leaders of the 'courthouse ring' your petitioner was 'instrumental in picking the present grand jury and in having this grand jury indict Supervisor of Public Funds Jerome A. Hayes.' This accusation is criminally false and was maliciously conceived for the sole purpose of discrediting your petitioner personally, politically and professionally.

"That a further accusation contained in the motion of Supervisor of Public Funds Jerome A. Hayes is that your petitioner is a cousin and friend of the sheriff of Tangipahoa parish.

"The petitioner is a fourth cousin to the sheriff and must plead guilty to entertaining a friendship for him, as well as for all of the officials of the district and the people thereof.

"That your petitioner has not at any time had anything to do with the picking of the present grand jury; he has not at any time had anything to do with the selection of the jury commissioners, all of which is fully known to Supervisor of Publi[c Funds] Jerome A. Hayes, and the ch[arge made by] Hayes in his petition to the [...] is false and untrue to the kn[owledge] of Hayes."

'Practical' Education

A national defense emergency, with its demand for trained technicians, is pounced upon by those schoolmen who are opposed to traditional education with its emphasis upon the humanities. They become louder and more insistent in their demands for much that is embodied in what they denounce as "classical" education to be thrown overboard.

In lieu of this they would furnish to youth—all of it—in the secondary schools technical training for a livelihood. Furthermore, they would overhaul college curricula to the extent that subjects would be acid-tested for their own contribution to gainful living.

In this, of course, the propagandists of the "practical" go too far. Secondary schools today, at least in the larger cities, offer opportunities for technical training in arts and sciences for any who are not going on to college. And in the field of higher education the nation has institutes of technology unsurpassed anywhere.

Happily, therefore, the proponents of liberal arts in colleges give no sign of being stampeded by this clamor for subordinating everything else to training the individual for his job. In higher education that is the function not of the college but of the professional school. More and more such schools of national standing are requiring for admission a college degree or at least three years of college training by a student or proven brilliance.

The study of history, literature, languages, economics, sociology, psychology, philosophy, mathematics and elements of the natural sciences trains young men and young women to reason. It gives them balance. With that training they enter upon life better equipped because they have some sort of understanding of what man has thought and done, of what he is thinking and doing.

And, after all—as the unstampeded college presidents insist—this is a training not for an emergency, but for a fuller life in a better world after the emergency has passed. Even the traditional education is modified with the passage of the years, as witness the gradual disappearance of the teaching of Greek. But it is not, like Jericho's walls, to be tumbled at a shout. Many tolerant educators permit themselves a grin as they recall the furor occasioned a decade ago by the advocates of technocracy.

99 PER CENT'S PRETTY GOOD

Tax collections are a problem to almost every city in the country. Just how serious it may become was shown by a recent survey in Cleveland which revealed so much tax delinquent land that it could not be sold without disrupting the real estate market; acres and acres just hanging, useless, and virtually without any owner at all. The same situation holds in many cities which have not yet realized it.

Norwalk, Connecticut, tells a different story. This year's tax collections are expected to total 99 per cent of the levy. Intrigued, the Municipal Finance Officers' association found the reasons simple: (1) plenty of publicity and advertising; (2) good periodic reports to taxpayers; (3) diligence in getting after delinquents, and (4) efficiency and courtesy in the tax office.

No miracles, not even anything up the sleeve.

FIVE-CENT CIGAR DAYS

Tom Marshall, in idyllic days of his vice-presidency, wisecracked himself into immortality by jesting that "what this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

Well, the country got it. Now it's in danger of losing it.

Rising excise taxes on tobacco, shortage of cigarmakers (many of whom are girls who are turning to marriage or wives who are being enabled by husband's higher earnings to return to domesticity), higher tobacco costs, difficulty of obtaining machinery—all these factors are closing down on the old five-cent cigar. It still stands, like the Rock of Gibraltar, as a bulwark of the American way. But like the Rock of Gibraltar, the war is closing in on it. Taxes are in sight which would move the old five-center into the two-for-fifteen class, leaving its old place of honor to the lowly "two-fer."

LOW FLIGHT AND THE SEVEN DWARFS

Seven countries, announces Hitler triumphantly, have joined the anti-Comintern pact.

And what are the seven countries which have thus rallied about Hitler's Holy Crusade? Why, they are Denmark and Croatia, which have no government but that provided by the German military. They are Bulgaria, Rumania and Slovakia, which move only in a semblance of life at the pulling of Hitlerian strings. They are Finland, caught in the whirlpool between Soviet and Nazi floodwaters without a rudder of her own. And the Nanking regime in China, nameless and lifeless puppet of Japan.

This soaring flight into the ether of propaganda is supposed to impress a popeyed world. For us, it flies so low as scarcely to get off the ground at all.

President Quezon of the Philippines was reelected by a crushing majority—but his platform did not call for independence this time.

There's something almost eerie in the death the other day of Bud Abbott's dog, "Bitsey." Abbott acquired the pet when it was a non-descript puppy, over 13 years ago. At that time he and Lou Costello were eking out a precarious existence in vaudeville—playing unimportant bits. Hence the dog's name—Bitsey. Abbott intended it as a sardonic take-off on the professional unimportance of Abbott and Costello. About the time of their Hollywood debut and sudden success, Bitsey's health began to wane. As they climbed, picture by picture, to the top of the Hollywood ladder, the dog steadily declined—and finally died on the very day that Abbott and Costello started work in an MGM super-super at the highest salary they were ever paid.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

Boys and girls of all ages, like to belong to a society of their own, like to feel themselves strong and important there, and gladly do whatever work their belonging entails.

The Boy Scouts, the Campfire Girls, the Naval Cadets, are a few of the many good associations to which children and young people belong. And now there is another one that appeals to them, one which should be encouraged and fostered by every father and mother, every teacher, social worker and national well-wisher in the country—The Junior Red Cross.

We are living in an atmosphere of trouble. War shadows our lives and whatever work we do, at home or abroad, touches this war in some way that we cannot escape it. We are building up the Red Cross to war strength, and wisely.

The children feel our unrest and anxiety. They hear about the Red Cross membership, its work, its reason for being, and their minds are troubled. If we are not careful to allay their fears we are going to have a lot of sick, ailing, fear-stricken children and young people.

The very best way to prevent this war-fear among them is to put them to work in the country's service. Fear is driven out the moment active work against it begins. A child busy with defense work will not be subject to fear so much nor so often as the one who sits and worries about it. Get them all to work.

The Junior Red Cross programs offer work that interests all kinds of children. They cook, mend, make things for soldiers. They knit and make bandages, and they collect necessary materials when called on. They plan and carry through entertainments that raise money, entertain ailing or lonely people. They make scrap books. They run errands. They type and they read; they even dance for their cause.

All they need is good leadership to start them on their way, hold them there, and through their experience, learn wholesome practical ways of living that will stand them in good stead in days to come.

I am against war scares and war propaganda for children. I believe they can be permitted to skip all that and still be trained and prepared for any emergency. "This thing you do," is good education and good training in any emergency, any day, anywhere and training in first aid, cooking, mending, housekeeping and hospital life, nursing, office work, errands, entertaining—any specific instruction that merges into practical service, such as the Junior Red Cross classes offer, will stabilize children and mature them mentally and physically.

All the children need for this work is good leadership and this is readily obtained, so readily, that not to avail oneself of its influence is unthinkable in this day of dire distress. Every school, every community, should organize its children in Junior Red Cross groups and do everything possible to forward the work to be found within its range.

There is no finer way to prepare children for war emergencies than this.

Sunday School Lesson

The Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 7
Text: Acts 2:41-47; Ephesians 4:11-16
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor of Advance)

When we consider the extent and nature of the Christian church in all its various branches today and in its worldwide organization, we are impressed with the simplicity of its early beginnings.

The Christian church did not arise out of the plans of some promotional organizer. There was no advance prospectus or blueprint of a proposed organization. The church definitely grew out of an experience. It was not a matter of organization awaiting or developing life; it was life leading to organization.

Jesus in one sense did the founder of the church, but in another sense its foundation came after He had left the earthly scene. Although Jesus did not formally organize the church, there was more organization associated with His ministry than is commonly supposed. He gathered about Him the apostles, to whom were committed special privileges and responsibilities, and with whom He communed concerning the deep things of the Kingdom, so that He developed an inner band of disciples—a sort of Christian cabinet—to carry on His work. Also, He organized the "seventy" who went through the villages teaching and preaching, two by two.

Although Jesus in one sense did not found the church, it was built so definitely and directly upon Him and His teachings and upon the new experience of life through the gospel that He had brought to man. We sing today "The Church's one foundation is Jesus Christ her Lord," and that is a sentiment thoroughly true to the New Testament in its account of the origin of the Christian church.

The church, as I have said, had its origin in the experiences of the new life. More definitely, it began as these experiences found expression in the remarkable events on the Day of Pentecost. Here, as the disciples were gathered together in one place, there came a strange outpouring of spiritual power. Peter, who formerly had denied his Lord, preached with great boldness and courage about the reality of the Christian way, and brought home to the hearts and consciences of his hearers the realization of their sin. The result was that many were brought into the Christian way, and as our simple record is, "The Lord added daily to the church those that were saved."

For the description of this early church and some detailed events of its workings, we are dependent largely upon the light from Paul's Epistles. The passage in our lesson from his Epistle to the Ephesians is one of the most striking of Paul's references to the church. Here he gives us some insight into its organization, but, what is more important, a clear statement of the nature and work of the church. It is a noble ideal that he sets before us, of the church as a body incorporating the spirit of Christ.

The church is still waiting for the fulfillment of that ideal, and the world itself will never find peace until the spirit of love of which Paul speaks becomes the dominant mark of human society.

IN WASHINGTON

By Milton Bronner
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—Uncle Sam is a stingy boss who ought to pay many of his civilian employes a better wage.

Such is the claim of three rival national organizations of federal employes, the National Federation of Federal Employes, the American Federation of Government Employes and the United Federal Workers of America.

They have many differing planks in their platforms, but all agree on three things:

A pledge in their constitutions that they will not tolerate strikes against the government.

A minimum wage of $1500 a year.

The government is the biggest employer of labor in the country. In the executive branches, there are 1,391,687 workers, 183,182 being right here in the capital. A survey made in 1937 by the Civil Service Commission showed that 92 per cent of all government employes outside the postal service received less than $3000 a year; 71 per cent got less than $2000; 50 per cent made less than $1500, and 11 per cent less than $1000.

To remedy this, Congressman John E. Sheridan of Philadelphia introduced a bill which provides that every annual compensation of less than $1200 shall be increased to $1500; compensation of more than $1200 and less than $3200 shall be increased $300, except that $3000 employes shall get $200 more and the $3100 employes shall get $100 more. Hourly wage rates would be increased 10 cents an hour.

Only One Appeal

Congressman Sheridan said millions of workers in private industry through their unions secure increased wages, but organized government workers do not have the same avenue of collective bargaining. They can only come to congress and ask for relief. He said a government survey in 1939 showed that the cost of living at maintenance level for a married worker's family of four in Washington was $1481.76 a year. This means that 44 per cent of the government employes receive less than necessary to support a manual worker's family.

One striking fact is the small number of government employes who are enrolled in unions. According to their own figures, there are 75,000 in the National Federation of Federal Employes, 40,000 in the American Federation of Government Employes and 27,000 in the United Federal Workers of America. That adds up to only about 10 per cent of government employes.

The American Federation of Government Employes is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and the United Federal Employes are affiliated with C. I. O. The latter has announced it intends to drive toward enrolling 1,000,000 members. Michael Widman, assistant director of C. I. O. organization, directed the campaign among employes of the Ford Motor company successfully, and has been assigned this new job. The C. I. O. affiliate was founded in 1937, and it has 203 locals of which 30 are in the District of Columbia. Like all C. I. O. unions, it does not go by crafts but takes in all employes.

Wants Moving Costs

The oldest organization is the National Federation of Federal Workers, founded in 1917. Formerly affiliated with A. F. of L., it withdrew in 1931. N. F. F. W. has 722 locals, 13 being in Washington. In addition to the planks common to all three organizations, it demands a shorter work week and allowance for transportation costs if employes are transferred from one city to another.

The American Federation of Government Employes was founded in 1932. It has 600 locals, 77 in Washington. Among its planks are demands for a bonus of $240 a year to offset the present increased cost of living, a five-day week, and establishment of a board of appeals to hear complaints of employes about decisions of the Civil Service Commission.

The right of government employes to organize in unions was conferred upon them by an act of Congress, approved August 24, 1912, but that organization has progressed slowly. Maybe it will be different now with hot-shot organizers at work for C. I. O.

University of Utrecht Marks 307th Birthday

FOUNDED about the time a small colony in America held its first Thanksgiving, the University of Utrecht in Holland celebrated its 300th anniversary in 1934.

The stamp above, issued in 1936 to commemorate the school's tercentenary, bears a picture of Minerva, the Greek goddess of learning and military wisdom.

The university, founded in 1634, was enlarged in 1894, and is attached to the Domkerk by old Gothic cloisters. Occupying the palace built for Louis Bonaparte, king of Holland, in 1807, is the valuable library which contains more than 200,000 volumes and manuscripts.

Containing examples of all branches of sacred art in the Netherlands is the episcopal museum, built in 1872. There is also a museum for natural history, botanical garden and an observatory in addition to extensive laboratories.

There are several other museums exhibiting the culture of Holland. One, the Museum Kunstliefde, has a small picture gallery remarkable for pictures by Jan Scorel (1495-1562). The museum of antiquities contains a miscellaneous collection.

The city was the scene of the treaty-making diplomats who concluded the War of the Spanish Succession, 1713 and 1714.

EPISCOPAL RECTOR IS GIVEN RECEPTION

A large and representative assemblage gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Washburn, 1510 Island drive, Saturday night, to pay tribute to the 20 years of faithful service as Grace church rector, of the Rev. Edward Farren Hayward. The reception held was given by the members of the church and besides Rev. and Mrs. Hayward, the Right Rev. John L. Jackson, D. D. bishop of the diocese of Louisiana, and Mrs. Jackson attended.

People from many walks of life, a large number being from groups outside of Grace church, attended the reception. Reverend Hayward has been rector of the church for 13 years.

The bishop will confirm a class at 11 a.m. today, and in the afternoon will go to St. David's Episcopal church in Rayville for a service.

A testimonial banquet for Rev. Hayward will be held Monday night in the parish house of Grace church. The affair is sponsored by the Men's club of the church.

New York Day by Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: The family council has agreed to let Slug, the pup, go to young David Stinson, on a farm near Johnstown, Pa. Mary, who held out longest against giving the dog away, voted with the rest of the jury when the excited Slug nearly threw the mistress down while crossing the street on leash. . . . So I have a trip ahead, delivering the dog to the boy. . . . It is strange that fountain pens are so easily lost and so difficult to replace. I become as attached to a pen as to a watch, and wander about in a fog when my favorite pen disappears. . . . Lawyer Tom Lynch, of Los Angeles, comes in to visit with me on a brief visit to New York. He was a rising young red-headed lawyer in Omaha when I was a cub reporter, covering courts, there. . . . Louis Bromfield, who hails from Mansfield, O., and has achieved great success as a writer of good novels that reach a large audience, has done it again with "Wild is the River." . . . Florida, I learn, is represented in Statuary hall, Washington, by the statue of Dr. John Gorrie, credited with the invention of artificial refrigeration. I have had many letters from Florida, calling attention to his distinction. But just now, in our less balmy New York, we'd like to honor the memory of the man who invented the idea of piping steam under the streets, to serve many buildings. It's a thing that makes life possible in many congested areas.

In case you ever want to angel a Broadway show, some figures I heard today might interest you.

A friend of mine had just received an auditor's statement concerning a musical comedy.

My friend has "a piece of the show," as they say in Broadway. He was to put a bucketful of money into preparations, for a show that is now on the road, preparatory to opening in New York. This is the stage known as trying it on the dog.

It is customary for a show involving heavy expenditure to open in Washington, Baltimore, New Haven, Providence, Boston, or some such city, play a few weeks for audience reaction, and then, if it can afford further trials move on to one or more other cities before sending up the curtain on Broadway.

The road run of this particular musical is costing the backers $15,000.

Rarely does a show pay expenses during its preliminary try-out run on the road.

The costuming of a musical comedy that has any chance of success will cost from $25,000 to $40,000, depending upon how elaborate are the costumes, how large the chorus, and how liberal the backers.

There is an item called "building, drapes, and painting."

That includes any changes in stage structure that have to be made, the building of heavy pieces, painting such items, and the drapes at windows and around the stage. This is set down at $26,000.

"Furniture and props" is an item that includes all the furniture used in scenes and all the properties, which run from axes and handsaws to stove pokers and push-carts. This is a small item in the show in which my friend is interested. Only $1,100.

Electrical equipment comes to $3,000. In many shows, a good deal of the electrical equipment is rented. Thus, the bill is kept far below what it might reach if the show bought the material outright.

"Frames and photos" is an important item.

It includes the blown-up photographs used in lobby displays and in windows about town. Listed at $2,200 for this show. Only the best theatrical photographers are employed.

Hauling, which means trucking scenery and properties, comes to $2,800. Orchestrations and musical arrangements cost $4,000.

Designers and directors have been advanced cash amounting to $5,500.

Rehearsal salaries come to $6,100. Rail fares for the out-of-town tryouts, $3,000.

Office expenses, before the curtain rises on Broadway, $3,000.

So, you see, it's no business for a piker. Because your show may be a flop, no matter how much money you put into it.

It cost $80,000 to ring up the opening night curtain for "Let's Face It."

PROTESTS PURCHASE FROM SHOUP FIRM

SHREVEPORT, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A protest to the purchase of voting machines for New Orleans from the Shoup Voting Machine corporation has been made by the Gulf Coast Metal Trades council, E. H. (Lige) Williams, president of the Louisiana Federation of Labor and regional director of the American Federation of Labor, announced here today.

The protest, Williams said, is not against voting machines but against the Shoup company, which they term unfair to labor.

The resolution adopted by the metal group, representing twelve trades organizations, charges that the Shoup voting machines "are manufactured by the Berger Manufacturing company of Canton, Ohio, an affiliate and subsidiary of the notoriously antiunion, labor-baiting Republic Steel corporation."

The contract for supplying the machines has been awarded to the Shoup company.

According to the resolution of the metal tradesman, the action "shall not be construed as opposing the use of voting machines in any election, but is against the purchase of these machines from manufacturers fair to the employers of union labor.

Bible Thought

The Lord your God is God of gods, and Lord of lords, a great God, a mighty, and a terrible, which regardeth not persons, nor taketh reward.—Deuteronomy 10:17.

There is no god but God—to pray—lo! God is great!—Byron.

SIDEWALKS ARE SEEN AS NEED

Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. Council Plans To Push Construction

A safety program was held by the executive committee of the Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. Tuesday morning after the session, opened by the president, Mrs. Preston Fergus, had been turned over to Mrs. C. B. Braun, chairman of the safety committee.

Mrs. Braun explained that the P.-T. A. has selected the campaign to have sidewalks laid in parts of the city where they are now lacking as a major project for the year. She said the forcing of children to walk in the streets is dangerous and may lead to fatalities. Mrs. Charles Mitchell was then introduced and led the discussion as to ways and means of securing the construction of sidewalks.

At the close of the meeting, the treasurer, Mrs. Sam Smith, gave a financial report of the carnival, which, she said, was an outstanding success.

THREE KILLED IN TRUCK, AUTO CRASH

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and three others injured, two critically, yesterday in a truck-automobile collision near Lebeau.

Maxwell of Colfax, La., driver of the truck, who succumbed last night in a Baton Rouge hospital.

Mrs. Conley's body was taken to an Opelousas funeral home and her son, Earl, 12, critically hurt, was being treated at an Opelousas clinic. Captain Conley rushed to Opelousas after being informed of the accident which occurred while his family was en route to Alexandria.

The other injured, brought to a hospital here, were identified as Mrs. Katie Rosenquist of Mobile, friend of the Conley family, and Jack Conley, 14. Mrs. Rosenquist was described as in a critical and undetermined condition and Jack as suffering severe cuts and bruises and a broken ankle.

MOST STEEL FIRMS AGREE TO ACCEPT

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's three-man board arbitrating the stormy union shop issue in the captive coal mines announced today that all but one of the steel companies involved had agreed to abide by whatever decision the board makes.

Dr. John R. Steelman, representing the public on the board, emerged from a four and a half hour conference with John L. Lewis, president of the C. I. O. United Mine Workers, and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel corporation, the other board members, and announced:

"All of the captive mine operators, except one, and the United Mine Workers of America have advised the arbitration board as to the evidence they desire to have considered.

"The Crubible Steel company, which operates only one mine, has not yet agreed to the procedure."

Publication Says Monroe Is 'Safest City In South'

'Louisiana Policeman' Praises Staff Of Local Police Department

Monroe is the "safest city in the South."

That is the title given in the November issue of the "Louisiana Policeman," official publication of the Louisiana department of state police, Baton Rouge.

The magazine claims that the educational program of the police department and the cooperation of other law-enforcing agencies are responsible for the city's safety record, in spite of the fact that the force is comparatively small. The department is headed by Chief B. L. Brantley.

It operates 24 hours a day in three eight-hour shifts in charge of Captain J. D. Busby, Frank Petit, and R. G. May. The department's equipment ,the publication revealed, includes "four patrol cars with two-way radio sets, three motorcycles with one-way receiving sets and a three-wheel motorcycle for marking cars in limited-time parking spaces." The three-wheel cycle replaces four men on foot.

A big factor in rounding up lawbreakers is station KPML which is operated by Sergeants C. H. Sisson, D. T. Flanagan, and H. T. Ward.

"Record time of a stolen car recovery is 50 seconds. Officers happened to be on the spot in this case, and the time included when the call was received to the report back at headquarters. Shortest apprehension of a drunk driver was one minute and 10 seconds."

Cases have been cleared, the Louisiana Policeman states, by the services of Sergeant Louis S. Meek, fingerprint expert, city court reporter, investigator and identification officer, and secretary to Chief Brantley. The racket of selling stolen parts of bicycles has been materially checked through a registration system headed by Sergeant Meeks.

Regarding safety measures, the police department is believed to be "the first in the South to organize municipal employes for accident prevention. With Mayor H. H. Benoit as coordinator and Sergeant J. D. Busby as director, a program which included monthly group meetings for the discussion of safe working practices and the elimination of physical hazards, was set up. The plan promotes cooperation among the various departments and develops economical and safe operating practices."

The Junior Patrol, a part of the traffic department, encouraging safety-thinking in the schools, has been successful too.

The safety record? No fatalities among the 8,000 school children, "although the traffic department carries out its work with only four men, Sergeant Busby, M. L. Peters, E. L. Walker and Guy Sievers."

HOUSING GROUP GOES TO TEXAS

President Trousdale And Associates Attend San Antonio Meet

Members of the governing board of the Monroe Housing authority, comprising B. A. Trousdale, president; Ira Cagle, vice-president, and Joe Guerriero, executive secretary, have spent some time the past week in San Antonio, Tex., where a convention was in progress of the National Housing Association.

Details of how these projects are constituted and put into operation were carefully explained.

Mr. Trousdale stated Saturday that good progress is being made on the local project but that some little time yet will be required before the first ground will be broken.

Sites for the two projects, for white tenants and colored, are now under option, the former being on the Winnsboro road near the old Smoot airport and the one for colored tenants on Texas avenue.

MEDIATION SOUGHT IN RAIL DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board in the railroad wage dispute undertook mediation of the troublesome issue tonight in an effort to avert a threatened strike of 1,200,000 railway workers.

Representatives of the carriers, the non-operating and the operating unions gathered in three separate rooms on the second floor of the Raleigh hotel and the board members met with the three groups in turn, apparently as a prelude to a general conference.

Chairman Wayne L. Morse announced that the board would meet continuously through tonight and all day Sunday at a downtown (Raleigh) hotel in order to have its second report ready for the president Monday.

After listening to two days of arguments from opposing sides, Morse, who is dean of the Oregon university law school, told the 100 representatives of the carriers and their employees that the welfare of the nation demanded that the dispute be settled "without a paralyzing, and in the chairman's opinion, an unjustifiable railroad strike."

The five operating brotherhoods called a strike for December 7 after rejecting the board's recommendations, made November 5, for temporary wage increases. Fourteen non-operating brotherhoods have not issued a formal strike call, but have notified members to be prepared for one.

MRS. BERTA JONES WINS FIRST PRIZE

Mrs. Berta G. Jones of Tallulah was awarded first prize in the sales slip contest conducted by 17 advertisers in the Monroe Morning World, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. Jones received a cash award of five dollars. Second prize of three dollars went to Mrs. Pauline McCrary of Monroe and third prize of two dollars was awarded Mrs. Edna Roddy of Monroe.

The winners turned in the correct sentence formed from 17 letters which were omitted in advertisements of the 17 sponsoring merchants which appeared in the newspaper last Sunday, together with the most sales slips from the merchants. One letter was dropped from a word in each advertisement.

Sponsors of the contest were: Guarantee Shoe Store, Penney's, Mary's Flower Shop, The Woman's Shop, Fink, the Tailor, Silverstein's, Ferd Levi Stationery company, Grayson's, Tefus Grotto, Firestone Auto Supply and Service Stores, Bruno's Electric Shoe Shop, Home Appliance company, Family Shoe Store, Kaliski Jewelry company, D. Masur and Sons, McCain-Richards, Inc., and Sears, Roebuck and company.

The correct answer was: "Time to shop for Xmas."

SPEEDY TRIAL FOR TWO BOYS LIKELY

LEESBURG, Va., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A speedy trial for the two 16-year-old boys charged with murder in the robbery-slaying of Attorney Ward Loveless at his Leesburg estate was indicated today with the disclosure by Commonwealth's Attorney Charles Harrison that he would lay the case before the Loudoun county grand jury which meets December 8.

The circuit court has a rather crowded docket for the term beginning on that date, he said, "but I want to get this matter out of the way as quickly as possible."

The elderly prosecutor arrived back here today after an 800-mile round trip to the southwest where in an Appalachia, Va., hotel room police arrested Paul Bernard Hoback, Bluefield, W. Va., and Herbert (Buck) Porter, Brentwood, Md.

Harrison said that Hoback admitted previous involvement with law enforcement officers and told him he was under probation as the result of taking an automobile in Texas and driving to Bluefield last year.

The prosecutor said that both boys, from whom he has claimed a "complete confession" in the fatal robbery at the Loveless home Sunday night, would be tried under the law just as though they were adults.

State Reconstruction Explained In New Book By Tech Professor

Dr. McGinty's Work Sheds Light On Overthrow Of Carpet-Bag Rule

RUSTON, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Highlights of the period from 1876 to 1880, embracing the overthrow of carpet-bag rule which characterized the latter years of Reconstruction in this state, from the gist of a new book, "Louisiana Redeemed," written by Dr. G. W. McGinty, head of the social science department at Louisiana Tech.

The book, prepared partly in fulfillment of requirements for the doctor's degree, which the author received from the University of Texas, was published by the Pelican Press of New Orleans. Dr. McGinty's associates at Tech and others who have read the first copies of the volume reportedly have been warm in their praise of the research work.

Dr. McGinty's study was undertaken to show the changes that took place in Louisiana after the Democrats ousted the Republicans from control, a development resulting from "the courage and tact of Francis T. Nicholls," who served his first term as governor from 1877 to 1880, one year of his first governorship having been cut off through efforts of lottery supporters whom he opposed. (Nicholls served a four-year term from 1888 to 1892 and during that time won his fight against the lottery in Louisiana.)

Considerable space in the book is given to a description of Nicholls, himself, whose "ability won him rapid promotion (in the Confederate army) and at the age of 29 was commissioned a brigadier-general." The author relates that Nicholls' left elbow was shattered by a musket ball at the battle of Winchester, Va., and the arm was amputated. Later, he lost his left foot at Chancellorsville.

"His jovial character," says the author, "was revealed by a remark he made while being taken from the battlefield: 'My life ambition to be a judge is ruined, as henceforth I shall be a one-sided man'." Nicholls later lost his left eye but Dr. McGinty states in a footnote that he was not able to ascertain the exact manner in which he lost it.

After the war was over, it was difficult for Nicholls, the disabled veteran, to support himself and family. His wife and children, the book points out, lived at Ridgefield with her people but Nicholls was "too proud to be supported by his wife's family and he remained at Woodlawn with his sister while trying to rebuild his law practice." During the carpet-bag regime, political significance was attached to his career when he strove to reorganize "Democracy" in the Bayou Lafourche district.

"His courage, dignity and fairness not only attracted the attention of the white people," says Dr. McGinty, "but weakened the Republican party in that section by winning colored people to the standard of the Democrats."

The author states that "Reconstruction in Louisiana lasted from 1862 to 1877 and therefore covered a longer period than in any other state." He explains that as "soon as Federal troops occupied New Orleans, May 1, 1862, many Union men became interested in restoring Louisiana to the Union."

Dr. McGinty gives a vivid description of the hectic days of Reconstruction. "The legislature of 1870 was extravagant," he observes, "but the session that began January 2, 1871, was even worse. Expenses amounted to $958,956.50, an average of $113 per member per day, or a total of $6,800 for each legislator for the session." In another part of his chapter on Reconstruction the author declares that "the public school system lacked honest and efficient officials and almost ceased to exist except in New Orleans, which had a free system in 1865 with 19,000 pupils enrolled in 141 schools." (The state superintendent of education in the period, 1870-73, incidentally, was a negro, W. G. Brown.)

In a chapter headed "The Critical Election of 1886," Dr. McGinty quotes a Judge Abel of Louisiana as having made the charge that "more money had been stolen from the state treasury by officials during the eight years of carpet-bag rule than by all the 'unofficial thieves, robbers and burglars who have operated in Lousiana during the whole time since the Louisiana Purchase." The same account estimated $1,000,000 in gold would fail to compensate for the robberies and injuries that have been kept in power by Grant's illegal use of Federal troops when they had been defeated at the polls."

During the Reconstruction period, Henry Clay Warmoth, governor of Louisiana from 1868 to 1872, at an annual salary of $8,000, wound up with an estate estimated to be worth from one to two million dollars, according to Dr. McGinty, who states that Warmoth accredited his wealth to "legitimate business deals."

Warmoth's lieutenant-governor was a mulatto, P. B. S. Pinchback, and at one time, when "the Custom House gang began impeachment proceedings which suspended Warmoth from office for fraud in counting the votes in the presidential election of November, 1872," Pinchback was acting governor.

In 1872 the politicians of Louisiana lined up with the national parties, the book cites. The Republicans nominated W. P. Kellogg for governor and C. C. Antine, colored, for lieutenant-governor. The Liberal Republicans, Reformers and Democrats put out a coalition ticket headed by John McEnery for governor and Davidson B. Penn for lieutenant-governor. The spirited campaign culminated in a disputed election. President Grant used his authority in favor of Kellogg. McEnery claimed he was elected governor and telegraphed Grant to withhold judgment until both sides were heard. As a result, the author says, Louisiana "enjoyed the luxury of two governors and two legislatures for the first two months of 1873."

Such had been the conditions prior to 1877, when Nicholls became governor. The author explains the election of Nicholls by saying that "fortunately, the nominee . . . understood the colored men and won the confidence of enough of them to turn the scales in his favor on election day."

Commenting upon the change from the radical Republican rule to Democratic rule, Dr. McGinty remarks that it "signified the breakdown of the Republican party of the negroes." But he adds that "the political change was not very pronounced either for better or worse. . . . With the exception of Governor Nicholls and a few others, the new public servants were not especially concerned with improving the lot of the masses. . . . In short, the most significant factor in the transition was the absence of any outstanding change."

"WORTHLESS" CANADA

Victorious England at the end of the French and Indian wars in 1760 wanted to claim the tiny island of Guadeloupe in the West Indies with an area of 688 square miles instead of "worthless" Canada with its area of 3,684,723 square miles. Guadelope had rich sugar plantations then while Canada was relatively undeveloped.

L. S. U. SCORES STUNNING 19-0 WIN OVER WAV

BENGALS OUTPLAY TULANE ELEVEN IN ALL DEPARTMENTS

Bird Leads Tigers To Victory; The Fight Lasts Only Half An Hour

By Mortimer Kreeger

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Louisiana State's much-battered Tigers ended their season today with something that will make their supporters almost forget four defeats earlier in the season—an incredible 19-0 victory over their arch-rivals from Tulane.

With about 50,000 spectators, one of whom dropped dead of a heart attack, and about 2,000 fist fights in the stands, L. S. U. completely outplayed Tulane—something no other team has been able to do all season although the Green Wave had lost three games. The Tigers led 329 to 109 in net yardage and 18 to 5 in first downs.

Both teams played hard, rough ball. One man on each side was ejected from the game, and penalties for rough play gave L. S. U. its last touchdown by moving the ball from midfield to Tulane's five.

Students of the two schools apparently had heard nothing of an agreement by their student body presidents to prevent fights. They swarmed onto the field after the game for a half hour of battling that ended with destruction of the goal posts despite efforts of Tulane boys and club-wielding policemen to protect them.

L. S. U. played like the team Tulane was supposed to be, tackling and blocking viciously while the Greenies missed blocks, tackles and a couple of scoring chances.

Practically all the game was played in Tulane territory, as little Leo Bird's passes kept the Tigers knocking on the end zone gates. L. S. U. was in scoring territory at least half a dozen times, besides their touchdown pushes, but the Greenies stopped one drive on their two-yard line and several others near the 20.

Bird's passes took the ball from L. S. U.'s 43 to Tulane's 24 late in the first period and Fullback Walter Gorinski barged all the remaining distance right through the middle for the score. Bernie Lipkis placekicked the extra point.

After playing 20 minutes of the second half in Tulane territory, L. S. U. finally put together a 49-yard scoring drive. Bird's 33-yard pass to Jack Fulkerson set up the tally and Bird hit right tackle for the last two yards.

Bird sent a short pass to Woodrow Holland, substitute end, who galloped five yards for the last touchdown after penalties against Tulane had taken the ball from midfield.

Tulane's only drive came midway of the first half and got from the Wave's 28 to L. S. U.'s nine, but Bernie Lipkis intercepted a pass to end the

PRO GRID RACES IN CRUCIAL SPOT

Giants Sit Back And Await Winner Of Western Division Of League

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Nobody is having more fun out of the two-team race between the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers in the western division of the National Professional Football league than the New York Giants, who have the eastern title safely salted away.

Lady luck can't carry the ball when the Giants meet the western winners in the annual playoff game, but she certainly sided with the New Yorkers when the schedule was drawn.

While the Packers and Bears are banging into league foes tomorrow in the next-to-last round of the regular campaign, the Giants will be taking it easy with a timely open date.

Then, if an upset doesn't hand the western crown to one of the two front-runners, the Giants will enjoy another day of rest while the Packers and the Bears mix with each other in a sectional playoff.

The team with the best chance of forestalling a deadlock in the west is Washington's Redskin crew, which tangles with the Packers at the national capital in tomorrow's top tilt.

It will be the last game on the regular schedule for the Packers, who could clinch a tie for the western title by tripping the Redskins. In the past two weeks, Washington missed one chance to help the Packers and another to help themselves, by losing to the Bears and the Giants on successive Sundays.

The Bears move into Philadelphia tomorrow, seeking their ninth victory in 10 starts against the Eagles, who have had a two-weeks' rest. If the Bears and Packers win tomorrow, and not many believe they won't, the Bears will need a victory over the Chicago Cardinals the following Sunday to tie for the sectional flag.

At Brooklyn, the Dodgers are set for a crack at the Pittsburgh Steelers, the team that knocked them out of the eastern title fight. Brooklyn is tied with Washington for second place in the division standings, while the Steelers are riding in the cellar.

The Cardinals and the Detroit Lions argue at Detroit over nothing more important than third place in the western section. Tomorrow's games will be the last for Pittsburgh and Detroit, as well as Green Bay. The Cleveland Rams wound up their schedule last Sunday.

In addition to the Bear-Cardinal struggle a week from tomorrow, when the regular season comes to a close, the Giants will collide with the Brooklyn Dodgers in an effort to avenge an earlier defeat, and the Redskins will tackle the Eagles in what might mean a share of second-place money for Washington.

League officials will meet in Philadelphia Monday to map plans for the championship game.

WRESTLER

Celia Blevins, Cherokee Indian girl, will appear at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds near West Monroe Tuesday night in a wrestling bout with May Weston, woman grappler of Columbus, Ohio. The women wrestlers will appear on a double main event program which will include Balk Estes, recently crowned junior lightheavyweight champ, and Jack LaRue.

GIRL GRAPPLERS ON MAT PROGRAM

Estes And Jack LaRue Also On Double Main Event Card Tuesday

Local wrestling fans will have an opportunity to see an unusual card Tuesday night when Celia Blevins, Cherokee Indian girl, of Oklahoma meets May Weston of Columbus, Ohio, and Balk Estes, newly crowned junior light heavyweight champion, meets Jack LaRue, University of Iowa matman. It will be a double main event affair with both bouts having a 75 minute time limit.

Female grapplers are rarely seen in these parts but have always seemed quite popular, especially with fans who prefer rough wrestling.

Both Miss Weston and Miss Blevins are capable wrestlers but due to the latter's short temper she usually makes a rough showing. Recently in a match at Atlanta, Ga., the Indian girl threw her opponent by the hair over the ring ropes into the laps of the third row ringside spectators, according to Promoter Gus Kallio. Whether she can duplicate this with Miss Weston remains to be seen.

During last week's card and every day since, numerous fans expressed a desire to see LaRue matched with Estes. Since LaRue beat Sugi Hayamaka much more decisively than did Estes, many believe that the Iowa lad can beat the new champion.

LaRue is an extremely fast, scientific wrestler with a rough but clean style that is rarely seen. Whatever holds he applies are executed with a jarring force. If it is a hammer lock, he snaps his opponent's arm up as though he would jerk it from the shoulder socket. If it is a flying head lock or mare, the victim usually takes a long hard fall. However, he has never been guilty of unfair tactics in the local arena.

Little need be said about Estes as almost all local fans have seen him perform several times lately. He is a fast, scientific matman capable of absorbing an unusually large amount of punishment. His favorite holds are those applied with the legs.

As a curtain raiser, five local colored boxers will meet in a battle royal beginning at 8:30 o'clock. The card will be held at the new arena located at the Ouachita Valley Fair grounds.

WASHINGTON NOSES SOUTHERN CAL, 14-13

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Washington and Southern California clashed in another of their bitter grid battles today, and the Huskies from the Northwest, riding on luck, pulled out with a narrow 14-13 triumph.

The struggling Washingtons fashioned two plays, each good for 50 yards, to hold back a Trojan team which dominated the contest and all but tied it up with a touchdown in the last seven seconds of the game.

Two bad after-touchdown place kicks—plus a field goal attempt from the 12-yard stripe—cost them a chance for a tie or a triumph today.

There are about 100 United States postoffices and six substations in Puerto Rico.

Sophomore Sub Leads Maroons To 6-0 Win Over Rebels

MOATES SCORES IN 2ND QUARTER OF CLOSE GAME

Mississippi State Cops Southeastern Crown With Final Triumph

By Romney Wheeler

OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A chunky sophomore quarterback named Jennings Moates—an unknown until today—skittered 38 yards through an amazed University of Mississippi team today to beat the Rebels 6-0, and give Mississippi State its first Southeastern conference football championship.

For the third straight year State's Bulldogs throttled the fancy running and passing of Mississippi's touchdown twins, Junie Hovious and Merle Hapes. And for a third straight year—and the 22nd time in 39 starts—State took the bitter intra-state contest.

There was no immediate indication of a post-season bowl invitation, but Jack Baldwin, chairman of Miami's Orange Bowl committee, watched the game from the press box and intimates said they believed a bid would go to the Maroons for the second straight year. Mississippi State beat Georgetown, 14-7, at Miami last New Year's day. There was indication the foe would be "a western team."

The touchdown came with explosive suddenness three minutes before the end of the first half. Sonny Bruce took Jack Flack's punt on the Mississippi State 30 and returned it a yard before being pulled down.

Then Bruce whipped a pass to Kermit Davis, sophomore end, who piled down to the Mississippi 40. A line buck gained two, and State took time out. It was on the next play that Moates scored. The stands hardly realized play had been resumed when he shot through center on a quarterback sneak, cut toward the sideline, and charged over for the touchdown. Bruce tried a place-kick for the extra point, but it was wide.

Before the game Coach Allyn McKeen of State remarked: "Mississippi has the stars and we have the scrap."

That—and some brilliant sophomores—won the game for State. It was State all the way, with Mississippi's Rebels never able to get in position for a real scoring threat.

Blondy Black, Lamar Blount and Fullback Charley Yancey fought their way to the Mississippi five in the first period before the Rebels' great line stiffened and held for downs.

Hovious broke loose for 41 yards off tackle early in the second, carrying the ball to State's 15. Three bucks lost two yards and Bill Eubanks' try for a field goal failed.

Later in the same quarter Jack Flack and Bobby Yandell fought their way to State's 19 before the drive faded and Ole Miss yielded the ball on downs.

Mississippi threatened once more at the start of the third period, when Hovious broke away on a punt return and streaked 50 yards up the sideline before stepping out of bounds on State's 17. Hovious and Hapes banged their way to the eight, where Hapes was thrown back on fourth down with barely six inches to go. Black kicked out of danger and three plays later Hovious fumbled as he hit the line and alert Emmett Ray, State center, recovered on the Mississippi 49.

State, opening up with a series of dazzling reverses and ends around, moved to Mississippi's 16 where Bruce dropped back on fourth down to try a field goal. The ball went wide.

Mississippi's frantic aerial barrage in the final quarter failed to click, and the ball game ended with State in possession on the Bulldogs' 30 after Black intercepted Hovious' final shot.

Hovious completed one pass to Ray Terrell, a 13 yard heave, and the flashy wingback streaked 47 yards for an apparent touchdown, but teh officials ruled he had stepped out of bounds at the point reception.

Lions Rest Before Starting Work For Championship Tilt

'Ouachita's Greatest Team' To Have Long Wait Before Title Game

Assured of a place in the state Class AA final as the result of their 20-0 triumph over the Lake Charles Wildcats, southwest district champs, in a playoff battle here Friday night, the Ouachita Parish High school Lions, douoble A title holders of north Louisiana, wil lhave at least three weeks to prepare for the state championship battle.

Coach Mack Avants, who is experiencing his second year as head coach at Ouachita, last night said the Lions would be given three or four days rest this week before returning to the training grind.

While Ouachita was trimming Lake Charles Friday night, the Bogalusa Lumberjacks were blasting the Istrouma Indians, 35 to 0, in a southeast district playoff game. Bogalusa still must play Baton oRouoge High this week-end to settle the southeast district title question. The New Orleans district champion will meet the southeast title holder, probably the week-end of December 13, for the right to face Ouachita in the finals.

Meanwhile Ouachita supporters will have plenty of time to analyze the greatest Ouachita team in the history of the school.

A remarkable feature of the Lion aggregation is that its successes have been with the help of not more than half a dozen reserves of near first team caliber, and the "regulars" have gone through the season thus far without any serious injuries such as usually hamper teamwork.

Only minor bruises have been suffered to any extent, and the locals have always been able to place their strongest team on the field.

A hard driving backfield, led by Hoyt Moncrief and Jack —ackson, has sparked the Lions to victory when the chips were down. Moncrief is the Lions' leading scorer, having pushed over five touchdowns and booted six extra points this seasono for a total of 36 points. Jackson has scored four touchdowns an dhas set up several others by long runs or passes deep into enemy territory.

Moncrief and Jackson are definite all-state material and neither should be overlooked when the selections are made. Ouachita also presents a pair of veteran tackles, Sam McInnis and "Sonny" Foreman, for consideration on the al-star team, and would be "tickled" to edge in the duet ofo stellar guards, Wayne Doss and Charles Cain. The Ouachita tackles and guards have been to the Lion line what Jackson and Moncrief have been to the backfield.

The Lions have scored a total of 84 points in nine games with Moncrief and Jackson accounting for 60 points. Other points were evenly distributed over the season among Paul Cook, Herbert Pace, Burvon Sikes and DeWitt Benton, each of whom scored one touchdown.

Herbert Pace, 195-pound halfback, and J. M. McBeth, clever quarterback, must not be ignored in the backfield. Pace tries his hand at ball carrying occasionally, but his job is primarially the same as tht of McBeth—clearing the path for Jackson and Moncrief. Both Pace and McBeth are good defensive performers.

The No. 1 backfield reserve is Paul Cook, a scampering little halfback with plenty of fire and ginger.

Alongside McInnis, Foreman, Doss and Cain in the line are Ends Cullen Kirby and Bob Kilpatrick and Center J. S. Robinson. Burvon Sikes is just as good on the wing as Kilpatrick and often gets the starting call although Kilpatrick got the nod for the first string the past week. Kirby, a husky lad playing his second season, played his best game of the year against Lake Charles with his defensive work particularly outstanding.

Line reserves are few but Rudy Eason, giant tackle, and Clifton O'Neal, guard, are the top choices. Bill Hatten is a reserve tackle yet to reach his peak, and Junior Mears, a back, was converted into an end the past week to strengthen that department for the Lake Charles battle.

Lack of reserve strength at center gives J. S. Robinson a full-time job when the battle is close, but Fred Gulledge, a first year youngster, is working hard in order to be ready to fill Robinson's shoes if he is needed.

Now that Ouachita is definitely in the state's "big time" playoff, the Lions look back toward their early season battles with regret that they didn't polish off those three Class A teams, Ruston, Minden and Homer, that now boast wins over a Class AA finalist.

But Ouachita fans can console themselves by pointing out that Ouachita parish had not opened for school when those games were played because of army maneuvers. Ouachita draws its material from surrounding communities of the parish and, because school had not opened, the coaches had a difficult time getting their charges working together.

In fact Coach Avants held morning drills for those who were able to come in from neighboring communities at that time, and few of the morning workers were able to be present for afternoon drills and vice versa. School opened on October 6 and from that time on Ouachita has prospered.

Ruston whipped the Lions in their first game but the Class A Bearcats stand out as one of the few remaining undefeated teams in the state. Minden, conqueror of the locals in their second game, has been beaten only once, and the Homer Pelicans, a power in state football circles for several years, has dropped only one contest. Homer shaded the Lions in the locals' third battle.

Ouachita's first triumph was over Smackover, Ark., and the Lions later added Haynesville, Byrd of Shreveport and Fair Park of Shreveport to their list of victims.

Ouachita never boasted a titled team until the present aggregation copped the north Louisiana crown.

Back in 1930 the locals had their first team to reach a playoff when Ben Rush coached the Lion eleven of that season into the north Louisiana Class A playoff with Homer's Pelicans. Homer was victorious.

Incidentally, Mac Givens, who came here this season from Smackover, Ark., to become assistant coach under Mack Avants, was a member of the 1930 Ouachita team. Givens, who lettered at Bastrop in 1927, played for Ouachita in 1928-29-30.

Then "Lefty" Haynes, now assistant coach at Tulane university, sent a Ouachita team into the double A playoff for the north district crown in 1938 but the Lions fell before Haynesville.

Eleven years ago Ouachita fans figured players of such talents as Backs Roland Brown and Brooks Owen and Linemen Mac Givens, Shelby Calhoun and Bill Bickham would be few and far between. Alvin Fleming, all-state halfback on the Lions' 1938 team, and Clayton Brown, Mitchell Funderburk, Tommy Younse, James Peters, Cason Mitchell and Warren Seivers of that year were also stellar players, but, after the schedule the 1941 team has tackled, the present club gets the vote as Ouachita's "greatest."

The Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, successful in getting the Ouachita-Lake Charles game for Monroe, also plans to bid for the state championship.

HORNED FROGS WIN FROM S. M. U., 15-13

FORT WORTH, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Texas Christian university Horned Frogs closed the season today with a 15-13 victory over Southern Methodist serving as a pleasing preview of 1942 football prospects.

Boys who are slated for duty on next season's heralded T. C. U. team stood out in the brilliant offensive that came from behind for a field goal and touchdown in the last half.

A crowd of 15,000 saw T. C. U. finish the season with seven victories, one tie and two losses. The Frogs thus wound up in a deadlock with Texas for second place in the Southwest conference standings.

From 1880 to 1920, the population of Montana increased 1,140 per cent.

MINORS TO MEET AT JACKSONVILLE

Many Trades Expected To Be Made As Moguls Gather For Meeting

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Trade winds of terrific intensity were blowing down upon Florida tonight as baseball people from all over the country began converging for the annual winter meetings of the minor leagues.

The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, presided over by William G. Bramham, will meet at the George Washington hotel Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, but has a skimpy agenda of legislation to consider.

A new major-minor agreement and code of rules which a joint committee has spent an entire year in drafting will not be ready for consideration because of the illness of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. As a result the national association will be called upon to vote for the extension of the present setup for one year and will have only half a dozen rules amendments of a technical nature to consider.

Lack of business on the convention floor, however, is likely only to increase the congestion in the hotel lobbies and rooms where many minor league managers will be chosen, farm clubs stocked with players, working agreements completed, and of course, deals by clubs in both the major and minor league developed.

President Larry MacPhail of the Brooklyn Dodgers was on his way here prepared to spend a couple of hundred thousand dollars if he could swing the deals he wanted for a left-handed pitcher and a righthanded hitting outfielder.

The New York Giants, now confronted with the probable loss of First Baseman Babe Young to the army, also have vowed to try to complete some important deals, and the Cincinnati Reds will be seeking outfield batting strength.

In the American league there seemed little doubt that the Cleveland Indians would make some swaps to weed out some of the temperament before 24-year-old Lou Boudreau buckles down to managing the club. Detroit, the Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox all have expressed intentions of trying to trade.

On display in the Northeast Junior College library is a collection of Public Affairs pamphlets. These handy little books, planned with a view toward preparing for an intelligent defense of democracy, are put out at regular intervals.

The public affairs committee is a nonprofit, educational organization whose purpose is to make available in brief and inexpensive form the results of research on economic and social problems. Many of the latest and best editions are ready for use in the library now, and more will be added soon, according to Miss Mary Clay, librarian. They may be checked out just as all other books.

The list includes the following pamphlets: Youth In the World Today; Why Women Work; Labor In the Defense Crisis; The South's Place In the Nation; Security or the Dole; Farmers Without Land; Adrift on the Land; Instalement Selling—Pros and Cons; Guns, Planes and Your Pocketbook; Man Meets Job—How Uncle Sam Helps; How Shall We Pay for Defense; Safeguarding Our Civil Liberties; America's Children; If War Comes; What Makes Crime?; America and the Refugees.

CHRISTMAS JOYS MAY MEAN LITTLE

telling tales of want and complete trust in Santa Claus that we cannot make a selection. They are all seemingly so worthy.

If one wants to really appreciate Christmas he or she must do something for someone else, for one who otherwise would have no cheerful holiday. In so doing one carries out the scriptural, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," and "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto Me."

There is no need to emphasize the fact that money is the great need of the hour. Without money we cannot make homes of the deserving and less privileged bright and happy. We want to see a large sum contributed this week. Can't we have your check now? Please send or bring all contributions to Good Fellows, News-Star—World.

BUSY DAY AT OUACHITA NATIONAL BANK

The News-Star—World staff photographer snapped a group at this financial institution Saturday, disclosing the personnel at work in the preparation of Christmas club checks that were mailed out Saturday. More persons completed their weekly or monthly deposits this year than in past years. Also, the sum total was larger than in any past year. DRIVE TO HURT MORALE BARED

torpedoings, but were slowly picking up again. He attributed the decline to the reluctance of parents to permit their sons under 21 to join the navy.

The navy said the letter circulated by "We, the Mothers, Mobilized for America, Inc.," was signed by Lyrl Van Hyning, as president, and Grace Keefe, as secretary.

The copy made public by the navy said that "our sincere and heartfelt sympathy goes out to your entire family in this dark hour of sadness for the loss of your beloved."

The men lost when the destroyer went down were called "brave, loyal Americans who obeyed orders," but the letter added that "this tragedy * * * might have been averted had the pleas of millions of our people all over this land been heeded by our officials in Washington."

It then declared that "any movement to avenge these, our dead, by throwing away the lives of millions more of our American men to punish a foreign nation, is but a false premise to involve us in war."

The writers said legal experts had advised them that officials could be sued in civil court if they unconstitutionally gave orders which resulted in the death of a member of the armed services.

"We owe it to our loved dead, to the country for which they died," the letter continued, "to call to account those who violated our constitution and heartlessly placed American men in the danger zone between two warring nations while we are at peace.

"This needless slaughter of American men constitutes the greatest of all blundering tragedies in American history."

stration, does nothing that is not already being done, except to provide for the 60-day cooling-off period," Smith contended.

The committee measure would recreate the national defense mediation board, give it power to seek settlement of defense labor disputes by conciliation, mediation and voluntary arbitration during a 60-day waiting period and, as a last resort, would authorize the government to take over and operate a defense plant or facility where production was impeded.

Informed sources said that the administration would support the bill vigorously as a "middle-of-the-road course," and Democratic Floor Leader McCormack of Massachusetts dictated this statement to reporters:

"The (labor committee) bill is the best bill in my personal opinion, providing for a period of reason, and adequately meets the conditions that require consideration at this time."

Smith has a bill pending which would freeze open and closed shop arrangements during the emergency and would forbid jurisdictional, sympathy and boycott strikes. Also pending is a measure by Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the house naval committee which would authorize the president to invoke compulsory arbitration.

Efforts to substitute one of these bills for the committee's measure are expected during house consideration of the legislation.

Meantime, William Green, president of the A. F. L., sent letters to all members of congress asking them to vote against any "anti-strike legislation."

the authorities to get the evidence of crime and prosecute and convict, or shut up."

Dewey said he realized that the police handling of the Gordon and Erickson cases was a "universal practice" and "old as the hills."

Commented Mayor La Guardia:

"That technique was learned from Tom Dewey himself. And, of course, the police are not looking for clients."

Dewey, who was a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination last year, refused to discuss his political future in general, or reports that he would seek the gubernatorial nomination next year as he did in 1938. "I'm not a prophet," he said. "No one can tell what will happen next year."

But skeptics noted that he would be ready for whatever happened. The term of the lease he signed for his new office was one year.

to the foundation, and the turkey dinners planned for November 20 and then for November 27 were postponed, too.

Tonight's affair was billed as a "Founder's day dinner." The chief executive, who established the foundation, had a place at the head table with other trustees. One of the latter is Leighton McCarthy, Canadian minister to the United States, who became interested in the institution when his son, John, came here for treatment.

Invitations had been issued for 325 persons and L. C. Haughey, foundation comptroller, was trying diplomatically to pare it down because covers could be laid only for an even 300.

Mr. Roosevelt wasn't the whole show, for the patients had prepared a skit under the direction of Robert Hogg, school master at the foundation.

Paul McQuilkin of San Francisco, 21, former naval aviation cadet, had the lead. Dropping off to sleep, he heard the voice of the president appoint him dictator of Warm Springs and began issuing orders to members of the staff which completely threw the place into a turmoil.

PRICE-CONTROL BILL ATTACKED

tion by the house of proposed licensing provisions by which price orders would be enforced. However, Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, said he was glad to see that the house had not given the price administrator power to take away summarily the right of a merchant to do business because he might have violated a price order.

The house-approved measure provided no control over wages, but Senator George said it was his belief that all factors of cost, including wages, ought to be taken into consideration in any price-fixing orders that were issued.

The house bill, creating an independent five-man board that would renew the price orders of an administrator, is expected to be assigned to the senate banking and currency committee Monday for extended study. Leaders said hearings might begin soon, but neither McNary nor George expected senate action on the measure before mid-January.

It was learned that the office of price administration, in anticipation of enactment of price controls, already has expanded its compliance section, organized a budding field service, and is at work on plans for swift conversion of existing semi-voluntary price schedules affecting 43 industries into full-dress "price regulations."

"The motion further charges that as one of the leaders of the 'courthouse ring' your petitioner was 'instrumental in picking the present grand jury and in having this grand jury indict Supervisor of Public Funds Jerome A. Hayes.' This accusation is criminally false and was maliciously conceived for the sole purpose of discrediting your petitioner personally, politically and professionally.

'That a further accusation contained in the motion of Supervisor of Public Funds Jerome A. Hayes is that your petitioner is a cousin and friend of the sheriff of Tangipahoa parish.

"The petitioner is a fourth cousin to the sheriff and must plead guilty to entertaining a friendship for him, as well as for all of the officials of the district and the people thereof.

"That your petitioner has not at any time had anything to do with the picking of the present grand jury; he has not at any time had anything to do with the selection of the jury commissioners, all of which is fully known to Supervisor of Public Funds Jerome A. Two Quick Touchdowns In Second Quarter Give Blue Jackets 14-6 Win

By Bill Boni

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The manpower which had sent Navy into action as a pronounced favorite over Army today paid off in the second half.

Outcharged, outfought and outscored by a scrapping, snapping Cadet eleven for the first two quarters, the Middies came back fresh at the start of the third period and never even let Army get its hands on the ball until they had driven to two touchdowns. That made the final score Navy 14, Army 6, for Navy's third straight triumph in this classic series and 17th in the 42 games that have been played.

There was no stopping the Middies in that third quarter, and there was no getting by, through or over, them for the balance of the half.

Bill Busik, bowing out of this rivalry with a whole raft of first and second classmen who will be graduated into the fleet either next month or next June, made his farewell appearance a dazzling one.

He ran and he passed, but most particularly he ran. This 185-pound six-footer from Pasadena, Calif., was just so many pounds and so many feet of twisting, squirming, fighting dynamite.

Army kicked off to open the second half, and Fullback Sherry Werner of Reading, Pa., launched the scoring march by taking the ball a yard back in the end zone and coming up to his -yard line. Then Busik went into action.

It took Navy 15 plays to go the remaining 69 yards and Barnacle Bill either ran or passed for all but three of them. He handled the ball on all but three plays and accounted for the biggest single gain by passing to Captain Bob Froude of San Bernardino, Calif., for 27 yards. He threw in the most vital rushing gain, a 15-yard sprint around the Army left side that gave Navy first down on the Army 1.

Busik, knocked out of bounds on that play, also had the wind knocked out of him. Phil Hurt, 195-pound sub fullback from Astoria, N. Y., was sent in, and he exploded through the middle of the Army line for the touchdown. Then in came Navy's reliable Bob Leonard, place-kicker from Gainesville, Tex., to kick the extra point.

Once more Army kicked off, and once more Navy drove straight down the field, 68 yards this time in 13 plays and a harmful penalty on Army. Busik started the drive rolling with a 20-yard runback of the kickoff, and by carrying the ball into the tiring Army line on three of the next five plays helped take it just beyond midfield.

He was getting a bit groggy by this time, so Coach Emery (Swede) Larson sent in 150-pound Howie Clark of San Pedro, Calif., to relieve him.

The first time they gave him the ball he went for four yards, and the third time he took it he almost duplicated Busik's touchdown-preparing play by turning the Cadet left flank for 15 yards to the two-yard line.

This time it took more than one play to go over. Army halted Werner and Clark in two cracks at the line [illegible] pass, suddenly wheeled in his tracks and outsprinted the Army defenders to the far left hand corner. Leonard came in for his one play, and made it good.

That was just about it, except for one last-hope drive by Army from the Navy kickoff. Hank Mazur, Army's hard fighting triple threat from Lowell, Mass., set that in motion with a runback of 35 yards to his 41.

Interference on a Mazur pass moved the ball to the Navy 25, and a Mazur aerial to Sophomore Ralph Hill of Santa Fe., N. M., carried it to the 17. But there, two plays later, Mazur was rushed far to the sidelines in trying to get off a pass, threw one in desperation, and saw Busik intercept it.

If it was all Navy, with 202 of its 256 yards gained, in the second half, it was equally all Army, with 119 of its 187, in the first.

The first quarter was pretty inconclusive. A Busik quick kick to the Army 1 put the Cadets in a hole, but a Busik fumble on a bad pass from center lost the advantage gained thereby.

In the second quarter, though, Army went to work. It had lost Fullback Johnny Hatch of Fort Sill, Okla., early in the game. But it got along without him pretty well through here.

Once, on a tremendous Mazur pass to Jim Kelleher for 35 yards, the Cadets made it first down on the Navy 20. They lost the ball on downs on the 18, but came right back the second time they got it again. Mazur took a Navy punt on his 21, and slipped it to Hill. The sophomore streaked up the west sideline for 57 yards before Werner nailed him on the Navy 23.

Army lost five for having a back in motion, but then sent Mazur slashing for 13 to the 15. On the next play Hank walloped off the Navy left tackle, to be forced out by Clark on the 1. He made two feet on his first try, then turned over the job to Jim Watkins, sub fullback from San Saba, Tex., who on his second attempt belted over the Navy right guard for the score.

Larson, ending his Navy coaching career with three victories over Army (the same number he helped score as a player), fielded two teams that simply wore down Army. Tackles like giants Gene Flathmann, Bill Chewning and Dick Opp; guards like Vito Vitucci and Joe Sliwka, and ends like Froude, Lars Wanggaard and Bob Zoeller were too much for Army to watch.

The Cadets, though, gave a noble account of themselves, especially hard working Mazur, and Bob Evans, who played 60 minutes of fine center.

Fordham Keeps Bowl Hopes Alive With 30-To-9 Victory

Rams Uncork Manpower In Second Half To Trounce New York U.

By Sid Feder

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Hopped up by hopes of a bowl bid, Fordham's football powerhouse turned loose its manpower in a second half spree today to trample the Violets of New York university 30 to 9 before a crowd of 31,009 in Yankee stadium.

After throwing a major scare into the Rams in a second quarter drive that saw them score all their points, it was only a question of time until the Violets had to wilt.

Fordham chalked up its 17th win in the 22 games in which these uptown enemies have tangled since 1889. And with the victory, closing out a season which saw them lose only one game on an all-major eight-tilt schedule, the Rams are reported to have insured themselves of an engraved invitation to one of the New Year's day shindigs, possibly the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

For one half, N. Y. U. had enough to make a ball game of it, but once Steve Filipowicz and Jim Blumenstock began to lead the parade over the fading Violets, there was no stopping the Rams.

Filipowicz scored two touchdowns and Blumenstock, who was awarded the Madow trophy as the game's outstanding performer, added two more. The Fordhams gave a sub-halfback, Joe Ososki from Mt. Carmel, Pa., a chance to tally the other six-pointer.

The Rams got a two-touchdown jump in the scoring column when Filipowicz busted through from the five in the first period and from the four in the second to top off drives of 39 and 33 yards.

The officials called a pass-interference penalty on New York university, which gave Fordham 37 yards. The Violets rolled up their sleeves and went to work. Their touchdown came the very next time they got their hands on the ball when Wyatt Teubert pitched to Charley Heiser and the right-end outgalloped the entire Fordham secondary for a 70-yard scoring play.

A few minutes later, after a blocked kick and another drive had gone to the Ram one, where the big boys stiffened, Jim Tighe and Henry Majlinger broke through to toss Blumenstock in his own end zone for a safety.

That ended the first half and sliced Fordham's edge to 12 to 9.

Blumenstock ran the second half kickoff back 58 yards and two plays later Ososki piled through tackle for 20 yards and a touchdown. Early in the fourth period, Blumenstock went over his own right guard for five yards and another, topping off a 38-yard parade, and finally Blumenstock finished by slicing inside the N. Y. U. left end for seven yards at the end of a 60-yard downfield drive.

VANDERBILT HELD SCORELESS UNTIL FOURTH QUARTER

Sophs Lead Tennessee To Win That Crushes Commodore Bowl Hopes

By Keith K. King

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Tennessee's Volunteers rose to their peak form to crush their traditional rival, Vanderbilt, 26-7, before 30,000 fans today and thereby dash the Commodores' hopes for a post-season bowl invitation.

Previously beaten only by Tulane and a convincing winner over Alabama last week, Vanderbilt was pushed all over the field by the savagery of the Tennessee play except for a brief fourth quarter rally. Then the Commodores marched 48 yards for their lone touchdown.

Tennessee, which had lost to Duke and Alabama early in the season hopped on Vandy at the start and never let up. Given a big break when Jack Jenkins, stellar Vanderbilt back and leading scorer of the southeastern conference, fumbled on his own 34, the Vols bottled up the Gold and Black early on splendid kicking by Walter Slater and Johnny Butler.

Slater then sparked two second-quarter touchdown drives of 33 yards each. A pass from him to End Bud Hubbell netted 17 yards for the first and the sophomore tailback went over himself from the one-yard stripe for the second.

The other two touchdowns were largely the doing of another sophomore, Bobby Cifers. He hurled a 14-yard end zone aerial to Hubbell for a score early in the third quarter, and in the waning moments he raced 24 yards around end for the final Tennessee touchdown.

Held throughout the first half within their own 35-yard line by the fast-charging Tennessee linemen and by Vol punts which kept them continually kicking from behind their own goal, the Commodores came suddenly to life near the close of the third period.

Taking the kickoff after Tennessee's third touchdown, the black-shirted gridders marched to Tennessee's 41 as the quarter ended, mainly on passes by John Burns. As the final period started, Art Rebrovich kicked out on the Volunteer 11. A penalty set the Orangemen back to their 6, and Slater booted out to the Tennessee 48. With aid of a 15-yard penalty and a 21-yard run by Bernie Rohling the Commodores reached the one-yard line, and Jenkins bulled over and kicked the point to run his total for the season to 90.

Decisive as the score was it hardly tells the supremacy Tennessee held over its old foe in their 38th meeting. Failure of his receivers to hold Johnny Butler's accurately thrown passes halted three Tennessee marches within the Vanderbilt 20-yard line, two of them bogging down on the visitors' one-yard line.

The senior scatback who earned fame as a great scoring threat, thus ended his career without scoring a touchdown all season.

The Vols rolled up 15 first downs to Vandy's 7, outrushed their opponents, 173 yards to 35, and gained a net of 149 yards on passes to 100 yards for the Commodores.

TEXAS TECH WINS FROM WAKE FOREST

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The once-defeated Texas Tech Red Raiders closed their 1941 football season today with a 35-6 rout of Wake Forest and possibly insured themselves a bid to a bowl.

Dell Morgan's boys spotted the somberly-clad black and gold Deacons six points. But, after the first period, they opened up a bag of tricks that even had fans on the Wake Forest side of the stadium cheering.

Approximately 5,000 enthusiasts turned out.

Press box observers commented that the Red Raiders probably would receive a bid to the Sun Bowl. They have lost only to Miami (Fla.) University, 6-0.

Late in the opening period Red Cochran, Deacon quarterback, rifled a pass to John Wesley Perry, who took the ball on the 38 and streaked down the sidelines for a touchdown.

Midway of the second period Tom Douglas got away on a spinner for 25 yards to Wake Forest's 14, and two plays later J. R. Callahan, sophomore halfback, flipped a bullet pass to Captain Ty Bain, who went over from the five.

After that it was a Texas Tech parade.

PITTSBURGH SCORES 27-0 VICTORY OVER CARNEGIE

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Special Delivery Edgar Jones carried the touchdown mail for the last time in Pitt livery today, delivering two six-point missives as the Panthers swamped Carnegie Tech, 27-0, in the 28th renewal of the Smoky City teams' intense "back yard rivalry."

Only 19,000 fans were in spacious Pitt stadium for the game, which this year decided nothing but the "championship of Panther Hollow," the wooded valley which separates the two schools.

BOSTON COLLEGE RALLIES TO DEFEAT HOLY CROSS

Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. Council Plans To Push Construction

A safety program was held by the executive committee of the Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. Tuesday morning after the session, opened by the president, Mrs. Preston Fergus, had been turned over to Mrs. C. B. Braun, chairman of the safety committee.

Mrs. Braun explained that the P.-T. A. has selected the campaign to have sidewalks laid in parts of the city where they are now lacking as a major project for the year. She said the forcing of children to walk in the streets is dangerous and may lead to fatalities. Mrs. Charles Mitchell was then introduced and led the discussion as to ways and means of securing the construction of sidewalks.

At the close of the meeting, the treasurer, Mrs. Sam Smith, gave a financial report of the carnival, which, she said, was an outstanding success.

President Trousdale And Associates Attend San Antonio Meet

Members of the governing board of the Monroe Housing authority, comprising B. A. Trousdale, president; Ira Cagle, vice-president, and Joe Guerriero, executive secretary, have spent some time the past week in San Antonio, Tex., where a convention was in progress of the National Housing Association.

Details of how these projects are constituted and put into operation were carefully explained.

Mr. Trousdale stated Saturday that good progress is being made on the local project but that some little time yet will be required before the first ground will be broken.

Sites for the two projects, for white tenants and colored, are now under option, the former being on the Winnsboro road near the old Smoot airport and the one for colored tenants on Texas avenue.

MEDIATION SOUGHT IN RAIL DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board in the railroad wage dispute undertook mediation of the troublesome issue tonight in an effort to avert a threatened strike of 1,200,000 railway workers.

Representatives of the carriers, the non-operating and the operating unions gathered in three separate rooms on the second floor of the Raleigh hotel and the board members met with the three groups in turn, apparently as a prelude to a general conference.

Chairman Wayne L. Morse announced that the board would meet continuously through tonight and all day Sunday at a downtown (Raleigh) hotel in order to have its second report ready for the president Monday.

After listening to two days of arguments from opposing sides, Morse, who is dean of the Oregon university law school, told the 100 representatives of the carriers and their employees that the welfare of the nation demanded that the dispute be settled "without a paralyzing, and in the chairman's opinion, an unjustifiable railroad strike."

The five operating brotherhoods called a strike for December 7 after rejecting the board's recommendations, made November 5, for temporary wage increases. Fourteen non-operating brotherhoods have not issued a formal strike call, but have notified members to be prepared for one.

SPEEDY TRIAL FOR TWO BOYS LIKELY

LEESBURG, Va., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A speedy trial for the two 16-year-old boys charged with murder in the robbery-slaying of Attorney Ward Loveless at his Leesburg estate was indicated today with the disclosure by Commonwealth's Attorney Charles Harrison that he would lay the case before the Loudoun county grand jury which meets December 8.

The circuit court has a rather crowded docket for the term beginning on that date, he said, "but I want to get this matter out of the way as quickly as possible."

The elderly prosecutor arrived back here today after an 800-mile round trip to the southwest where in an Appalachia, Va., hotel room police arrested Paul Bernard Hoback, Bluefield, W. Va., and Herbert (Buck) Porter, Brentwood, Md.

Harrison said that Hoback admitted previous involvement with law enforcement officers and told him he was under probation as the result of taking an automobile in Texas and driving to Bluefield last year.

The prosecutor said that both boys, from whom he has claimed a "complete confession" in the fatal robbery at the Loveless home Sunday night, would be tried under the law just as though they were adults.

State Reconstruction Explained In New Book By Tech Professor

Dr. McGinty's Work Sheds Light On Overthrow Of Carpet-Bag Rule

RUSTON, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Highlights of the period from 1876 to 1880, embracing the overthrow of carpet-bag rule which characterized the latter years of Reconstruction in this state, from the gist of a new book, "Louisiana Redeemed," written by Dr. G. W. McGinty, head of the social science department at Louisiana Tech.

The book, prepared partly in fulfillment of requirements for the doctor's degree, which the author received from the University of Texas, was published by the Pelican Press of New Orleans. Dr. McGinty's associates at Tech and others who have read the first copies of the volume reportedly have been warm in their praise of the research work.

Dr. McGinty's study was undertaken to show the changes that took place in Louisiana after the Democrats ousted the Republicans from control, a development resulting from "the courage and tact of Francis T. Nicholls," who served his first term as governor from 1877 to 1880, one year of his first governorship having been cut off through efforts of lottery supporters whom he opposed. (Nicholls served a four-year term from 1888 to 1892 and during that time won his fight against the lottery in Louisiana.)

Considerable space in the book is given to a description of Nicholls, himself, whose "ability won him rapid promotion (in the Confederate army) and at the age of 29 was commissioned a brigadier-general." The author relates that Nicholls' left elbow was shattered by a musket ball at the battle of Winchester, Va., and the arm was amputated. Later, he lost his left foot at Chancellorsville.

"His jovial character," says the author, "was revealed by a remark he made while being taken from the battlefield: 'My life ambition to be a judge is ruined, as henceforth I shall be a one-sided man'." Nicholls later lost his left eye but Dr. McGinty states in a footnote that he was not able to ascertain the exact manner in which he lost it.

After the war was over, it was difficult for Nicholls, the disabled veteran, to support himself and family. His wife and children, the book points out, lived at Ridgefield with her people but Nicholls was "too proud to be supported by his wife's family and he remained at Woodlawn with his sister while trying to rebuild his law practice." During the carpet-bag regime, political significance was attached to his career when he strove to reorganize "Democracy" in the Bayou Lafourche district.

"His courage, dignity and fairness not only attracted the attention of the white people," says Dr. McGinty, "but weakened the Republican party in that section by winning colored people to the standard of the Democrats."

The author states that "Reconstruction in Louisiana lasted from 1862 to 1877 and therefore covered a longer period than in any other state." He explains that as "soon as Federal troops occupied New Orleans, May 1, 1862, many Union men became interested in restoring Louisiana to the Union."

Dr. McGinty gives a vivid description of the hectic days of Reconstruction. "The legislature of 1870 was extravagant," he observes, "but the session that began January 2, 1871, was even worse. Expenses amounted to $958,956.50, an average of $113 per member per day, or a total of $6,800 for each legislator for the session." In another part of his chapter on Reconstruction the author declares that "the public school system lacked honest and efficient officials and almost ceased to exist except in New Orleans, which had a free system in 1865 with 19,000 pupils enrolled in 141 schools." (The state superintendent of education in the period, 1870-73, incidentally, was a negro, W. G. Brown.)

In a chapter headed "The Critical Election of 1886," Dr. McGinty quotes a Judge Abel of Louisiana as having made the charge that "more money had been stolen from the state treasury by officials during the eight years of carpet-bag rule than by all the 'unofficial thieves, robbers and burglars who have operated in Lousiana during the whole time since the Louisiana Purchase." The same account estimated $1,000,000 in gold would fail to compensate for the robberies and injuries that have been kept in power by Grant's illegal use of Federal troops when they had been defeated at the polls."

During the Reconstruction period, Henry Clay Warmoth, governor of Louisiana from 1868 to 1872, at an annual salary of $8,000, wound up with an estate estimated to be worth from one to two million dollars, according to Dr. McGinty, who states that Warmoth accredited his wealth to "legitimate business deals."

Warmoth's lieutenant-governor was a mulatto, P. B. S. Pinchback, and at one time, when "the Custom House gang began impeachment proceedings which suspended Warmoth from office for fraud in counting the votes in the presidential election of November, 1872," Pinchback was acting governor.

In 1872 the politicians of Louisiana lined up with the national parties, the book cites. The Republicans nominated W. P. Kellogg for governor and C. C. Antine, colored, for lieutenant-governor. The Liberal Republicans, Reformers and Democrats put out a coalition ticket headed by John McEnery for governor and Davidson B. Penn for lieutenant-governor. The spirited campaign culminated in a disputed election. President Grant used his authority in favor of Kellogg. McEnery claimed he was elected governor and telegraphed Grant to withhold judgment until both sides were heard. As a result, the author says, Louisiana "enjoyed the luxury of two governors and two legislatures for the first two months of 1873."

Such had been the conditions prior to 1877, when Nicholls became governor. The author explains the election of Nicholls by saying that "fortunately, the nominee . . . understood the colored men and won the confidence of enough of them to turn the scales in his favor on election day."

Commenting upon the change from the radical Republican rule to Democratic rule, Dr. McGinty remarks that it "signified the breakdown of the Republican party of the negroes." But he adds that "the political change was not very pronounced either for better or worse. . . . With the exception of Governor Nicholls and a few others, the new public servants were not especially concerned with improving the lot of the masses. . . . In short, the most significant factor in the transition was the absence of any outstanding change."

"WORTHLESS" CANADA

Victorious England at the end of the French and Indian wars in 1760 wanted to claim the tiny island of Guadeloupe in the West Indies with an area of 688 square miles instead of "worthless" Canada with its area of 3,684,723 square miles. Guadelope had rich sugar plantations then while Canada was relatively undeveloped.

Publication Says Monroe Is 'Safest City In South'

'Louisiana Policeman' Praises Staff Of Local Police Department

That is the title given in the November issue of the "Louisiana Policeman," official publication of the Louisiana department of state police, Baton Rouge.

The magazine claims that the educational program of the police department and the cooperation of other law-enforcing agencies are responsible for the city's safety record, in spite of the fact that the force is comparatively small. The department is headed by Chief B. L. Brantley.

It operates 24 hours a day in three eight-hour shifts in charge of Captain J. D. Busby, Frank Petit, and R. G. May. The department's equipment, the publication revealed, includes "four patrol cars with two-way radio sets, three motorcycles with one-way receiving sets and a three-wheel motorcycle for marking cars in limited-time parking spaces." The three-wheel cycle replaces four men on foot.

A big factor in rounding up law-breakers is station KPML which is operated by Sergeants C. H. Sisson, D. T. Flanagan, and H. T. Ward.

"Record time of a stolen car recovery is 50 seconds. Officers happened to be on the spot in this case, and the time included when the call was received to the report back at headquarters. Shortest apprehension of a drunk driver was one minute and 10 seconds."

Cases have been cleared, the Louisiana Policeman states, by the services of Sergeant Louis S. Meek, fingerprint expert, city court reporter, investigator and identification officer, and secretary to Chief Brantley. The racket of selling stolen parts of bicycles has been materially checked through a registration system headed by Sergeant Meeks.

Regarding safety measures, the police department is believed to be "the first in the South to organize municipal employes for accident prevention. With Mayor H. H. Benoit as coordinator and Sergeant J. D. Busby as director, a program which included monthly group meetings for the discussion of safe working practices and the elimination of physical hazards, was set up. The plan promotes cooperation among the various departments and develops economical and safe operating practices."

The Junior Patrol, a part of the traffic department, encouraging safety-thinking in the schools, has been successful too.

The safety record? No fatalities among the 8,000 school children, "although the traffic department carries out its work with only four men, Sergeant Busby, M. L. Peters, E. L. Walker and Guy Sievers."

OREGON STATE, GEORGIA TO PLAY IN BOWLS

Miami Selects Bulldogs To Represent South In Orange Bowl

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Oregon State's Beavers, the Far West's Cinderella team, will represent the Pacific coast in the Rose Bowl football game New Year's day.

President C. V. Ruzek said tonight O. S. C. had been selected for the game by a majority of conference factulty representatives.

No tall votes from member schools had been received at the time Ruzek made the announcement, but the outcome was assured.

The Beavers, rated as tail-enders at the season's start, won the undisputed conference championship today by defeating their traditional rivals, Univresity of Oregon, 12 to 7, while California was upsetting the defending title-holders, Stanford's Indians, 16 to 0.

The win gave Oregon State a record of seven victories and two losses in which the Beavers scored 123 points to their opponents' 33.

It was the climax of the dizziest conference race in history in which all other teams suffered at least three defeats. Until today Stanford and Washington still were in consideration for the bowl.

O. S. C.'s two losses were at the hands of Southern California, 13 to 7, and Washington State, 7 to 0. The Beavers blanked Stanford, Idaho, U. C. L. A., California and Montana, and also defeated Washington and Oregon.

Fans credited the stout Beaver defense with carrying O. S. C. into its first championship since the conference was organized in 1915. O. S. C. is the only one of the original members never before qualified for the Pasadena classic.

GEORGIA GETS BID

MIAMI Fla., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Georgia will represent the south in the Orange Bowl football game New Year's day.

An opponent probably will be named Monday, the schedule committee announced.

Committeemen said the choice lies among Missouri, Duquesne, Texas, Fordham and Penn State.

An invitation was extended to Georgia, and was accepted, immediately after the Bulldogs whipped Georgia Tech today, 21 to 0, to conclude a season of eight victories against one tie and one defeat.

The Georgians, coached by Wally Butts, scored 279 points against 59 for their opponents.

They opened by downing Mercer, 81 to 0, and whipped South Carolina, 34 to 6, before being tied by Mississippi, 14 to 14. Sinkwich scored the touchdown that beat Columbia in New York, 7 to 3.

The only defeat came the following week, 27 to 14, at the hands of Alabama.

Since then the Athens team has beaten Auburn, 7 to 0, Florida, 19 to 3, Centre, 47 to 6, and Dartmouth, 35 to 0 and finally Georgia Tech.

FRANKIE HEAVES THREE PASSES TO DEFEAT JACKETS

Bulldogs Expected To Receive Orange Bowl Bid As Result Of Victory

By Kenneth Gregory

ATLANTA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A new and thilling chapter in the long and bitter football rivalry of Georgia and Georgia Tech was written into the turf of Grant field today by the churning cleats of Francis Frank Sinkwich.

The red shirted Georgia Bulldogs buried the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech under a 21-to-0 score before a crowd of more than 31,000.

Finding the Tech line charging hard and fast, Sinkwich tossed passes for the Bulldogs' three touchdowns, and Leo (Expert) Costa added the three extra points.

Georgia's victory, its sixth against one tie and a defeat by Alabama, enhanced the Bulldogs' chances of receiving a post-season "bowl" bid, with the Orange Bowl in Miami the probable spot.

With but two minutes to play, Sinkwich, his fractured jaw hidden by a special helmet, was removed from the game to receive a tremendous ovation after playing for 58 minutes. His scoring passes were plucked from the air by George Poschner, Duck Conger and Lamar (Race Horse) Davis.

Davis' touchdown catch in the fourth period was a thing of beauty. A slugging penalty against Tech placed Georgia at the Jackets' 25. On the first play, Sinkwich dropped back to his right, leaped into the air and flung. Davis, stretching, and perhaps praying, snagged the ball with his finger tips.

Another surprise bullet pass by Sinkwich gave Georgia its first score just before the second period ended. From Georgia Tech's 49, Sinkwich alternated running and passing to Cliff Kimsey and Red Keuper helped with line bucks to advance to the Tech 4. Sinkwich stood still and fired the ball right down the middle to Poschner, five yards back of the goal.

Georgia's other touchdown, in the third period, came on a march of 47 yards. Sinkwich passes prevailed, the longest being 15 yards to Quarterback Kimsey. That carried to the 32, and after Sinkwich hit guard for five, the Youngstown (Ohio) All-America candidate dropped an aerial into the arms of Conger at the 7 and the big end broke away from two Tech defenders to trot across.

TIGERS OUTPLAY TULANE GREENIES

threat. In the third period Lou Thomas gave the Wave its only other scoring chance with a 49-yard runback of an intercepted pass but penalties put Tulane back from the Tigers' 16 to midfield.

Bird's short passes to receivers who seemed to pick up interference from nowhere were L. S. U.'s most consistent ground-gaining weapon.

One of these, a spread formation, was probably the best play of the game. While Tulane's secondary watched the men on L. S. U.'s flank, Bird threw a little one right over the middle to Steven Van Burean who went 62 yards behind perfect blocking to the Tulane four. However, that was the time the Greenies made their goal-line stand.

Lipkis looked like he was away for a touchdown after intercepting a pass on his goal line. Fine blocking took him into the clear on Tulane's 45, but Walt McDonald caught him from behind. A clipping penalty, however, put the Tigers back deep in their own territory.

Three fights on the field continued intermittently for about a half hour after one upright and the crossbar of the south-end goal post was down. Cool-headed students of both schools gradually calmed their more spirited fellows and the party ended at dusk with several hundred partisans standing in a circle several yards back from the one remaining upright, giving cheers for both L. S. U. and Tulane.

RICE TROUNCES BAYLOR ELEVEN BY 28-14 SCORE

HOUSTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Rice institute moved into fourth place in the Southwest conference standings today by burying Baylor 28-14 in a game which would have been remarkably dull except for a few freakish incidents.

A Rice tailback punted for a five-yard loss; the two squads had to mill around on the field at the start of the game while forgetful officials sent for the measuring chain, and a cotton-tail rabbit topped off the afternoon by racing down the sidelines just before the contest closed.

AUBURN WALLOPS CLEMSON, 28 TO 7

Underdog Tigers Show Amazing Speed In Upsetting Carolinians

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 29.—(AP)—An underdog band of Auburn Tigers displayed amazing speed and versality today to blast the bowl hopes of Clemson, 28 to 7, before some 12,000 homecoming day fans.

The winners, beaten five times, scored one touchdown in each period. They held the upper hand throughout with exception of a three-minute interval late in the third quarter when big Charlie Timmons led a 70-yard march for the lone Clemson tally.

Auburn showed it meant business early in the game. Back of its 7-yard-line by a good Clemson punt, little Monk Gafford sent a great kick 81 yards to the Clemson 12. A minute later, Gafford kicked out on the Clemson one, and when Booty Payne went back to punt, he fumbled a low pass from center and Jim Samford, Auburn end, fell on the ball for a score.

Louis Chateau, the Auburn place-kicking specialist, converted, as he did after each of their other three scores.

Late in the second period, the Auburns struck again. Gafford raced back 20 yards to the Clemson 49 with a punt. Lloyd Cheatham, Auburn's deluxe blocker, passed to Billy Barton for 16, hit the line for 3 and passed to Aubrey Clayton for the last 30.

Ty Irby, running star, made the other two Auburn markers. One came on a 59-yard sprint after he broke through the line in the third period, and the last on a 13-yard smash through the middle late in the game.

Irby amassed 145 yards from scrimmage in 23 tries, and overshadowed the line busting efforts of the heavier Clemson backs throughout the afternoon.

Gafford punted beautifully most of the day.

Oregon State Comes From Behind To Win Pacific Coast Title

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Coming from behind in the final quarter, the orange-shirted Oregon State Beavers overcame a one-point deficit today to defeat the University of Oregon, 12 to 7, with the Pacific Coast conference football title and earn Oregon State its first trip to the Rose Bowl.

A relentless 60-yard drive, concluding with a vicious 28-yard buck and run through center by sub Fullback Joe Day netted the richest touchdown in Oregon State's history before 25,500.

As Stanford fell before California, 16 to 0, today's Oregon State victory gave the Beavers a clear title to the Rose Bowl.

For a while in the fourth quarter it looked as though the conference championship scramble might wind up in a four or five way tie as Oreg[on] held a 7-6 lead.

But the Beavers came back for the winning touchdown and were on t[he] Oregon five yard line seeking anoth[er] as the game ended.

After a scoreless first half punct[u]ated by several thrill-producing pu[nts] and runs, the Beavers struck for [a] touchdown.

Halfback Bob Dethman returned [a] punt 15 yards to the Oregon 38. Sout[h]paw Halfback Don Durdan flipped [an] 11-yard pass to End George Zellic[k]. "Choc" Shelton, fullback, hit for tw[o] yards. An unnecessary roughness pe[n]alty called against Oregon saw Refer[ee] Jack Friel pace off 15 yards to t[he] Oregon 3 yard stripe. Neither Det[h]man nor Durdan could gain in tw[o] plays, but Shelton sliced off the rig[ht] guard for the final three yards a[nd] the score.

Oregon went ahead on the first pl[ay] of the last quarter. Curt Mecham r[an] to his left with his left arm cocked [as] if to pass. But he cut for the sid[e]lines, outdistanced the Oregon Sta[te] secondary by sweeping back to mi[d]field and went over the goal line [to] climax a beautiful 53-yard run.

Halfback Jimmy Newquist's ki[ck] was true.

But then came that 60-yard dri[ve] and Day's touchdown plunge.

By Mortimer Kreeger

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Louisiana State's much-battered Tigers ended their season today with something that will make their supporters almost forget four defeats earlier in the season—an incredible 19-0 victory over their arch-rivals from Tulane.

With about 50,000 spectators, one of whom dropped dead of a heart attack, and about 2,000 fist fights in the stands, L. S. U. completely outplayed Tulane—something no other team has been able to do all season although the Green Wave had lost three games. The Tigers led 329 to 109 in net yardage and 18 to 5 in first downs.

Both teams played hard, rough ball. One man on each side was ejected from the game, and penalties for rough play gave L. S. U. its last touchdown by moving the ball from midfield to Tulane's five.

Students of the two schools apparently had heard nothing of an agreement by their student body presidents to prevent fights. They swarmed onto the field after the game for a half hour of battling that ended with destruction of the goal posts despite efforts of Tulane boys and club-wielding policemen to protect them.

L. S. U. played like the team Tulane was supposed to be, tackling and blocking viciously while the Greenies missed blocks, tackles and a couple of scoring chances.

Practically all the game was played in Tulane territory, as little Leo Bird's passes kept the Tigers knocking on the end zone gates. L. S. U. was in scoring territory at least half a dozen times, besides their touchdown pushes, but the Greenies stopped one drive on their two-yard line and several others near the 20.

After playing 20 minutes of the second half in Tulane territory, L. S. U. finally put together a 49-yard scoring drive. Bird's 33-yard pass to Jack Fulkerson set up the tally and Bird hit right tackle for the last two yards.

Bird sent a short pass to Woodrow Holland, substitute end, who galloped five yards for the last touchdown after penalties against Tulane had taken the ball from midfield.

Tulane's only drive came midway of the first half and got from the Wave's 28 to L. S. U.'s nine, but Bernie Lipkis intercepted a pass to end the

Giants Sit Back And Await Winner Of Western Division Of League

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Nobody is having more fun out of the two-team race between the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers in the western division of the National Professional Football league than the New York Giants, who have the eastern title safely salted away.

Lady luck can't carry the ball when the Giants meet the western winners in the annual playoff game, but she certainly sided with the New Yorkers when the schedule was drawn.

While the Packers and Bears are banging into league foes tomorrow in the next-to-last round of the regular campaign, the Giants will be taking it easy with a timely open date.

Then, if an upset doesn't hand the western crown to one of the two front-runners, the Giants will enjoy another day of rest while the Packers and the Bears mix with each other in a sectional playoff.

The team with the best chance of forestalling a deadlock in the west is Washington's Redskin crew, which tangles with the Packers at the national capital in tomorrow's top tilt.

It will be the last game on the regular schedule for the Packers, who could clinch a tie for the western title by tripping the Redskins. In the past two weeks, Washington missed one chance to help the Packers and another to help themselves, by losing to the Bears and the Giants on successive Sundays.

The Bears move into Philadelphia tomorrow, seeking their ninth victory in 10 starts against the Eagles, who have had a two-weeks' rest. If the Bears and Packers win tomorrow, and not many believe they won't, the Bears will need a victory over the Chicago Cardinals the following Sunday to tie for the sectional flag.

At Brooklyn, the Dodgers are set for a crack at the Pittsburgh Steelers, the team that knocked them out of the eastern title fight. Brooklyn is tied with Washington for second place in the division standings, while the Steelers are riding in the cellar.

The Cardinals and the Detroit Lions argue at Detroit over nothing more important than third place in the western section. Tomorrow's games will be the last for Pittsburgh and Detroit, as well as Green Bay. The Cleveland Rams wound up their schedule last Sunday.

In addition to the Bear-Cardinal struggle a week from tomorrow, when the regular season comes to a close, the Giants will collide with the Brooklyn Dodgers in an effort to avenge an earlier defeat, and the Redskins will tackle the Eagles in what might mean a share of second-place money for Washington.

League officials will meet in Philadelphia Monday to map plans for the championship game.

WRESTLER

Celia Blevins, Cherokee Indian girl, will appear at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds near West Monroe Tuesday night in a wrestling bout with May Weston, woman grappler of Columbus, Ohio. The women wrestlers will appear on a double main event program which will include Balk Estes, recently crowned junior lightheavyweight champ, and Jack LaRue.

Estes And Jack LaRue Also On Double Main Event Card Tuesday

Local wrestling fans will have an opportunity to see an unusual card Tuesday night when Celia Blevins, Cherokee Indian girl, of Oklahoma meets May Weston of Columbus, Ohio, and Balk Estes, newly crowned junior light heavyweight champion, meets Jack LaRue, University of Iowa matman. It will be a double main event affair with both bouts having a 75 minute time limit.

Female grapplers are rarely seen in these parts but have always seemed quite popular, especially with fans who prefer rough wrestling.

Both Miss Weston and Miss Blevins are capable wrestlers but due to the latter's short temper she usually makes a rough showing. Recently in a match at Atlanta, Ga., the Indian girl threw her opponent by the hair over the ring ropes into the laps of the third row ringside spectators, according to Promoter Gus Kallio. Whether she can duplicate this with Miss Weston remains to be seen.

During last week's card and every day since, numerous fans expressed a desire to see LaRue matched with Estes. Since LaRue beat Sugi Hayamaka much more decisively than did Estes, many believe that the Iowa lad can beat the new champion.

LaRue is an extremely fast, scientific wrestler with a rough but clean style that is rarely seen. Whatever holds he applies are executed with a jarring force. If it is a hammer lock, he snaps his opponent's arm up as though he would jerk it from the shoulder socket. If it is a flying head lock or mare, the victim usually takes a long hard fall. However, he has never been guilty of unfair tactics in the local arena.

Little need be said about Estes as almost all local fans have seen him perform several times lately. He is a fast, scientific matman capable of absorbing an unusually large amount of punishment. His favorite holds are those applied with the legs.

As a curtain raiser, five local colored boxers will meet in a battle royal beginning at 8:30 o'clock. The card will be held at the new arena located at the Ouachita Valley Fair grounds.

WASHINGTON NOSES SOUTHERN CAL, 14-13

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Washington and Southern California clashed in another of their bitter grid battles today, and the Huskies from the Northwest, riding on luck, pulled out with a narrow 14-13 triumph.

The struggling Washingtons fashioned two plays, each good for 50 yards, to hold back a Trojan team which dominated the contest and all but tied it up with a touchdown in the last seven seconds of the game.

Two bad after-touchdown place kicks—plus a field goal attempt from the 12-yard stripe—cost them a chance for a tie or a triumph today.

MOATES SCORES IN 2ND QUARTER OF CLOSE GAME

Mississippi State Cops Southeastern Crown With Final Triumph

By Romney Wheeler

OXFORD, Miss., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A chunky sophomore quarterback named Jennings Moates—an unknown until today—skittered 38 yards through an amazed University of Mississippi team today to beat the Rebels 6-0, and give Mississippi State its first Southeastern conference football championship.

For the third straight year State's Bulldogs throttled the fancy running and passing of Mississippi's touchdown twins, Junie Hovious and Merle Hapes. And for a third straight year —and the 22nd time in 39 starts—State took the bitter intra-state contest.

There was no immediate indication of a post-season bowl invitation, but Jack Baldwin, chairman of Miami's Orange Bowl committee, watched the game from the press box and intimates said they believed a bid would go to the Maroons for the second straight year. Mississippi State beat Georgetown, 14-7, at Miami last New Year's day. There was indication the foe would be "a western team."

The touchdown came with explosive suddenness three minutes before the end of the first half. Sonny Bruce took Jack Flack's punt on the Mississippi State 30 and returned it a yard before being pulled down.

Then Bruce whipped a pass to Kermit Davis, sophomore end, who piled down to the Mississippi 40. A line buck gained two, and State took time out. It was on the next play that Moates scored. The stands hardly realized play had been resumed when he shot through center on a quarterback sneak, cut toward the sideline, and charged over for the touchdown. Bruce tried a place-kick for the extra point, but it was wide.

Before the game Coach Allyn McKeen of State remarked: "Mississippi has the stars and we have the scrap."

That—and some brilliant sophomores —won the game for State. It was State all the way, with Mississippi's Rebels never able to get in position for a real scoring threat.

Blondy Black, Lamar Blount and Fullback Charley Yancey fought their way to the Mississippi five in the first period before the Rebels' great line stiffened and held for downs.

Hovious broke loose for 41 yards off tackle early in the second, carrying the ball to State's 15. Three bucks lost two yards and Bill Eubanks' try for a field goal failed.

Later in the same quarter Jack Flack and Bobby Yandell fought their way to State's 19 before the drive faded and Ole Miss yielded the ball on downs.

Mississippi threatened once more at the start of the third period, when Hovious broke away on a punt return and streaked 50 yards up the sideline before stepping out of bounds on State's 17. Hovious and Hapes banged their way to the eight, where Hapes was thrown back on fourth down with barely six inches to go. Black kicked out of danger and three plays later Hovious fumbled as he hit the line and alert Emmett Ray, State center, recovered on the Mississippi 49.

State, opening up with a series of dazzling reverses and ends around, moved to Mississippi's 16 where Bruce dropped back on fourth down to try a field goal. The ball went wide.

Mississippi's frantic aerial barrage in the final quarter failed to click, and the ball game ended with State in possession on the Bulldogs' 30 after Black intercepted Hovious' final shot.

Hovious completed one pass to Ray Terrell, a 13 yard heave, and the flashy wingback streaked 47 yards for an apparent touchdown, but teh officials ruled he had stepped out of bounds at the point reception.

Lions Rest Before Starting Work For Championship Tilt

'Ouachita's Greatest Team' To Have Long Wait Before Title Game

Assured of a place in the state Class AA final as the result of their 20-0 triumph over the Lake Charles Wildcats, southwest district champs, in a playoff battle here Friday night, the Ouachita Parish High school Lions, douoble A title holders of north Louisiana, wil lhave at least three weeks to prepare for the state championship battle.

Coach Mack Avants, who is experiencing his second year as head coach at Ouachita, last night said the Lions would be given three or four days rest this week before returning to the training grind.

While Ouachita was trimming Lake Charles Friday night, the Bogalusa Lumberjacks were blasting the Istrouma Indians, 35 to 0, in a southeast district playoff game. Bogalusa still must play Baton oRouoge High this week-end to settle the southeast district title question. The New Orleans district champion will meet the southeast title holder, probably the week-end of December 13, for the right to face Ouachita in the finals.

Meanwhile Ouachita supporters will have plenty of time to analyze the greatest Ouachita team in the history of the school.

A remarkable feature of the Lion aggregation is that its successes have been with the help of not more than half a dozen reserves of near first team caliber, and the "regulars" have gone through the season thus far without any serious injuries such as usually hamper teamwork.

Only minor bruises have been suffered to any extent, and the locals have always been able to place their strongest team on the field.

A hard driving backfield, led by Hoyt Moncrief and Jack —ackson, has sparked the Lions to victory when the chips were down. Moncrief is the Lions' leading scorer, having pushed over five touchdowns and booted six extra points this seasono for a total of 36 points. Jackson has scored four touchdowns an dhas set up several others by long runs or passes deep into enemy territory.

Moncrief and Jackson are definite all-state material and neither should be overlooked when the selections are made. Ouachita also presents a pair of veteran tackles, Sam McInnis and "Sonny" Foreman, for consideration on the al-star team, and would be "tickled" to edge in the duet ofo stellar guards, Wayne Doss and Charles Cain. The Ouachita tackles and guards have been to the Lion line what Jackson and Moncrief have been to the backfield.

The Lions have scored a total of 84 points in nine games with Moncrief and Jackson accounting for 60 points. Other points were evenly distributed over the season among Paul Cook, Herbert Pace, Burvon Sikes and DeWitt Benton, each of whom scored one touchdown.

Herbert Pace, 195-pound halfback, and J. M. McBeth, clever quarterback, must not be ignored in the backfield. Pace tries his hand at ball carrying occasionally, but his job is primarially the same as tht of McBeth—clearing the path for Jackson and Moncrief. Both Pace and McBeth are good defensive performers.

The No. 1 backfield reserve is Paul Cook, a scampering little halfback with plenty of fire and ginger.

Alongside McInnis, Foreman, Doss and Cain in the line are Ends Cullen Kirby and Bob Kilpatrick and Center J. S. Robinson. Burvon Sikes is just as good on the wing as Kilpatrick and often gets the starting call although Kilpatrick got the nod for the first string the past week. Kirby, a husky lad playing his second season, played his best game of the year against Lake Charles with his defensive work particularly outstanding.

Line reserves are few but Rudy Eason, giant tackle, and Clifton O'Neal, guard, are the top choices. Bill Hatten is a reserve tackle yet to reach his peak, and Junior Mears, a back, was converted into an end the past week to strengthen that department for the Lake Charles battle.

Lack of reserve strength at center gives J. S. Robinson a full-time job when the battle is close, but Fred Gulledge, a first year youngster, is working hard in order to be ready to fill Robinson's shoes if he is needed.

Now that Ouachita is definitely in the state's "big time" playoff, the Lions look back toward their early season battles with regret that they didn't polish off those three Class A teams, Ruston, Minden and Homer, that now boast wins over a Class AA finalist.

But Ouachita fans can console themselves by pointing out that Ouachita parish had not opened for school when those games were played because of army maneuvers. Ouachita draws its material from surrounding communities of the parish and, because school had not opened, the coaches had a difficult time getting their charges working together.

In fact Coach Avants held morning drills for those who were able to come in from neighboring communities at that time, and few of the morning workers were able to be present for afternoon drills and vice versa. School opened on October 6 and from that time on Ouachita has prospered.

Ruston whipped the Lions in their first game but the Class A Bearcats stand out as one of the few remaining undefeated teams in the state. Minden, conquerer of the locals in their second game, has been beaten only once, and the Homer Pelicans, a power in state football circles for several years, has dropped only one contest. Homer shaded the Lions in the locals' third battle.

Ouachita's first triumph was over Smackover, Ark., and the Lions later added Haynesville, Byrd of Shreveport and Fair Park of Shreveport to their list of victims.

Ouachita never boasted a titled team until the present aggregation copped the north Louisiana crown.

Back in 1930 the locals had their first team to reach a playoff when Ben Rush coached the Lion eleven of that season into the north Louisiana Class A playoff with Homer's Pelicans. Homer was victorious.

Incidentally, Mac Givens, who came here this season from Smackover, Ark., to become assistant coach under Mack Avants, was a member of the 1930 Ouachita team. Givens, who lettered at Bastrop in 1927, played for Ouachita in 1928-29-30.

Then "Lefty" Haynes, now assistant coach at Tulane university, sent a Ouachita team into the double A playoff for the north district crown in 1938 but the Lions fell before Haynesville.

Eleven years ago Ouachita fans figured players of such talents as Backs Roland Brown and Brooks Owen and Linemen Mac Givens, Shelby Calhoun and Bill Bickham would be few and far between. Alvin Fleming, all-state halfback on the Lions' 1938 team, and Clayton Brown, Mitchell Funderburk, Tommy Younse, James Peters, Cason Mitchell and Warren Seivers of that year were also stellar players, but, after the schedule the 1941 team has tackled, the present club gets the vote as Ouachita's "greatest."

The Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, successful in getting the Ouachita-Lake Charles game for Monroe, also plans to bid for the state championship.

HORNED FROGS WIN FROM S. M. U., 15-13

FORT WORTH, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Texas Christian university Horned Frogs closed the season today with a 15-13 victory over Southern Methodist serving as a pleasing preview of 1942 football prospects.

Boys who are slated for duty on next season's heralded T. C. U. team stood out in the brilliant offensive that came from behind for a field goal and touchdown in the last half.

A crowd of 15,000 saw T. C. U. finish the season with seven victories, one tie and two losses. The Frogs thus wound up in a deadlock with Texas for second place in the Southwest conference standings.

From 1880 to 1920, the population of Montana increased 1,140 per cent.

Many Trades Expected To Be Made As Moguls Gather For Meeting

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Trade winds of terrific intensity were blowing down upon Florida tonight as baseball people from all over the country began converging for the annual winter meetings of the minor leagues.

The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, presided over by William G. Bramham, will meet at the George Washington hotel Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, but has a skimpy agenda of legislation to consider.

A new major-minor agreement and code of rules which a joint committee has spent an entire year in drafting will not be ready for consideration because of the illness of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis. As a result the national association will be called upon to vote for the extension of the present setup for one year and will have only half a dozen rules amendments of a technical nature to consider.

Lack of business on the convention floor, however, is likely only to increase the congestion in the hotel lobbies and rooms where many minor league managers will be chosen, farm clubs stocked with players, working agreements completed, and of course, deals by clubs in both the major and minor league developed.

President Larry MacPhail of the Brooklyn Dodgers was on his way here prepared to spend a couple of hundred thousand dollars if he could swing the deals he wanted for a left-handed pitcher and a righthanded hitting outfielder.

The New York Giants, now confronted with the probable loss of First Baseman Babe Young to the army, also have vowed to try to complete some important deals, and the Cincinnati Reds will be seeking outfield batting strength.

In the American league there seemed little doubt that the Cleveland Indians would make some swaps to weed out some of the temperament before 24-year-old Lou Boudreau buckles down to managing the club. Detroit, the Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox all have expressed intentions of trying to trade.

ALIFORNIA WINS STANFORD GAME

olden Bears Upset Indians, 16 To 0, In Stunning Triumph

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 29.—(AP)—alifornia's Golden Bears wrote a unning climax to an up and down otball season today with a 15 to 0 pset victory over the defending coast onference champions, Stanford's Inans.

A crowd of 70,000 fans, braving reatening weather to watch the 48th enewal of the classic, saw the 1 to short and Bears blast Stanford's imsy Rose-Bowl hopes with crushg defensive play after moving into first period lead on a single touchown run.

California struck with lightning peed a minute after the game opened score a touchdown, add the extra point and go into a lead that never was threatened.

Nine more points were posted in a thrilling last quarter, when the Bears poured through to block two Stanford punts. One resulted in an automatic safety, the ball bounding out of the end zone.

In the fourth quarter, on the safety scoring play, Jean Witter, right guard, charged into Frank Albert before the left footed all-America quarterback of 1940 could get the ball out of reach.

With two minutes to go, Al Cole, substituting for Albert, was behind his own goal to kick. Glen Whalen, California quarterback, sliced through this time. The ball popped up into the air and big Bob Reinhard, left tackle of the Bears and also an all-America holdover from last season, leaped into the air to clutch it for a touchdown. Merlo added the extra point again with a place-kick.

Private plane pilots flew an aggregate 229 million miles in 16,500 airplanes during 1940.

NEVILLE WILL PLAY JONESBORO-HODGE

Two Class A Teams Meet Here Saturday As Feature Of Festival

The Bengals of Neville High school get busy tomorrow preparing for the third annual Christmas festival battle here Saturday with the Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers.

Neville and Jonesboro-Hodge clashed in the first Christmas festival battle in 1939 with the locals shading the Jackson parish eleven, 13 to 12, in a hard fought contest. Coach C. E. "Sonny" Maroney's present Jonesboro-Hodge aggregation, however, is a big favorite to even the score with Coach Percy Brown's charges Saturday.

Ruston's Bearcats and Ouachita's Lions were the representatives in the grid tussle last year with the game resulting in a 6-6 tie.

Neville, after its most disastrous season, will strive to salvage what little of the season's glory might be left by whipping the invaders, but Jonesboro-Hodge should find the local Bengals a fairly good mark.

Not since 1929 when the old Monroe City High school team lost five of nine games with an almost completely inexperienced team has a city school aggregation had such a rough season. Neville this year suffered seven setbacks, gained one tie and scored a single victory.

MAROONS ASSUME CONFERENCE TITLE

ATLANTA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Mississippi State became Southeastern conference champions today when Jennings Moates slipped through the University of Mississippi line on a quarterback sneak to give his teammates a 6-0 victory and thrill thousands of spectators at Oxford, Miss.

NAVY BEATS ARMY, 14-6

[T]wo Quick Touchdowns In Second Quarter Give Blue Jackets 14-6 Win

By Bill Boni

MUNICIPAL STADIUM, PHILA-[D]ELPHIA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The man-[po]wer which had sent Navy into ac-[tio]n as a pronounced favorite over [A]rmy today paid off in the second [ha]lf.

Outcharged, outfought and out-[sc]ored by a scrapping, snapping Cadet [el]even for the first two quarters, the [M]iddies came back fresh at the start [of] the third period and never even [le]t Army get its hands on the ball [un]til they had driven to two touch-[do]wns. That made the final score [N]avy 14, Army 6, for Navy's third [st]raight triumph in this classic series [an]d 17th in the 42 games that have [be]en played.

There was no stopping the Middies [in] that third quarter, and there was [no] getting by, through or over, them [fo]r the balance of the half.

Bill Busik, bowing out of this rival-[ry] with a whole raft of first and [se]cond classmen who will be gradu-[at]ed into the fleet either next month [or] next June, made his farewell ap-[pe]arance a dazzling one.

He ran and he passed, but most [pa]rticularly he ran. This 185-pound [si]x-footer from Pasadena, Calif., was [ju]st so many pounds and so many [fe]et of twisting, squirming, fighting [dy]namite.

Army kicked off to open the second [ha]lf, and Fullback Sherry Werner of [R]eading, Pa., launched the scoring [m]arch by taking the ball a yard back [in] the end zone and coming up to his [..]-yard line. Then Busik went into [ac]tion.

It took Navy 15 plays to go the [re]maining 69 yards and Barnacle Bill [ei]ther ran or passed for all but three [of] them. He handled the ball on all [bu]t three plays and accounted for the [bi]ggest single gain by passing to Cap-[ta]in Bob Froude of San Bernardino, [C]alif., for 27 yards. He threw in the [m]ost vital rushing gain, a 15-yard [sp]rint around the Army left side that [g]ave Navy first down on the Army 1.

Busik, knocked out of bounds on [th]at play, also had the wind knocked [o]ut of him. Phil Hurt, 195-pound [s]ub fullback from Astoria, N. Y., was [s]ent in, and he exploded through the [m]iddle of the Army line for the [t]ouchdown. Then in came Navy's re-[li]able Bob Leonard, place-kicker from [G]ainesville, Tex., to kick the extra [p]oint.

Once more Army kicked off, and [o]nce more Navy drove straight down [t]he field, 68 yards this time in 13 [p]lays and a harmful penalty on Army. Busik started the drive rolling with [a] 20-yard runback of the kickoff, and [b]y carrying the ball into the tiring Army line on three of the next five [p]lays helped take it just beyond mid-[f]ield.

He was getting a bit groggy by this [t]ime, so Coach Emery (Swede) Larson [s]ent in 150-pound Howie Clark of San [P]edro, Calif., to relieve him.

The first time they gave him the [b]all he went for four yards, and [t]he third time he took it he almost [d]uplicated Busik's touchdown-pre-[p]aring play by turning the Cadet left [f]lank for 15 yards to the two-yard [l]ine.

This time it took more than one [p]lay to go over. Army halted Werner [a]nd Clark in two cracks at the line, [a]nd seemed to get a lift out of a [..]-yard penalty on Navy. It wasn't [a]ny help, though, for on the next play Clark, starting to his right as if to pass, suddenly wheeled in his tracks and outsprinted the Army defenders to the far left hand corner. Leonard came in for his one play, and made it good.

That was just about it, except for one last-hope drive by Army from the Navy kickoff. Hank Mazur, Army's hard fighting triple threat from Lowell, Mass., set that in motion with a runback of 35 yards to his 41.

Interference on a Mazur pass moved the ball to the Navy 25, and a Mazur aerial to Sophomore Ralph Hill of Santa Fe., N. M., carried it to the 17. But there, two plays later, Mazur was rushed far to the sidelines in trying to get off a pass, threw one in desperation, and saw Busik intercept it.

If it was all Navy, with 202 of its 256 yards gained, in the second half, it was equally all Army, with 119 of its 187, in the first.

The first quarter was pretty inconclusive. A Busik quick kick to the Army 1 put the Cadets in a hole, but a Busik fumble on a bad pass from center lost the advantage gained thereby.

In the second quarter, though, Army went to work. It had lost Fullback Johnny Hatch of Fort Sill, Okla., early in the game. But it got along without him pretty well through here.

Once, on a tremendous Mazur pass to Jim Kelleher for 35 yards, the Cadets made it first down on the Navy 20. They lost the ball on downs on the 16, but came right back the second time they got it again. Mazur took a Navy punt on his 21, and slipped it to Hill. The sophomore streaked up the west sideline for 57 yards before Werner nailed him on the Navy 23.

Army lost five for having a back in motion, but then sent Mazur slashing for 13 to the 15. On the next play Hank walloped off the Navy left tackle, to be forced out by Clark on the 1. He made two feet on his first try, then turned over the job to Jim Watkins, sub fullback from San Saba, Tex., who on his second attempt belted over the Navy right guard for the score.

Larson, ending his Navy coaching career with three victories over Army (the same number he helped score as a player), fielded two teams that simply wore down Army. Tackles like giants Gene Flathmann, Bill Chewning and Dick Opp; guards like Vito Vitucci and Joe Sliwka, and ends like Froude, Lars Wanggaard and Bob Zoeller were too much for Army to watch.

The Cadets, though, gave a noble account of themselves, especially hard working Mazur, and Bob Evans, who played 60 minutes of fine center.

Rams Uncork Manpower In Second Half To Trounce New York U.

By Sid Feder

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Hopped up by hopes of a bowl bid, Fordham's football powerhouse turned loose its manpower in a second half spree today to trample the Violets of New York university 30 to 9 before a crowd of 31,009 in Yankee stadium.

After throwing a major scare into the Rams in a second quarter drive that saw them score all their points, it was only a question of time until the Violets had to wilt.

Fordham chalked up its 17th win in the 22 games in which these uptown enemies have tangled since 1889. And with the victory, closing out a season which saw them lose only one game on an all-major eight-tilt schedule, the Rams are reported to have insured themselves of an engraved invitation to one of the New Year's day shindigs, possibly the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

For one half, N. Y. U. had enough to make a ball game of it, but once Steve Filipowicz and Jim Blumenstock began to lead the parade over the fading Violets, there was no stopping the Rams.

Filipowicz scored two touchdowns and Blumenstock, who was awarded the Madow trophy as the game's outstanding performer, added two more. The Fordhams gave a sub-halfback, Joe Ososki from Mt. Carmel, Pa., a chance to tally the other six-pointer.

The Rams got a two-touchdown jump in the scoring column when Filipowicz busted through from the five in the first period and from the four in the second to top off drives of 39 and 33 yards.

The officials called a pass-interference penalty on New York university, which gave Fordham 37 yards. The Violets rolled up their sleeves and went to work. Their touchdown came the very next time they got their hands on the ball when Wyatt Teubert pitched to Charley Heiser and the right-end outgalloped the entire Fordham secondary for a 70-yard scoring play.

A few minutes later, after a blocked kick and another drive had gone to the Ram one, where the big boys stiffened, Jim Tighe and Henry Majlinger broke through to toss Blumenstock in his own end zone for a safety.

That ended the first half and sliced Fordham's edge to 12 to 9.

Blumenstock ran the second half kickoff back 58 yards and two plays later Ososki piled through tackle for 20 yards and a touchdown. Early in the fourth period, Blumenstock went over his own right guard for five yards and another, topping off a 38-yard parade, and finally Blumenstock finished by slicing inside the N. Y. U. left end for seven yards at the end of a 60-yard downfield drive.

VANDERBILT HELD SCORELESS UNTIL FOURTH QUARTER

By Keith K. King

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Tennessee's Volunteers rose to their peak form to crush their traditional rival, Vanderbilt, 26-7, before 30,000 fans today and thereby dash the Commodores' hopes for a post-season bowl invitation.

Previously beaten only by Tulane and a convincing winner over Alabama last week, Vanderbilt was pushed all over the field by the savagery of the Tennessee play except for a brief fourth quarter rally. Then the Commodores marched 48 yards for their lone touchdown.

Tennessee, which had lost to Duke and Alabama early in the season hopped on Vandy at the start and never let up. Given a big break when Jack Jenkins, stellar Vanderbilt back and leading scorer of the southeastern conference, fumbled on his own 34, the Vols bottled up the Gold and Black early on splendid kicking by Walter Slater and Johnny Butler.

Slater then sparked two second-quarter touchdown drives of 33 yards each. A pass from him to End Bud Hubbell netted 17 yards for the first and the sophomore tailback went over himself from the one-yard stripe for the second.

The other two touchdowns were largely the doing of another sophomore, Bobby Cifers. He hurled a 14-yard end zone aerial to Hubbell for a score early in the third quarter, and in the waning moments he raced 24 yards around end for the final Tennessee touchdown.

Held throughout the first half within their own 35-yard line by the fast-charging Tennessee linemen and by Vol punts which kept them continually kicking from behind their own goal, the Commodores came suddenly to life near the close of the third period.

Taking the kickoff after Tennessee's third touchdown, the black-shirted gridders marched to Tennessee's 41 as the quarter ended, mainly on passes by John Burns. As the final period started, Art Rebrovich kicked out on the Volunteer 11. A penalty set the Orangemen back to their 6, and Slater booted out to the Tennessee 48. With aid of a 15-yard penalty and a 21-yard run by Bernie Rohling the Commodores reached the one-yard line, and Jenkins bulled over and kicked the point to run his total for the season to 90.

Decisive as the score was it hardly tells the supremacy Tennessee held over its old foe in their 38th meeting. Failure of his receivers to hold Johnny Butler's accurately thrown passes halted three Tennessee marches within the Vanderbilt 20-yard line, two of them bogging down on the visitors' one-yard line.

The senior scatback who earned fame as a great scoring threat, thus ended his career without scoring a touchdown all season.

The Vols rolled up 15 first downs to Vandy's 7, outrushed their opponents, 173 yards to 35, and gained a net of 149 yards on passes to 100 yards for the Commodores.

TEXAS TECH WINS FROM WAKE FOREST

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The once-defeated Texas Tech Red Raiders closed their 1941 football season today with a 35-6 rout of Wake Forest and possibly insured themselves a bid to a bowl.

Dell Morgan's boys spotted the somberly-clad black and gold Deacons six points. But, after the first period, they opened up a bag of tricks that even had fans on the Wake Forest side of the stadium cheering.

Approximately 5,000 enthusiasts turned out.

Press box observers commented that the Red Raiders probably would receive a bid to the Sun Bowl. They have lost only to Miami (Fla.) University, 6-0.

Late in the opening period Red Cochran, Deacon quarterback, rifled a pass to John Wesley Perry, who took the ball on the 38 and streaked down the sidelines for a touchdown.

Midway of the second period Tom Douglas got away on a spinner for 25 yards to Wake Forest's 14, and two plays later J. R. Callahan, sophomore halfback, flipped a bullet pass to Captain Ty Bain, who went over from the five.

After that it was a Texas Tech parade.

PITTSBURGH SCORES 27-0 VICTORY OVER CARNEGIE

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Special Delivery Edgar Jones carried the touchdown mail for the last time in Pitt livery today, delivering two six-point missives as the Panthers swamped Carnegie Tech, 27-0, in the 28th renewal of the Smoky City teams' intense "back yard rivalry."

Only 19,000 fans were in spacious Pitt stadium for the game, which this year decided nothing but the "championship of Panther Hollow," the wooded valley which separates the two schools.

BOSTON COLLEGE RALLIES TO DEFEAT HOLY CROSS

The World's Latest Market News

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Worries over threatened war with Japan, plus further tax selling, again tied up the stock market today although resulting in no especial weakness for leaders.

The list displayed slightly mixed trends at the start and, while scattered favorites managed to hold on to small advances at the close of the brief proceedings, fractional declines were widespread.

Dealings continued relatively lively because of persistent offerings to establish losses for income statements and transfers of around 400,000 shares were among the largest for any Saturday this year.

Commodities pushed up briskly in the wake of House concessions to agriculture on parities placed in the price law passed yesterday.

Bonds were irregular.

FERRIDAY, Nov. 29.—(Special)—A second test of the wildcat oil well in Catahoula parish, located about seven miles south of Jonesville, La., was made Wednesday, and operators are most optimistic over the prospect of bringing in another producer.

The only producing well located in that section of Catahoula parish is at Larto Lake and created much excitement when it was brought it. It heralded in the opinion of many experienced oil operators the opening of a new field.

A splendid showing of oil was found in this well which is known as the Womack-Cotton No. 1 in a test that was made on Sunday. It was when this test developed a showing of salt water that it was squeezed off.

The well is located on Smithfield Plantation and is about 25 miles on an airline from Natchez. It is located in section 12-6N-6-E and was drilled to a total depth of 6,810 feet.

Approximately 10 feet of saturated sand was reported in the Wilcox and Mr. Fisher and associates who drilled the well are very optimistic over the prospect of a real commercial producer being brought in.

OREGON STATE, GEORGIA TO PLAY IN BOWLS

Miami Selects Bulldogs To Represent South In Orange Bowl

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Oregon State's Beavers, the Far West's Cinderella team, will represent the Pacific coast in the Rose Bowl football game New Year's day.

President C. V. Ruzek said tonight O. S. C. had been selected for the game by a majority of conference factulty representatives.

No tall votes from member schools had been received at the time Ruzek made the announcement, but the outcome was assured.

The Beavers, rated as tail-enders at the season's start, won the undisputed conference championship today by defeating their traditional rivals, Univresity of Oregon, 12 to 7, while California was upsetting the defending title-holders, Stanford's Indians, 16 to 0.

The win gave Oregon State a record of seven victories and two losses in which the Beavers scored 123 points to their opponents' 33.

It was the climax of the dizziest conference race in history in which all other teams suffered at least three defeats. Until today Stanford and Washington still were in consideration for the bowl.

O. S. C.'s two losses were at the hands of Southern California, 13 to 7, and Washington State, 7 to 0. The Beavers blanked Stanford, Idaho, U. C. L. A., California and Montana, and also defeated Washington and Oregon.

Fans credited the stout Beaver defense with carrying O. S. C. into its first championship since the conference was organized in 1915. O. S. C. is the only one of the original members never before qualified for the Pasadena classic.

GEORGIA GETS BID

MIAMI Fla., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Georgia will represent the south in the Orange Bowl football game New Year's day.

An opponent probably will be named Monday, the schedule committee announced.

Committeemen said the choice lies among Missouri, Duquesne, Texas, Fordham and Penn State.

An invitation was extended to Georgia, and was accepted, immediately after the Bulldogs whipped Georgia Tech today, 21 to 0, to conclude a season of eight victories against one tie and one defeat.

The Georgians, coached by Wally Butts, scored 279 points against 59 for their opponents.

They opened by downing Mercer, 81 to 0, and whipped South Carolina, 34 to 6, before being tied by Mississippi, 14 to 14. Sinkwich scored the touchdown that beat Columbia in New York, 7 to 3.

The only defeat came the following week, 27 to 14, at the hands of Alabama.

Since then the Athens team has beaten Auburn, 7 to 0, Florida, 19 to 3, Centre, 47 to 6, and Dartmouth, 35 to 0 and finally Georgia Tech.

FRANKIE HEAVES THREE PASSES TO DEFEAT JACKETS

Bulldogs Expected To Receive Orange Bowl Bid As Result Of Victory

By Kenneth Gregory

ATLANTA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A new and thilling chapter in the long and bitter football rivalry of Georgia and Georgia Tech was written into the turf of Grant field today by the churning cleats of Francis Frank Sinkwich.

The red shirted Georgia Bulldogs buried the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech under a 21-to-0 score before a crowd of more than 31,000.

Finding the Tech line charging hard and fast, Sinkwich tossed passes for the Bulldogs' three touchdowns, and Leo (Expert) Costa added the three extra points.

Georgia's victory, its sixth against one tie and a defeat by Alabama, enhanced the Bulldogs' chances of receiving a post-season "bowl" bid, with the Orange Bowl in Miami the probable spot.

With but two minutes to play, Sinkwich, his fractured jaw hidden by a special helmet, was removed from the game to receive a tremendous ovation after playing for 58 minutes. His scoring passes were plucked from the air by George Poschner, Duck Conger and Lamar (Race Horse) Davis.

Davis' touchdown catch in the fourth period was a thing of beauty. A slugging penalty against Tech placed Georgia at the Jackets' 25. On the first play, Sinkwich dropped back to his right, leaped into the air and flung. Davis, stretching, and perhaps praying, snagged the ball with his finger tips.

Another surprise bullet pass by Sinkwich gave Georgia its first score just before the second period ended. From Georgia Tech's 49, Sinkwich alternated running and passing to Cliff Kimsey and Red Keuper helped with line bucks to advance to the Tech 4. Sinkwich stood still and fired the ball right down the middle to Poschner, five yards back of the goal.

Georgia's other touchdown, in the third period, came on a march of 47 yards. Sinkwich passes prevailed, the longest being 15 yards to Quarterback Kimsey. That carried to the 32, and after Sinkwich hit guard for five, the Youngstown (Ohio) All-America candidate dropped an aerial into the arms of Conger at the 7 and the big end broke away from two Tech defenders to trot across.

The lineups:

Georgia	Pos.	Georgia Tech
Conger	LE	Arthur
Greene	LT	Sanders
Ruark	LG	Dyke
Godwin	C	Wright
Kentmesky	RG	J. W. Jordan
Keltner	RT	Helms

threat. In the third period Lou Thomas gave the Wave its only other scoring chance with a 49-yard runback of an intercepted pass but penalties put Tulane back from the Tigers' 16 to midfield.

Bird's short passes to receivers who seemed to pick up interference from nowhere were L. S. U.'s most consistent ground-gaining weapon.

One of these, a spread formation, was probably the best play of the game. While Tulane's secondary watched the men on L. S. U.'s flank, Bird threw a little one right over the middle to Steven Van Burean who went 62 yards behind perfect blocking to the Tulane four. However, that was the time the Greenies made their goal-line stand.

Lipkis looked like he was away for a touchdown after intercepting a pass on his goal line. Fine blocking took him into the clear on Tulane's 45, but Walt McDonald caught him from behind. A clipping penalty, however, put the Tigers back deep in their own territory.

Three fights on the field continued intermittently for about a half hour after one upright and the crossbar of the south-end goal post was down. Cool-headed students of both schools gradually calmed their more spirited fellows and the party ended at dusk with several hundred partisans standing in a circle several yards back from the one remaining upright, giving cheers for both L. S. U. and Tulane.

The lineups:

RICE TROUNCES BAYLOR ELEVEN BY 28-14 SCORE

HOUSTON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Rice institute moved into fourth place in the Southwest conference standings today by burying Baylor 28-14 in a game which would have been remarkably dull except for a few freakish incidents.

A Rice tailback punted for a five-yard loss; the two squads had to mill around on the field at the start of the game while forgetful officials sent for the measuring chain, and a cottontail rabbit topped off the afternoon by racing down the sidelines just before the contest closed.

AUBURN WALLOPS CLEMSON, 28 TO 7

Underdog Tigers Show Amazing Speed In Upsetting Carolinians

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 29.—(AP)—An underdog band of Auburn Tigers displayed amazing speed and versality today to blast the bowl hopes of Clemson, 28 to 7, before some 12,000 homecoming day fans.

The winners, beaten five times, scored one touchdown in each period. They held the upper hand throughout with exception of a three-minute interval late in the third quarter when big Charlie Timmons led a 70-yard march for the lone Clemson tally.

Auburn showed it meant business early in the game. Back of its 7-yard-line by a good Clemson punt, little Monk Gafford sent a great kick 81 yards to the Clemson 12. A minute later, Gafford kicked out on the Clemson one, and when Booty Payne went back to punt, he fumbled a low pass from center and Jim Samford, Auburn end, fell on the ball for a score.

Louis Chateau, the Auburn placekicking specialist, converted, as he did after each of their other three scores.

Late in the second period, the Auburns struck again. Gafford raced back 20 yards to the Clemson 49 with a punt. Lloyd Cheatham, Auburn's deluxe blocker, passed to Billy Barton for 16, hit the line for 3 and passed to Aubrey Clayton for the last 30.

Ty Irby, running star, made the other two Auburn markers. One came on a 59-yard sprint after he broke through the line in the third period, and the last on a 13-yard smash through the middle late in the game.

Irby amassed 145 yards from scrimmage in 23 tries, and overshadowed the line busting efforts of the heavier Clemson backs throughout the afternoon.

Gafford punted beautifully most of the day.

Outweighed some 10 pounds per man, the Auburn line held a wide margin over Clemson's forwards.

Oregon State Comes From Behind To Win Pacific Coast Title

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Coming from behind in the final quarter, the orange-shirted Oregon State Beavers overcame a one-point deficit today to defeat the University of Oregon, 12 to 7, with the Pacific Coast conference football title and earn Oregon State its first trip to the Rose Bowl.

A relentless 60-yard drive, concluding with a vicious 28-yard buck and run through center by sub Fullback Joe Day netted the richest touchdown in Oregon State's history before 25,500.

As Stanford fell before California, 16 to 0, today's Oregon State victory gave the Beavers a clear title to the Rose Bowl.

For a while in the fourth quarter it looked as though the conference championship scramble might wind up in a four or five way tie as Oreg held a 7-6 lead.

But the Beavers came back for the winning touchdown and were on t Oregon five yard line seeking anoth as the game ended.

After a scoreless first half punct ated by several thrill-producing pur and runs, the Beavers struck for touchdown.

Halfback Bob Dethman returned punt 15 yards to the Oregon 38. Sout paw Halfback Don Durdan flipped 11-yard pass to End George Zellic "Choc" Shelton, fullback, hit for tw yards. An unnecessary roughness pe alty called against Oregon saw Refer Jack Friel pace off 15 yards to t Oregon 3 yard stripe. Neither Det man nor Durdan could gain in tw plays, but Shelton sliced off the rig guard for the final three yards a the score.

Oregon went ahead on the first pl of the last quarter. Curt Mecham r to his left with his left arm cocked if to pass. But he cut for the sid lines, outdistanced the Oregon Sta secondary by sweeping back to mi field and went over the goal line climax a beautiful 53-yard run.

Halfback Jimmy Newquist's ki was true.

But then came that 60-yard dri and Day's touchdown plunge.

ALIFORNIA WINS STANFORD GAME

olden Bears Upset Indians, 16 To 0, In Stunning Triumph

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 29.—(AP)—alifornia's Golden Bears wrote a unning climax to an up and down otball season today with a 15 to 0 set victory over the defending coast nference champions, Stanford's Inans.

A crowd of 70,000 fans, braving reatening weather to watch the 48th newal of the classic, saw the 1 to short end Bears blast Stanford's imsy Rose-Bowl hopes with crushg defensive play after moving into first period lead on a single touchwn run.

California struck with lightning eed a minute after the game opened score a touchdown, add the extra point and go into a lead that never was threatened.

Nine more points were posted in a thrilling last quarter, when the Bears poured through to block two Stanford punts. One resulted in an automatic safety, the ball bounding out of the end zone.

In the fourth quarter, on the safety scoring play, Jean Witter, right guard, charged into Frank Albert before the left footed all-America quarterback of 1940 could get the ball out of reach.

With two minutes to go, Al Cole, substituting for Albert, was behind his own goal to kick. Glen Whalen, California quarterback, sliced through this time. The ball popped up into the air and big Bob Reinhard, left tackle of the Bears and also an all-America holdover from last season, leaped into the air to clutch it for a touchdown. Merlo added the extra point again with a place-kick.

Private plane pilots flew an aggregate 229 million miles in 16,500 airplanes during 1940.

Two Class A Teams Meet Here Saturday As Feature Of Festival

The Bengals of Neville High school get busy tomorrow preparing for the third annual Christmas festival battle here Saturday with the Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers.

Neville and Jonesboro-Hodge clashed in the first Christmas festival battle in 1939 with the locals shading the Jackson parish eleven, 13 to 12, in a hard fought contest. Coach C. E. "Sonny" Maroney's present Jonesboro-Hodge aggregation, however, is a big favorite to even the score with Coach Percy Brown's charges Saturday.

Ruston's Bearcats and Ouachita's Lions were the representatives in the grid tussle last year with the game resulting in a 6-6 tie.

Neville, after its most disastrous season, will strive to salvage what little of the season's glory might be left by whipping the invaders, but Jonesboro-Hodge should find the local Bengals a fairly good mark.

Not since 1929 when the old Monroe City High school team lost five of nine games with an almost completely inexperienced team has a city school aggregation had such a rough season. Neville this year suffered seven setbacks, gained one tie and scored a single victory.

MAROONS ASSUME CONFERENCE TITLE

ATLANTA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Mississippi State became Southeastern conference champions today when Jennings Moates slipped through the University of Mississippi line on a quarterback sneak to give his teammates a 6-0 victory and thrill thousands of spectators at Oxford, Miss.

Vanderbilt dropped out of the bowl picture before an inspired Tennessee team that won 26-7 as a Knoxville crowd of 30,000 fans watched. Vandy could score only on desperate passes in the last quarter.

The battered and oft-beaten Louisiana State Tigers swept through Tulane for a 19-0 upset. Almost 50,000 fans in New Orleans saw the Green Wave outplayed in every department of the game.

The Bulldogs of Georgia passed their way to a 21-0 win over Tech, although the Yellow Jackets stopped Frankie Sinkwich's running attack cold, the sensational tailback tossed three touchdown passes. The game was played in Atlanta before 32,000.

Auburn surprised a homecoming crowd by tripping favored Clemson 28-7. Kentucky, Florida and Alabama were idle yesterday.

NEBRASKA EKES OUT 7-6 VICTORY OVER OKLAHOMA

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A 70-yard touchdown run by a substitute fullback and a tackle's accurate place-kick gave Nebraska a 7-to-6 victory over Oklahoma today before 20,000 people.

It also gave Nebraska a tie with Oklahoma for second place in the Big Six conference, each team having won three conference games and lost two.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—(The Morning World Special News Service)—If Oregon State wins the Western Rose Bowl bid, you can look for some burned ears as well as a good game at Pasadena New Year's day. . . . Publicity Director Bud Forrester's hint that the Beavers would like to play Fordham, Missouri or Duke shows what's up. . . . The northern teams of the coast conference, which have received plenty of blasts from their "big time" rivals in California, would like nothing better than to retort: "Well, we don't have to pick set-ups for the Rose Bowl." . . . Dick Schmon, Princeton's Canadian-born captain-elect, has a kid brother ready to enter college next year. Bob Schmon was backfield star of the Ridley college rugby team that won the Canadian "Little Big Four" championship this season. . . . Golfer Jug McSpaden had to change his plans when his second son was born a few days ago. "I had planned to have Jay (age two) win the amateur championship in 1961," he said. "It looks now as if he'd have to turn pro and make room for this boy."

PERSON-ALLEY-TIES

The Washington Evening Star duckpin tournament, which drew 16,908 bowlers last year, will charge a $1 entry fee this winter and put the dough into defense bonds for prizes. . . . It used to be free. . . . It takes a good voice as well as bowling ability to make the Malvey's service team at Moorhead, Minn. The captain has a tryout each fall and picks the loudest yellers to roll with him. . . . Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, who was a star in track and field, basketball and golf, has taken up bowling and rolled a 716 series in practice recently. A father and his four sons are leading a bowling league in Shenandoah, Ia. Alvin (Pop) Tyner rolled a 581 series to lead his team into the top spot.

SERVICE DEPT.

Teddy Graham, the former big league hockey player, stepped down in rank from captain to lieutenant to go overseas with Canada's Fifth (armored) division. Joe Lamb and Stew Evans also are captains in that division. . . . Tommy Gomez, the Tampa heavyweight, apparently can't get enough fighting in the war "games." . . . He took time out a few days ago to put on a ring scrap with an army rival at Chester, S. C. . . . Don Lambeau, son of the Green Bay Packers' coach, has joined up with the signal crops at Fort Lewis (Wash.) He played for the Fordham frosh last year. . . . Two teams of R. A. F. boys, the Whirlwinds and Hurricanes, are entered in the Dallas County (Tex.) Soccer league. They're training at Terrell, Tex. . . . Dominick Benarducci and Frank Dombrowski, teammates for four years at an Erie (Pa.) High school, were on opposing sides when the 37th division gridders of Camp Shelby, Miss., played the 32nd division of Camp Livingston, La., the other day.

CLEANING THE CUFF

Hans Lobert's comment after he signed to manage the Phils was: "Life begins at 60, I guess." . . . His predecessors could add: "And whatta life." . . . Gil Purcell, Canadian press superintendent who is in England with the Canadian army, cabled pals 20 bucks to bet on the Winnipeg Blue Bombers against the Ottawa Rough Riders in tdoay's Canadian football championship final—and they say U. S. fans are wild. . . . Whizzer White is reported to have applied for a job with the department of justice. Would that make him a G-Whizzer

WILLIAM C. BRADEN

W. O. W. LEADER TO BE VISITOR

Sovereign W. C. Braden, National Auditor, To Be Honor Guest

Sovereign William C. Braden, native of Louisiana, but for some years national auditor and assistant general attorney for the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, Omaha, Nebr., will be a guest of honor at an open house party planned here at Woodmen of the World hall, December 2, at 7:30 p.m.

All members of the order and their families are invited and the following camps will be represented: Columbia, Urania, Clarks, Drew, Bastrop, Winnsboro, Crowville, Rosefield, Start, Rayville, Downsville, Point, Farmerville, Haile, Spencer, Choudrant, Jonesboro, Chatham, Calhoun, Ruston, Marion and Litroe.

Mr. Braden, whose efforts have been such as to contribute to a large degree to the outstanding success of the order, has had an interesting history. He was born in Calcasieu parish, but later his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Braden, moved to Lake Charles.

Upon locating in Lake Charles he attended the public schools, from which he graduated in 1902. He then entered Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, graduating there with high honors in 1908. After finishing college, and while he continued to read law, his chosen profession, he taught two country schools and later taught in the city high school, receiving his L. L. B. degree from L. S. U. in 1910, after which he was admitted to the bar and began the practice of law.

At the solicitation of close friends he became a candidate for city judge in the year 1916. He was warmly supported for the office and was easily elected. In 1917, Judge Braden married Miss Mary Laura Walsh, of Covington, La. They are parents of two children, a son and daughter, William, Jr., and Mary Braden.

Judge Braden has always taken a keen interest in Woodcraft, being elected consul commander of Camp No. 1, Lake Charles, in 1916, and reelected in 1917, 1918 and 1919. He was elected head consul of Louisiana jurisdiction in 1925, and reelected in 1929 and has made a splendid record in visiting camps.

During the Sovereign Camp meeting in Seattle in July, 1923, he was elected head sentry of the Sovereign Camp and has since advanced to the office of a member of the board of auditors. The judge is a member of the Episcopal church and takes an interest in its affairs. In 1935 he accepted the position of assistant general attorney in the legal department of the W. O. W. and moved with his family to Omaha, where he is now residing.

Nutrition Forms Basis Of Talk At Central Grammar P.-T. A.

Mrs. A. N. Robinson discussed "To Market We Go" before members of the P.-T. A. study group of the Central Grammar school Thursday afternoon. The program was in connection with consumer education. She explained that in May, 1941, 900 men and women gathered in Washington at the request of the president to form a national defense nutrition program. As a result a "nutritional yardstick" resulted.

This showed that, except for vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, the average normal person can secure all the nutritional elements he requires in carefully selected foods, she said.

These foods, as explained by the speaker, are milk, meat, eggs, vegetables, potatoes, fruits, flour, bread, cereals and butter, with certain supplimentary foods.

In the matter of milk, she said that a quart daily is needed for every school child; a pint for adults.

An important element is contained in meats and also is sea foods, and every child, she said, and every adult, should have one or more servings of meat or fish each day. It was explained that all types of meat, pork, beef, lamb, mutton poultry and fish, canned and fresh, are required. Liver, kidney, heart or some other glandular meat are valuable if served once a week. Cheese, eggs, dried peas and beans were called good for meatless days.

One egg a day is regarded as valuable for all persons, she said. Vegetables supply minerals, vitamine and bulk, and one leafy or green or yellow vegetable is desirable, the speaker stated.

Potatoes are a heat and energy food, it was explained, and they also contain minerals and, baked or boiled in their jackets, are a source of vitamins.

Fruits were declared to be helpful, and whole wheat or enriched flour and bread were called the best obtainable. For breakfast it was advised to use only whole grain products. The richest cereal in vitamin B is oatmeal, Mrs. Robinson said.

If oleomargerine is substituted for butter it should contain vitamin A, she said. Peanut butter was cited as being useful.

There was a general discussion and the members stated that the program was a highly helpful one.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Worries over threatened war with Japan, plus further tax selling, again tied up the stock market today although resulting in no especial weakness for leaders.

The list displayed slightly mixed trends at the start and, while scattered favorites managed to hold on to small advances at the close of the brief proceedings, fractional declines were widespread.

Dealings continued relatively lively because of persistent offerings to establish losses for income statements and transfers of around 400,000 shares were among the largest for any Saturday this year.

Commodities pushed up briskly in the wake of House concessions to agriculture on parities placed in the price law passed yesterday.

Bonds were irregular.

FERRIDAY, Nov. 29.—(Special)—A second test of the wildcat oil well in Catahoula parish, located about seven miles south of Jonesville, La., was made Wednesday, and operators are most optimistic over the prospect of bringing in another producer.

The only producing well located in that section of Catahoula parish is at Larto Lake and created much excitement when it was brought it. It heralded in the opinion of many experienced oil operators the opening of a new field.

A splendid showing of oil was found in this well which is known as the Womack-Cotton No. 1 in a test that was made on Sunday. It was when this test developed a showing of salt water that it was squeezed off.

The well is located on Smithfield Plantation and is about 25 miles on an airline from Natchez. It is located in section 12-6N-6-E and was drilled to a total depth of 6,810 feet.

Approximately 10 feet of saturated sand was reported in the Wilcox and Mr. Fisher and associates who drilled the well are very optimistic over the prospect of a real commercial producer being brought in.

Miss Jeanette Peck, one of the most enthusiastic football fans at Northeast Junior college, walks across the field with two prominent gridiron figures, Paul Laudadio and Joe J. Swanger. Both players have distinguished themselves in football circles this season.

Miss Jean Terzia, home from Sophie Newcomb college for the Thanksgiving holidays, Miss Gladys Emma Whitfield, home from Oberlin, La., where she is a member of the high school faculty, and her friend, Miss Elaine Clements, of Oberlin, who spent the Thanksgiving holidays in the Henry Whitfield home, spent every available moment riding horseback. They are seen in the picture to the left.

Miss Martha Mitchell of Nashville, Tenn., upper right, accompanied Miss Mary Stuart Kellogg home from Sophie Newcomb college for the Thanksgiving holidays. She was extensively entertained socially. Miss Martha Clayton Kilpatrick, lower right, also home from Sophie Newcomb for the holidays, was among the hostesses entertaining for Miss Mitchell.

Eve Bradford's CHAT COLUMN

"THE pursuit of happiness" is still our inalienable right. We are free to play, to eat, to worship according to our dictates and to indulge in the wildest sartorial whim if we so desire. As we all know, in certain totalitarian states the government even dictates what women shall wear and what the people shall eat.

Opening of Toyland in the Monroe shops this week is quite significant of the fact that children are free to play when they tumble out of school. They needn't perform military drills or learn intricate salutes. They are free this year as in years past to attend Santa's big show and view the toys of 1941. Santa's big show is now playing to an audience of little folks, wider-eyed, more enchanted than ever. Dolls seem to be more beautiful, trains faster and planes seem to fly higher than ever before—in fact all the toys seem more exciting. And listen, kiddies: be patient with mother and dad. They will want to play with everything they see.

In our pursuit of happiness this year we find much to entertain us. Next Saturday the magic of Christmas will really be upon us. DeSiard street will be transformed into a regular "Santa Claus Lane" with bells chiming "angels" caroling and the show windows of every shop a glittering spectacle. We will thrill to the pageantry of the Yuletide. All this simply because we have a progressive Chamber of Commerce and a civic-spirited secretary who believes in spreading Christmas magic with lavish hand.

Following the glittering pageant Saturday morning, with that jolly old fellow in the crimson jacket and long white beard the center of attraction, a reception will be held for the "queen" in the Crystal ballroom of the Virginia hotel. A galaxy of beautiful girls, members of the queen's court, and the lovely matrons, wives of the members of the Chamber of Commerce and merchants who are contributing the funds, will be in attendance.

There is an old-fashioned saying that "it takes money to make the mare go." Christmas magic is wonderful, of course, but it doesn't come out of Pandora's box. It takes money, lots of it, to transform the city streets into a "Santa Claus Lane."

The orchids, this morning, most certainly go to that gallant company of merchants who intend to make this Christmas pageant one that will be remembered for all time to come. They are giving generously so that every one, young and old, will be given a taste of the magic that is Christmas. We can show our appreciation by shopping early and avoid the nightmare of last-minute rush, dreaded by every merchant and salesman.

There are many women who can bake cakes that will win blue ribbons at the parish fair, concoct a salad fit for the gods or whip up a souffle de something or other that would tempt even a gourmet, but there are few women who can shoot down a wild goose. In this class Irene Beasley claims distinction. Bunn Beasley certainly made a nimrod out of his wife. They go hunting together and have more fun than any other married couple in Monroe. Irene experienced the thrill of shooting a wild goose on a recent hunting expedition in south Louisiana where Lutcher Brown of San Antonio maintains a hunting lodge deluxe. For the benefit of wives who would like to know how to cook correctly the wild ducks their husbands bring home she gives her recipe. She stuffs each duck with half an apple, half an onion and a piece of celery. Inside is placed a tablespoon of sherry wine and one half a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce. Rub the breasts of the ducks with garlic, then grease with bacon drippings. Do not, under any circumstance, open the oven door while the ducks are cooking. The cooking time for ducks (canvas-backs), 20 minutes; mallards, 18 minutes.

Floyd Martin is an authority on quail cooking. He gets his quota every year and really enjoys his home work. He is an expert at preparing the quail for the oven. First he rubs them with butter, salt and pepper. Then the legs and wings are trussed with bacon. In the roasting pan, with a tablespoon of butter and two tablespoons of water for each bird, they are cooked in a hot oven until done. Lemon juice and melted butter are poured over the quail before being placed on slices of toast. Anyone who can resist eating quail cooked the Floyd Martin way should be given a week on bread and water.

Such a marvelous age in which we live. Like magic giant oaks appear overnight on barren lots. Owners of new homes used to plant a seedling, nourish it with painstaking care and watch for it to grow year after year. Now a full grown oak tree can be transplanted and in most cases it lives and flourishes. The Richard Kelloggs' new home is surrounded by beautiful oaks transplanted from the "forest primeval." Just yesterday the lot was barren but today great oaks are silhouetted against the winter sky.

Can spring be far behind when azaleas are blooming in Monroe gardens? An early blooming variety, deep pink in color, is attracting the attention of those who motor past the Claud Harrison and the A. G. McHenry gardens.

It seems strange but it is always the flowers that come first that are enjoyed mostly. More beautiful azaleas than those blooming today will come later in the season but it is these first blooms that we love.

We find ourselves awaiting the blooming of azaleas in the Carl McHenry gardens. Bushes, grouped in attractive manner, completely encircle the spacious garden. It will be a beautiful sight to behold when they are all in bloom.

It seems rather premature to be talking about spring before winter has fairly begun but believe it or not, the shops are showing early spring hats for milady. Feminine caprices are controlled by the weather, however, so it all depends whether or not these spring hats will be worn in December. Just the same, it is a grand and glorious feeling to have a jaunty spring hat tucked away for some warm, sunny day.

In the course of social events in Monroe, something new turns up every now and again—some club that stimulates enthusiasm and support. Last week a Spinster club was organized by a group of young lovelies. All the young unmarrieds will no doubt be fighting for membership—there will be some disappointed young women we fear as the membership is limited to 25.

However, there will always be a vacancy as a member is "kicked" out just as soon as her marriage takes place. The engagement announcement will call for a "kicking out party," accompanied by a beautiful gift.

The club has been formed purely for the pursuit of happiness with a gala social affair just before Christmas the initial event.

"It takes a smile to catch a smile." We always think of this sage saying whenever we look at Sara Frances Hinkle. She has a smile that is contagious. It was the smile, no doubt, coupled with many charming attributes that won her a place in the 1941-42 issue of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Sara Frances will receive her B. S. degree from the Louisiana State university in June. She is pledge mistress of the Chi Omega sorority and representative of the college of arts and sciences on the student council. Last year she served on the junior editorial staff of the Gumbo yearbook and received the award given by Lambda, inter-sorority group, as the outstanding transfer. She was graduated from Northeast Junior college where she was a member of Phi Theta Kappa and the Purple Jackets. She was president of the student body during her senior year at Neville High school and served as president of Delta Beta Sigma, national high school sorority.

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is published through the cooperation of 600 American universities and colleges. It is the only means of national recognition for graduates which is devoid of politics, fees and dues. Several students from accredited colleges are selected each year, by an unprejudiced committee, for their biographies. The purpose of Who's Who is to serve as an incentive for students to get the most out of their college careers, as a means of compensation to students for what they have already done, as a recommendation to the business world, and as a standard of measurement for students.

Mrs. David Garrett, Mrs. T. O. Bancroft, Mrs. Joseph P. Brown and Mrs. Carl McHenry motored over to Shreveport to attend "There Shall Be No Night," starring Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, at the municipal auditorium. This play, written by Robert Emmett Sherwood, has been called the most forceful plea for defense of small nations and their rights in the world today.

The scene of the play is Finland during that country's fight to hold its boundaries against Russian invasion. But the play is a plea for all small nations facing invasion. And Sherwood believes that submission is too great a price to pay for peace.

Mrs. E. C. Cobb has been removed from Riverside Sanitarium to her home, 614 Washington, where she is convalescing from a recent minor operation.

Wedding Ceremony Performed November 28 At Methodist Church By Rev. Freeman

Claiming the interest of a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Dorothymae Burge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Burge, and Alex Winn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Winn of West Monroe, November 28 at the First Methodist church, with the pastor, A. M. Freeman, performing the impressive ceremony.

White and gold colored chrysanthemums interspersed with autumn leaves banked the chancel rail and the altar. Tall yellow tapers burned in the background against a mass of autumn foliage and bronze colored chrysanthemums.

A prenuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. John Sholars, organist. Herlong Averett accompanied by Mrs. Sholars, sang in splendid voice, "I Love You Truly," by Bond, and "Because," by d'Hardelot. During the ceremony Densmore's "If God Left Only You" was impressively rendered.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Roy Johnson of Atlanta, Ga., served as matron of honor. She wore a lovely model of honey gold, crepe trimmed with gold metal sequins, and all accessories of tobacco brown. A corsage of Talisman roses was worn.

Truman McCrea served as best man. The ushers were Thomas Jefferson and James Brown.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful costume suit of Victory blue trimmed with mink and a small mink hat with shoulder length brown veil. A corsage of orchids added the last note of distinction. A gold pin, an heirloom in the bride's family, was worn for something old.

The bride's mother wore a Defense blue crepe model with black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Winn, the bridegroom's mother, wore a smoke grey model with black accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Winn left on a brief honeymoon. Later they will be at home at 301 North Fourth street, West Monroe.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, where she was a member of the college trio and contralto soloist with the college choir. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Delta Kappa Phi sororities.

Mr. Winn is a graduate of the Neville High school and is associated with the insurance department of the Mulhearn Funeral home.

WILLIAM C. BRADEN

W. O. W. LEADER TO BE VISITOR

Sovereign W. C. Braden, National Auditor, To Be Honor Guest

Sovereign William C. Braden, native of Louisiana, but for some years national auditor and assistant general attorney for the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, Omaha, Nebr., will be a guest of honor at an open house party planned here at Woodmen of the World hall, December 2, at 7:30 p.m.

All members of the order and their families are invited and the following camps will be represented: Columbia, Urania, Clarks, Drew, Bastrop, Winnsboro, Crowville, Rosefield, Start, Rayville, Downsville, Point, Farmerville, Haile, Spencer, Choudrant, Jonesboro, Chatham, Calhoun, Ruston, Marion and Litroe.

Mr. Braden, whose efforts have been such as to contribute to a large degree to the outstanding success of the order, has had an interesting history. He was born in Calcasieu parish, but later his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Braden, moved to Lake Charles.

Upon locating in Lake Charles he attended the public schools, from which he graduated in 1902. He then entered Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, graduating there with high honors in 1908. After finishing college, and while he continued to read law, his chosen profession, he taught two country schools and later taught in the city high school, receiving his L. L. B. degree from L. S. U. in 1910, after which he was admitted to the bar and began the practice of law.

At the solicitation of close friends he became a candidate for city judge in the year 1916. He was warmly supported for the office and was easily elected. In 1917, Judge Braden married Miss Mary Laura Walsh, of Covington, La. They are parents of two children, a son and daughter, William, Jr., and Mary Braden.

Judge Braden has always taken a keen interest in Woodcraft, being elected consul commander of Camp No. 1, Lake Charles, in 1916, and reelected in 1917, 1918 and 1919. He was elected head consul of Louisiana jurisdiction in 1925, and reelected in 1929 and has made a splendid record in visiting camps.

During the Sovereign Camp meeting in Seattle in July, 1929, he was elected head sentry of the Sovereign Camp and has since advanced to the office of a member of the board of auditors. The judge is a member of the Episcopal church and takes an interest in its affairs. In 1935 he accepted the position of assistant general attorney in the legal department of the W. O. W. and moved with his family to Omaha, where he is now residing.

PROPER CHOICE OF FOOD URGED

Nutrition Forms Basis Of Talk At Central Grammar P.-T. A.

Mrs. A. N. Robinson discussed "To Market We Go" before members of the P.-T. A. study group of the Central Grammar school Thursday afternoon. The program was in connection with consumer education. She explained that in May, 1941, 900 men and women gathered in Washington at the request of the president to form a national defense nutrition program. As a result a "nutritional yardstick" resulted.

This showed that, except for vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, the average normal person can secure all the nutritional elements he requires in carefully selected foods, she said.

These foods, as explained by the speaker, are milk, meat, eggs, vegetables, potatoes, fruits, flour, bread, cereals and butter, with certain suplimentary foods.

In the matter of milk, she said that a quart daily is needed for every school child; a pint for adults.

An important element is contained in meats and also is sea foods, and every child, she said, and every adult, should have one or more servings of meat or fish each day. It was explained that all types of meat, pork, beef, lamb, mutton poultry and fish, canned and fresh, are required. Liver, kidney, heart or some other glandular meat are valuable if served once a week. Cheese, eggs, dried peas and beans were called good for meatless days.

One egg a day is regarded as valuable for all persons, she said. Vegetables supply minerals, vitamine and bulk, and one leafy or green or yellow vegetable is desirable, the speaker stated.

Potatoes are a heat and energy food, it was explained, and they also contain minerals and, baked or boiled in their jackets, are a source of vitamins.

Fruits were declared to be helpful, and whole wheat or enriched flour and bread were called the best obtainable. For breakfast it was advised to use only whole grain products. The richest cereal in vitamin B is oatmeal, Mrs. Robinson said.

If oleomargerine is substituted for butter it should contain vitamin A, she said. Peanut butter was cited as being useful.

There was a general discussion and the members stated that the program was a highly helpful one.

Women's Medical And Nursing Work Reviewed

Mrs. Floyd Matthews Contributes Article On Subject At Literary Club Meeting

The Monroe Literary club met in the home of Mrs. W. T. Ellis last week. The president, Mrs. D. N. Barron, presided over a brief business session and the club voted to contribute to the penny art fund. Reports of delegates to Louisiana Federated Women's clubs, Mrs. R. O. Ware, Mrs. W. L. Moore and Mrs. Barron, were heard at this time.

Mrs. Floyd Matthews contributed a most interesting article on "Women in Medicine and Nursing." She said in part:

"Women pioneers, fighting obstacles which seem ridiculous to us of the 20th century, had established a foothold in medicine before the Civil war and had found themselves, in spite of opposition and prejudice, much in demand. During the war many of them took their chances of death with the men, did the work of the sanitary commission on the battlefield and in hospitals. Yet, when the war ended and more and more young women looked to this fascinating profession, they found the road hard and thorny even from the first, and it was a long fight to gain admittance into the medical colleges.

"The long siege laid by women of the medical profession is thrilling and heartbreaking. Thrilling, because something in the Anglo-Saxon spirit always vibrates at the sight of determined weakness attacking entrenched strength; heartbreaking, because the subject was one which illiberal professors could by various methods increase the obstacles which ambitious young women had to surmount. In the colonial period of America there were many female midwives and very few professional physicians. Out of the Revolutionary period came a great scientific stirring along medical and surgical lines.

"English physicians settled in the United States and Americans went to Europe to study medicine, and as the profession grew in worth and dignity, trained male physicians put most of the ignorant female midwives from the world of medicine. In 1848 Dr. Samuel Gregory of Boston, protesting against the institution of male midwives, started a school in Boston called the Female Medical college. It was, however, not really a college nor even a medical school as we interpret the term today; it was merely a course in scientific midwifery. But in 1850 was founded an institution aiming to give a thorough education—the Female Medical College of Philadelphia. This started with 40 students and three rooms.

"A few men doctors, at the expense of their reputation, undertook to lecture there. Eight members of the first class were graduated in 1852, among them two notable women, Ann Preston and Hannah Longshore. The latter was the first woman to hang out her shingle. Often she had trouble getting druggists to fill her prescriptions. Harriet Hunt's career is interesting. Before the college opened she, with several other women, appeared in various cities and demanded to be educated as full-fledged physicians.

"The careers of all other early women physicians pale beside those of the two Blackwells, Elizabeth and Emily. They were born in England. coming to America in 1832, and were educated here and worked with the poor women and children in New York. They were the founders of that New York dispensary for poor women and children. Dr. Anita Tyng was the first woman surgeon. Dr. Mary Thompson of Chicago was the first to perform major operations entirely on her own responsibility and she, like her eastern sisters, founded in 1865 a womens' hospital. In 1882, Johns Hopkins, then the last word in American scientific training crowned the movement of educating women in medicine by admitting them to the institution.

"After the struggle women had to get an education in medicine, came a greater struggle for recognition by the men of their own profession. In 1859 the Philadelphia County Medical Society met and decreed that if any of its members held consultation with a woman physician he would be expelled.

"Emily Barrington was a pioneer in helping open the way for women to obtain positions in the New York City hospitals. Maud Slye, sometimes called the 'American Curie,' is a University of Chicago pathologist, who since 1908 has been tending and breeding and writing biographies of thousands of mice in an effort to learn more about cancer and its causes. Forty-two brochures on the nature and inheritability of cancer have been published by Miss Slye. Kate C. Hurd and Alice Hall are two outstanding physicians because it was through them that it was developed that many diseases could be prevented by using preventive medicine in place of curative medicine. Dr. Florence Saben, 69, has a long career of 'firsts.' She was the first woman to graduate from Johns Hopkins, first to teach there, first member of the National Academy of Science, first in her studies of tuberculosis. Dr. Simon Ilexner once called her the greatest living woman scientist and one of the foremost scientists of all time. Dr. Eleanor Bliss, 41, worked with Dr. Perrin Long in bringing sulfanilamide to the United States. She is also one of the chief authorities in the newer sulfa-drugs.

"Now we come to the little sister of medicine—nursing. From time immemorial, nursing has been a home industry with women, but as our society grew more complete, nursing became a kind of roughly skilled trade practiced for money outside the home. Every community had its lists of sturdy women with some self-acquired knowledge in tending the sick. The first organized nursing we have any record of was the Philadelphia Quakers established in 1838.

"These women received a little instruction, then they were sent out as visiting nurses in the poor districts. After a few months at this job they France.

received certificates for general work. The name of Florence Nightingale is known to the whole world. Mention the Crimean war and you instantly think of her. When in 1854 news came from the Crimea that wounded were suffering horribly, she gathered 37 assistants and rushed to the front and to work. She had made a systematic study of nursing all over Europe and at 33 she was superintendent of a hospital, at 34 became the first war nurse, and at 35 was world famous for the remarkable things she had achieved in the Crimea. She devoted all the rest of her life to work pertaining to nursing and working to improving general conditions along this line.

"Two American names follow that of Miss Nightingale—Clara Barton and Dorothea Dix. Less directly associated with the creation of nursing as a profession, they did almost as much as their English contemporary to give it galmour and prestige. Dorothea Dix was first to call attention to the conditions of the insane in this country and through years of agitation established the tradition of humane and understanding treatment. Miss Barton was the first person to try to organize the Red Cross and is responsible for the Red Cross services applying to all public calamities instead of just for war horrors. Another who has gone far is Julia Catherine Stimson. After a college career she decided to study further along the line of biology and sociology. After many years of varied positions of importance she was given the rank of major in the Army School of Nursing, the first nurse to hold this title. In May, 1937, Major Stimson retired. Today she continues as president of American Nurses' Association and is chairman of the Nursing Council of National Defense."

Conversational Hour In Home Of Mrs. George Vaughan Honors Bride-To-Be

Miss Elethia Edwards, whose marriage to Mr. James Douglas Kelly will take place December 22 at the First Baptist church, is being extensively feted with charming pre-nuptial affairs.

Prominent among the courtesies extended last week was the conversational hour in the home of Mrs. George Vaughan.

The reception suite, florally adorned with beautiful yellow chrysanthemums, formed a lovely setting for the hostess and her guests and Miss Edwards who wore a beautiful peacock blue afternoon model embroidered in iridescant beads. A corsage of mauve colored chrysanthemums added a lovely color note.

Beautiful gifts of a miscellaneous nature were bestowed upon Miss Edwards at this time. They were opened and displayed by Miss Edwards with considerable pride.

The guests were invited into the dining room, where coffee was poured from silver urns placed at one end of the beautifully appointed refreshment table. An oblong plaque of yellow chrysanthemums, with yellow tapers burning in their midst, formed the central floral ornamentation. Silver trays laden with luscious confections were passed among the guests.

Those present in addition to Miss Edwards and her mother, Mrs. P. N. Edwards, were: Mrs. A. G. Bagwell, Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mrs. William James, Mrs. Milton Adams, Mrs. W. L. Ouachita Parish P.-T. A. Hostesses At Program

Last Thursday night the doors of the Ouachita Parish High school and Grammar school were thrown wide in hospitable manner to the public generally with members of the Parent-Teacher association, acting as hostesses, assisted by members of the Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A.

The visitors were free to roam around the corridors and visit the various rooms where the work accomplished by the pupils was on display. In several rooms a note of hospitality was manifested in the serving of confections.

Later the assemblage met in the auditorium where Mrs. D. L. Nicol, presided during the splendid program. Albert Cloud, Jr., gave the Salute to the Flag and The American's Creed. "Americanism," an oration, by Pelham St. George Dissell, was very splendidly given by Jack Hays.

"The Thunderer March" by Sousa and "The Phantom Trumpeters" by Gillette were played by the Ouachita High school band, directed by Mr. Walter C. Minniear.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon sang in beautiful voice the state P.-T. A. song, "My Louisiana," and members joined in the repetition of the first verse. Mrs. Fagan Cox, state president is desirous of having all members know the adopted song of the organiaztion. Mr. Joe Craig accompanied Mrs. Coon at the piano.

"The Desert Song Overture" by Romberg, "The Stars and Stripes Forever" by Sousa, and "The Star-Spangled Banner" completed the musical numbers. The audience joined in singing the first verse of the anthem.

The report of the registration in the various rooms was made by Miss Zelda Moss, program chairman. Beautiful pot plants were presented Miss Varnado's sixth grade room in the grammar school, and Mrs. C. C. Shultz' sophomore girls in the high school.

Mrs. John Young made several announcements that were of interest to all, stressing the P.-T. A. membership drive, Ouachita-Lake Charles football ticket sale, and the P.-T. A. carnival planned for December 5 at the high school.

Benediction was given by the Rev. C. K. Smith.

Junior Literary Club Meets In Stark Home

Misses Ola Cooper and Elaine McDonald entertained the Mangham Junior Literary club Wednesday evening in the home of Mrs. T. W. Stark.

After the reading of the club collect, led by Mrs. Fleming Hatch, the roll was called and the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. F. A. Childress. Four new members, Mrs. Herman Grant, Miss Ola Boughton, Miss Elaine McDonald, and Miss Theo Davis, were welcomed into the club by the president. A year's leave of absence was granted Mrs. R. L. Matthews, charter member of the club, who has moved to Baton Rouge. Miss Ada Preston was appointed national defense chairman, and Miss Faye Brunson was named to represent the club on the community Christmas tree committee. Plans were made for the annual Christmas party, to be held in the home economics department this year.

Mrs. John McElwee, leader of the program, introduced Mrs. Nathan Blair, who gave an interesting paper on Boys Town, Neb. Reading a personal letter from Father Flanagan, Mrs. Blair disclosed the following facts of interest:

"Last year a new building program was completed, enabling 500 boys to be cared for in place of 200, as previously. A new infirmary was added. At present we are endeavoring to raise funds with which to erect and equip a trade school building. I firmly believe that, in addition to their academic education, these boys must be taught a practical knowledge of some trade, so they can leave Boys Town with the ability to earn their living with their hands."

Mrs. Blair said in part: "Boys Town is a real town, incorporated with its boy mayor and six boy councilmen, regular members of the Nebraska League of Municipalities. Elections are held twice a year, and are hotly contested. A boy who shirks his duty loses his vote, and mighty few boys will take a chance at that.

"There are no distinctions of race, nationality or creed. All that is demanded is that the boy need an opportunity, and that there be room for him. These boys were all once homeless, neglected, abandoned, many of them from broken homes or homes which were a travesty on the name. All these boys make good when brought to Boys Town. Of the 3,000 boys Father Flanagan has welcomed, he has yet to see one of them go wrong after leaving."

Speaking on Secretary of Labor Perkins, Mrs. Paul Frasier said: "Frances Perkins, better known as a problem child to the press in America, has always led a very active life and seems to always hold a public office. She was appointed secretary of labor March 4, 1933, was made chairman of the president's committee on economic security in 1934, is director of the American Child Hygiene association, and is a member of the National Fire Protective association. She was awarded the medal for eminent achievement by the American Women's association in 1933."

At the close of the meeting, a delicious salad course was served to the following: Miss Mary Mhoon Noble, Miss Bessie Noble, Miss Faye Brunson, Miss Theo Davis, Miss Ola Boughton, Miss Ola Cooper, Miss Elaine McDonald, Miss Janet Hixon, Mrs. John S. Hewith, Mrs. F. A. Childress, Mrs. John McElwee, Mrs. Herman Grant, Mrs. Paul Frasier, Mrs. Nathan Blair and Mrs. Fleming Hatch.

Many New Books Listed At Public Library Here

Freedom to read the books of our own choosing is one of the greatest privileges people of this nation enjoy. Recent burning of books in Germany is one of the greatest crimes committed against man in the history of the world to our way of thinking.

The number of men and women who visit daily the Ouachita parish public library on Jackson street for a quiet interlude of reading is steadily increasing. New books are constantly being placed on the shelves, and all the late magazines are found on tables in the reading room.

For the benefit of patrons, the librarian announces the arrival of new fiction as follows:

"Saratoga Trunk," Edna Ferber; "A Lady Goes to Hollywood," Helen Partridge; "The Sun Shall Greet Them," David Rame; "The Hills Beyond," Thomas Wolfe; "Windswept," Mary Ellen Chase; "Timeless Land," Eleanor Dark; and "The Great Big Doorstep," E. P. O'Donnell.

Informative non-fiction titles recently received are: "Inside Latin America," John Gunther; "Big Family," Bellamy Partridge; "Belle Starr," Burton Rascoe; "Cokesbury Shower Book," Arthur Depew; and "That Day Alone," Pierre Van Paassen.

Thrilling new mysteries include: "The Owl Sang Three Times," Vera Kelsey; "House Party Murders," Edgar A. Poe, Jr.; "Here's Blood in Your Eye," Manning Long; "Broken Face Murders," Teilhet; "Eight Faces At Three," Craig Rice; "The Dead Can Tell," Helen Reilly; "Homicide for Hannah," Babcock; "Murder Is Not Mute," Newell; "The Corpse Came Calling," Bestor; and "Ready for Death," Helen Hultman.

In "Windswept," Mary Ellen Chase portrays the past and present of America—the gifts of her newcomers as well as the contributions of her older stock. Windswept is the name of a house on a high promontory of the barren coast of eastern Maine, miles from villages or towns. It is the home of the Marston family, built under tragic circumstances by J… Marston and lived in and loved … "That Day Alone" Van Paassen e… plores the mystery of man and te… of the human drama behind the tita… events of our day. PRIZE WINNING PAINTINGS . . .

"Mirror Lake," an oil painting from the brush of Mrs. George Lowery and a still life in water colors, by Mrs. Elvier Bacon were given first place in the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs art exhibit at the state convention. Both paintings were widely admired. Mrs. Lowery and Mrs. Bacon have both made valuable contributions to the advancement of art in this city and are gaining recognition in Southern Art league circles.

Eve Bradford's CHAT COLUMN

"THE pursuit of happiness" is still our inalienable right. We are free to play, to eat, to worship according to our dictates and to indulge in the wildest sartorial whim if we so desire. As we all know, in certain totalitarian states the government even dictates what women shall wear and what the people shall eat.

Opening of Toyland in the Monroe shops this week is quite significant of the fact that children are free to play when they tumble out of school. They needn't perform military drills or learn intricate salutes. They are free this year as in years past to attend Santa's big show and view the toys of 1941. Santa's big show is now playing to an audience of little folks, wider-eyed, more enchanted than ever. Dolls seem to be more beautiful, trains faster and planes seem to fly higher than ever before—in fact all the toys seem more exciting. And listen, kiddies: be patient with mother and dad. They will want to play with everything they see.

In our pursuit of happiness this year we find much to entertain us. Next Saturday the magic of Christmas will really be upon us. DeSiard street will be transformed into a regular "Santa Claus Lane" with bells chiming "angels" caroling and the show windows of every shop a glittering spectacle. We will thrill to the pageantry of the Yuletide. All this simply because we have a progressive Chamber of Commerce and a civic-spirited secretary who believes in spreading Christmas magic with lavish hand.

Following the glittering pageant Saturday morning, with that jolly old fellow in the crimson jacket and long white beard the center of attraction, a reception will be held for the "queen" in the Crystal ballroom of the Virginia hotel. A galaxy of beautiful girls, members of the queen's court, and the lovely matrons, wives of the members of the Chamber of Commerce and merchants who are contributing the funds, will be in attendance.

There is an old-fashioned saying that "it takes money to make the mare go." Christmas magic is wonderful, of course, but it doesn't come out of Pandora's box. It takes money, lots of it, to transform the city streets into a "Santa Claus Lane."

The orchids, this morning, most certainly go to that gallant company of merchants who intend to make this Christmas pageant one that will be remembered for all time to come. They are giving generously so that every one, young and old, will be given a taste of the magic that is Christmas. We can show our appreciation by shopping early and avoid the nightmare of last-minute rush, dreaded by every merchant and salesman.

There are many women who can bake cakes that will win blue ribbons at the parish fair, concoct a salad fit for the gods or whip up a souffle de something or other that would tempt even a gourmet, but there are few women who can shoot down a wild goose. In this class Irene Beasley claims distinction. Bunn Beasley certainly made a nimrod out of his wife. They go hunting together and have more fun than any other married couple in Monroe. Irene experienced the thrill of shooting a wild goose on a recent hunting expedition in south Louisiana where Lutcher Brown of San Antonio maintains a hunting lodge deluxe. For the benefit of wives who would like to know how to cook correctly the wild ducks their husbands bring home she gives her recipe. She stuffs each duck with half an apple, half an onion and a piece of celery. Inside is placed a tablespoon of sherry wine and one half a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce. Rub the breasts of the ducks with garlic, then grease with bacon drippings. Do not, under any circumstance, open the oven door while the ducks are cooking. The cooking time for ducks (canvas-backs), 20 minutes; mallards, 18 minutes.

Floyd Martin is an authority on quail cooking. He gets his quota every year and really enjoys his home work. He is an expert at preparing the quail for the oven. First he rubs them with butter, salt and pepper. Then the legs and wings are trussed with bacon. In the roasting pan, with a tablespoon of butter and two tablespoons of water for each bird, they are cooked in a hot oven until done. Lemon juice and melted butter are poured over the quail before being placed on slices of toast. Anyone who can resist eating quail cooked the Floyd Martin way should be given a week on bread and water.

Such a marvelous age in which we live. Like magic giant oaks appear overnight on barren lots. Owners of new homes used to plant a seedling, nourish it with painstaking care and watch for it to grow year after year. Now a full grown oak tree can be transplanted and in most cases it lives and flourishes. The Richard Kelloggs' new home is surrounded by beautiful oaks transplanted from the "forest primeval." Just yesterday the lot was barren but today great oaks are silhouetted against the winter sky.

Can spring be far behind when azaleas are blooming in Monroe gardens? An early blooming variety, deep pink in color, is attracting the attention of those who motor past the Claud Harrison and the A. G. McHenry gardens.

It seems strange but it is always the flowers that come first that are enjoyed mostly. More beautiful azaleas than those blooming today will come later in the season but it is these first blooms that we love.

We find ourselves awaiting the blooming of azaleas in the Carl McHenry gardens. Bushes, grouped in attractive manner, completely encircle the spacious garden. It will be a beautiful sight to behold when they are all in bloom.

It seems rather premature to be talking about spring before winter has fairly begun but believe it or not, the shops are showing early spring hats for milady. Feminine caprices are controlled by the weather, however, so it all depends whether or not these spring hats will be worn in December. Just the same, it is a grand and glorious feeling to have a jaunty spring hat tucked away for some warm, sunny day.

In the course of social events in Monroe, something new turns up every now and again—some club that stimulates enthusiasm and support. Last week a Spinster club was organized by a group of young lovelies. All the young unmarrieds will no doubt be fighting for membership—there will be some disappointed young women we fear as the membership is limited to 25.

However, there will always be a vacancy as a member is "kicked" out just as soon as her marriage takes place. The engagement announcement will call for a "kicking out party," accompanied by a beautiful gift.

The club has been formed purely for the pursuit of happiness with a gala social affair just before Christmas the initial event.

"It takes a smile to catch a smile." We always think of this sage saying whenever we look at Sara Frances Hinkle. She has a smile that is contagious. It was the smile, no doubt, coupled with many charming attributes that won her a place in the 1941-42 issue of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Sara Frances will receive her B. S. degree from the Louisiana State university in June. She is pledge mistress of the Chi Omega sorority and representative of the college of arts and sciences on the student council. Last year she served on the junior editorial staff of the Gumbo yearbook and received the award given by Lambda, inter-sorority group, as the outstanding transfer. She was graduated from Northeast Junior college where she was a member of Phi Theta Kappa and the Purple Jackets. She was president of the student body during her senior year at Neville High school and served as president of Delta Beta Sigma, national high school sorority.

Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges is published through the cooperation of 600 American universities and colleges. It is the only means of national recognition for graduates which is devoid of politics, fees and dues. Several students from accredited colleges are selected each year, by an unprejudiced committee, for their biographies. The purpose of Who's Who is to serve as an incentive for students to get the most out of their college careers, as a means of compensation to students for what they have already done, as a recommendation to the business world, and as a standard of measurement for students.

Mrs. David Garrett, Mrs. T. O. Bancroft, Mrs. Joseph P. Brown and Mrs. Carl McHenry motored over to Shreveport to attend "There Shall Be No Night," starring Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, at the municipal auditorium. This play, written by Robert Emmett Sherwood, has been called the most forceful plea for defense of small nations and their rights in the world today.

The scene of the play is Finland during that country's fight to hold its boundaries against Russian invasion. But the play is a plea for all small nations facing invasion. And Sherwood believes that submission is too great a price to pay for peace.

Mrs. E. C. Cobb has been removed from Riverside Sanitarium to her home, 614 Washington, where she is convalescing from a recent minor operation.

BRIDE AND HER ATTENDANT . . .

Mrs. Alex Winn, formerly Miss Dorothymae Burge, and her wedding attendant, Mrs. Roy Johnson of Atlanta, Ga. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Winn took place November 28.

Dorothymae Burge And Alex Winn Are Married

Wedding Ceremony Performed November 28 At Methodist Church By Rev. Freeman

Claiming the interest of a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Dorothymae Burge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Burge, and Alex Winn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Winn of West Monroe, November 28 at the First Methodist church, with the pastor, A. M. Freeman, performing the impressive ceremony.

White and gold colored chrysanthemums interspersed with autumn leaves banked the chancel rail and the altar. Tall yellow tapers burned in the background against a mass of autumn foliage and bronze colored chrysanthemums.

A prenuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. John Sholars, organist. Herlong Averett accompanied by Mrs. Sholars, sang in splendid voice, "I Love You Truly," by Bond, and "Because," by d'Hardelot. During the ceremony Densmore's "If God Left Only You" was impressively rendered.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Roy Johnson of Atlanta, Ga., served as matron of honor. She wore a lovely model of honey gold, crepe trimmed with gold metal sequins, and all accessories of tobacco brown. A corsage of Talisman roses was worn.

Truman McCrea served as best man. The ushers were Thomas Jefferson and James Brown.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful costume suit of Victory blue trimmed with mink and a small mink hat with shoulder length brown veil. A corsage of orchids added the last note of distinction. A gold pin, an heirloom in the bride's family, was worn for something old.

The bride's mother wore a Defense blue crepe model with black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Winn, the bridegroom's mother, wore a smoke grey model with black accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Winn left on a brief honeymoon. Later they will be at home at 301 North Fourth street, West Monroe.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, where she was a member of the college trio and contralto soloist with the college choir. She is a member of Delta Beta Sigma and Delta Kappa Phi sororities.

Mr. Winn is a graduate of the Neville High school and is associated with the insurance department of the Mulhearn Funeral home.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Eady of Oxford, Ga., Miss Eltye Eady, and Dr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson of Atlanta, Ga.

The marriage of Miss Ruby Henry and Mr. James B. Cammack will take place at Grace Episcopal church this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The bride is a well known young woman of West Monroe and a graduate of the Ouachita Parish High school. The groom is a graduate of Texas university and holds a responsible position with a local drug company. Both have a wide circle of friends.

Genuine regret is manifested over the departure from this city of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Beam and infant daughter, Charlotte Jayne, who will leave this week for their new home in Pontotoc, Miss.

Mrs. Beam will be especially missed in musical circles, where she has been a prominent figure during residence in this city. She served as counselor of the MacDowell Junior Music Club for the past year. Both Mr. and Mrs. Beam received their degree at the Louisiana State University, where Mrs. Beam majored in music and was one of the outstanding students honored with membership in the Philharmonic Club of Baton Rouge. While attending the American Conservatory of Music she was selected for membership in the Chicago Artists' Society.

Dr. and Mrs. George B. Alcott returned to their home in Weiner, Ark., the first of the week following a visit in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Beam. During their visit they were privileged to make the acquaintance of their granddaughter, Charlotte Jayne Beam, who is just one month old. She arrived at St. Francis Sanitarium October 25.

Reception-Tea Honors Miss Elethia Edwards

Mrs. Charles Gaushell And Mrs. Clifford Carroll Are Hostesses At Affair

Mrs. Charles Gaushell donned a rose-colored taffeta evening model and Mrs. Clifford Carroll donned a delft blue net model when they entertained with a reception-tea complimentary to Miss Elethia Edwards at the home of Mrs. Carroll.

A background of beautiful dahlias and chrysanthemums in the rich, glowing shades of autumn created a colorful setting for the beautifully-gowned hostesses and their guests.

Miss Edwards was a charming figure in a bouffant, ashes of roses taffeta model beaded in gold sequins with a corsage of sweetheart roses presented to her by her hostesses.

Mrs. A. R. Doughty, assisting in the courtesies, wore a lovely evening model of white crepe with rhinestone trimming and a corsage of mauve colored chrysanthemums.

Charming music flooded the reception suite during the tea hour with Mrs. J. Norman Coon at the piano and Mrs. A. R. Doughty, soloist.

The hostesses distributed charming little favors—monogrammed booklets in which the guests were requested to write the answers to the contest introduced for diversion during the evening.

The coffee table in the dining room was bathed in candlelight and florally adorned with a wide-spreading plaque of white dahlias, white roses, and white chrysanthemums. Silver trays held a choice variety of confections, including wedding bell mints. Mrs. Doughty presided with charm and grace over the silver coffee urns.

The hosteases and their guests took advantage of this opportunity to present Miss Edwards with beautiful gifts ranging from china, linen, crystal and silver to others of a more personal nature. They were wrapped in white tissue, tied with white satin ribbons and placed in a basket fashioned of white chrysanthemums.

Invited to meet Miss Edwards and her mother, Mrs. P. N. Edwards, were: Miss Beatrice Kornman, Miss Lulu Kornman, Mrs. Ivy Jordan, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Mrs. George Hair, Mrs. Allen West, Mrs. W. A. Brothers, Mrs. J. R. Cotton, Mrs. Tom Greer, Miss Helen Carr, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, Mrs. E. R. McBride, Mrs. B. D. Allbritton, Mrs. Albert Davis, Mrs. C. H. Gibson, Mrs. George Vaughan, Mrs. E. J. Lanham, Mrs. B. A. Myers, Mrs. Fred Cook, Mrs. B. S. Craggs.

Miss Johnnie Edwards, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Miss Marjorie Oliver, Mrs. W. E. McCoy, Miss Eloise Cann, Mrs. Paul Dean, Mrs. E. H. Miller, Mrs. Dewey Simmons, Mrs. Fred Hemler, Mrs. W. B. Inabnett, Mrs. Harvard Nix, Mrs. B. S. Kelly, Miss Dean McKoin, Mrs. E. J. Brown, Mrs. J. D. Reeves, Miss Doris Dieterich, Mrs. Donald Quinn, Miss Melba Busby, Mrs. C. V. Sanders.

Mrs. P. E. Walker, Dr. Julia Hunter, Mrs. C. L. Couch of Alexandria, Mrs. S. L. Webb of Ruston, Mrs. Beverly Colvin of Junction City, Miss Sunshine Shehee of Arcadia.

INTRODUCING MR. AND MRS. R C. BURKE . . .

The wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Burke was an interesting event of recent date. It took place at the First Methodist church and was characterized by simplicity. The reception was held in Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gibson's suite.

Mrs. Venable Reviews 'We Shall Live Again'

"We Shall Live Again," one of the season's most popular novels, was charmingly reviewed by Mrs. H. M. Venable at the last meeting of the Miro Book club in the home of Mrs. S. M. Collins. She said in part:

"Mr. Hindus, author of 'We Shall Live Again,' is an American writer who has traveled extensively in European countries. He studies the people, customs, their way of life and government and writes of what he learns. Several of his late books have been on the New Russia, his last two on Czechoslovakia. He writes here of Czechoslovakia as he saw it on a visit which began June, 1938, and lasted through the terrible weeks of September when the country bowed to Nazi Germany. Mr. Hindus was an eyewitness of three epochal stages in the history of Czechoslovakia. He saw the republic at the height of its glory. He saw its civilization crumble before his eyes and saw the survival of those elements which in his judgment will make it live again. This book tells the story of these three moments in the life of Czechoslovakia.

"When Mr. Hindus went to Czechoslovakia, the German propaganda offensive was then in full swing. Just the month before, the Czechs had mobilized and thereby slowed down the German threats on the Sudeten border. But only for a short time, while the Nazis recovered from the May rebuff and redoubled their political and military pressure. Part one of the book, 'Glory,' recounts the author's wanderings about the countryside, and has to do with weddings, funerals, drinking of wine, picturesque rural sections, quaint peasants, cobblestones and flowers. While weatherbound in a mountain resort, Mr. Hindus has time to consider what he has seen, and draws many generalizations about this progressive little nation, its schools, land reforms and productive enterprises.

"The second part of the book, entitled 'Doom,' recounts the series of dramatic events that rushed one upon another through the turbulent days of September. Sudeten uprisings, the flight of refugees, the tense days in Prague which intervened between the British prime minister's visits with Hitler and the Munich settlement, the exciting time of marching and demonstrations during which an aroused nation mobilized. Then came the dismal finale when Mr. Hindus saw a stunned and grief-stricken people writhe in their agony of a surrender without resistance.

"In the third part, 'Rebirth,' the author stayed on in the country for two months, and during that time of observation was convinced that these people of such matchless ability, skill, and willingness will surely live again. America hopes that time will vindicate the faith of Mr. Hindus in this deserving little nation."

Importance Of 'Y. W.' Organization Stressed

With plans for the annual "open-house" at the Y. W. C. A. perfected one is reminded of the important part this organization plays in the civic life of this community.

The Y. W. C. A. takes you from the word "go" and see you through step by step as your interests develop and your understanding grows. Through the club groups—the five Girl Reserve clubs, the two business clubs, the residence girls' groups—which are based on the girls initiative and the adult guidance which are self governing groups, and which are based on the needs and interests of girls and through its many other activities and community programs the Y. W. C. A. provides training for leadership, knowledge and help in fitting one for this rapidly changing world, and opportunity for creative expression and increased appreciation of life.

The Y. W. C. A. has three important functions: to build an educational and recreational program for the development and enrichment of individuals, to serve women and girls in various forms of individual adjustment, in employment, and housing, and to work as a social force for a better community. Through 1941 the Y. W. C. A. provided a home with wise supervision and counsel for 75 girls and assistance in finding employment for a number of these girls and club activities for 125 Girls Reserves and 125 business girls and community activities and projects such as assisting with the entertainment for the soldiers. The Y. W. C. A. is a vital part of any community life and means a broader relationship for all of its members and the community.

The program of the local Y. W. C. A. is carried on by a board composed of the following officers and members: President, Mrs. J. R. White; vice-president, Mrs. Courtney Oliver; treasurer, Miss Lucyle Godwin; parliamentarian, Miss Eleanor Faulk, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. R. H. B. Gibson, Mrs. J. B. Kugler, Mrs. H. F. Madison, Jr., Mrs. Harvey McDonald, Mrs. Dewitt Milam, Mrs. P. H. Poag, Mrs. William Rodriquez, Mrs. Frank Stubbs, Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. W. J. Veazey, Mrs. J. E. Walsworth and the staff: Miss Bess Sharp, the general secretary and Mrs. John D. Coats, the residence house mother.

The Y. W. C. A. is having their Fall Open Meeting on Thursday afternoon December 4, 1941, 4 to 6:30 p.m. At this meeting the new members of the board will be elected. Mrs. William Rodriquez, membership chairman and Mrs. Courtney Oliver, nominating committee chairman, are in charge of this meeting.

The Young Women's Christian association is a local, national, and international association of women and girls of widely varied interests and experiences. The Y. W. C. A. is a factor for good in the community life and is an integral part of it. The Y. W. C. A. is not just a building or an organization but a spiritual somethting that bridges chasms, finds common interests, coments friendship, reaches for a clearer vision, greater understanding, and directions for courageous living in a changing world. The Y. W. C. A. is a doorway with a friendly welcome—a doorway that leads to fellowship and friendships, freedom or democracy, and faith—the aboundant life. The Y. W. C. A. gives a broader outlook into relationships and on life. The Y. W. C. A. is an endeavor with a purpose: To help women and girls grow into fine personalities and to make a better society by making a better community. The Y. W. C. A. which is sponsored by the Twin City Community Chest is actively engaged in this great program locally providing a home for girls who are employed or attending school, of providing training girls and women for leadership, of providing for enrichment of life and experience through club groups, and of helping women and girls to discover for themselves their part in living a fuller and happier life in the community. It is difficult to estimate such a great and far reaching program and the good which such an organization because it is not a charity, not a club, not a creed but a vital and dynamic fellowship, building democracy and faith.

Through the Young Women's Christion association, which is one of the agencies supported by the Twin City Community Chest avenues of rich experiences haye been opened up for a large number of girls—younger girls, business girls, residence girls, and of women and has enabled them to discover for themselves their part in living a full life in the community. The Y. W. C. A. means enrichment of life, directions for courageous living through vitalizing democracy and attaining a philosophy for creative living—spiritual development and constructive leisure activities and social relationships.

Women's Medical And Nursing Work Reviewed

Mrs. Floyd Matthews Contributes Article On Subject At Literary Club Meeting

The Monroe Literary club met in the home of Mrs. W. T. Ellis last week. The president, Mrs. D. N. Barron, presided over a brief business session and the club voted to contribute to the penny art fund. Reports of delegates to Louisiana Federated Women's clubs, Mrs. R. O. Ware, Mrs. W. L. Moore and Mrs. Barron, were heard at this time.

Mrs. Floyd Matthews contributed a most interesting article on "Women in Medicine and Nursing." She said in part:

"Women pioneers, fighting obstacles which seem ridiculous to us of the 20th century, had established a foothold in medicine before the Civil war and had found themselves, in spite of opposition and prejudice, much in demand. During the war many of them took their chances of death with the men, did the work of the sanitary commission on the battlefield and in hospitals. Yet, when the war ended and more and more young women looked to this fascinating profession, they found the road hard and thorny even from the first, and it was a long fight to gain admittance into the medical colleges.

"The long siege laid by women of the medical profession is thrilling and heartbreaking. Thrilling, because something in the Anglo-Saxon spirit always vibrates at the sight of determined weakness attacking entrenched strength; heartbreaking, because the subject was one which illiberal professors could by various methods increase the obstacles which ambitious young women had to surmount. In the colonial period of America there were many female midwives and very few professional physicians. Out of the Revolutionary period came a great scientific stirring along medical and surgical lines.

"English physicians settled in the United States and Americans went to Europe to study medicine, and as the profession grew in worth and dignity, trained male physicians put most of the ignorant female midwives from the world of medicine. In 1848 Dr. Samuel Gregory of Boston, protesting against the institution of male midwives, started a school in Boston called the Female Medical college. It was, however, not really a college nor even a medical school as we interpret the term today; it was merely a course in scientific midwifery. But in 1850 was founded an institution aiming to give a thorough education—the Female Medical College of Philadelphia. This started with 40 students and three rooms.

"A few men doctors, at the expense of their reputation, undertook to lecture there. Eight members of the first class were graduated in 1852, among them two notable women, Ann Preston and Hannah Longshore. The latter was the first woman to hang out her shingle. Often she had trouble getting druggists to fill her prescriptions. Harriet Hunt's career is interesting. Before the college opened she, with several other women, appeared in various cities and demanded to be educated as full-fledged physicians.

"The careers of all other early women physicians pale beside those of the two Blackwells, Elizabeth and Emily. They were born in England. coming to America in 1832, and were educated here and worked with the poor women and children in New York. They were the founders of that New York dispensary for poor women and children. Dr. Anita Tyng was the first woman surgeon. Dr. Mary Thompson of Chicago was the first to perform major operations entirely on her own responsibility and she, like her eastern sisters, founded in 1865 a womens' hospital. In 1882, Johns Hopkins, then the last word in American scientific training crowned the movement of educating women in medicine by admitting them to the institution.

"After the struggle women had to get an education in medicine, came a greater struggle for recognition by the men of their own profession. In 1859 the Philadelphia County Medical Society met and decreed that if any of its members held consultation with a woman physician he would be expelled.

"Emily Barrington was a pioneer in helping open the way for women to obtain positions in the New York City hospitals. Maud Slye, sometimes called the 'American Curie,' is a University of Chicago pathologist, who since 1908 has been tending and breeding and writing biographies of thousands of mice in an effort to learn more about cancer and its causes. Forty-two brochures on the nature and inheritability of cancer have been published by Miss Slye. Kate C. Hurd and Alice Hall are two outstanding physicians because it was through them that it was developed that many diseases could be prevented by using preventive medicine in place of curative medicine. Dr. Florence Saben, 69, has a long career of 'firsts.' She was the first woman to graduate from Johns Hopkins, first to teach there, first member of the National Academy of Science, first in her studies of tuberculosis. Dr. Simon Ilexner once called her the greatest living woman scientist and one of the foremost scientists of all time. Dr. Eleanor Bliss, 41, worked with Dr. Perrin Long in bringing sulfanilamide to the United States. She is also one of the chief authorities in the newer sulfadrugs.

"Now we come to the little sister of medicine—nursing. From time immemorial, nursing has been a home industry with women, but as our society grew more complete, nursing became a kind of roughly skilled trade practiced for money outside the home. Every community had its lists of sturdy women with some self-acquired knowledge in tending the sick. The first organized nursing we have any record of was the Philadelphia Quakers established in 1838.

"These women received a little instruction, then they were sent out as visiting nurses in the poor districts. After a few months at this job they France.

received certificates for general work. The name of Florence Nightingale is known to the whole world. Mention the Crimean war and you instantly think of her. When in 1854 news came from the Crimea that wounded were suffering horribly, she gathered 37 assistants and rushed to the front and to work. She had made a systematic study of nursing all over Europe and at 33 she was superintendent of a hospital, at 34 became the first war nurse, and at 35 was world famous for the remarkable things she had achieved in the Crimea. She devoted all the rest of her life to work pertaining to nursing and working to improving general conditions along this line.

"Two American names follow that of Miss Nightingale—Clara Barton and Dorothea Dix. Less directly associated with the creation of nursing as a profession, they did almost as much as their English contemporary to give it galmour and prestige. Dorothea Dix was first to call attention to the conditions of the insane in this country and through years of agitation established the tradition of humane and understanding treatment. Miss Barton was the first person to try to organize the Red Cross and is responsible for the Red Cross services applying to all public calamities instead of just for war horrors. Another who has gone far is Julia Catherine Stimson. After a college career she decided to study further along the line of biology and sociology. After many years of varied positions of importance she was given the rank of major in the Army School of Nursing, the first nurse to hold this title. In May, 1937, Major Stimson retired. Today she continues as president of American Nurses' Association and is chairman of the Nursing Council of National Defense."

Miss Merry Burke Wed To Clair E. Neidhart

Ceremony Is Performed At First Methodist Church Here By Rev. A. M. Freeman

An interesting nuptial event, characterized by charming simplicity, was the wedding of Miss Merry Evelyn Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cleveland Burke of Springfield, O. and Clair Edwin Neidhart of Galion, O., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neidhart of Bellefontaine, O.

The ceremony took place, November 22, at the First Methodist church this city, with the pastor, Rev. A. M. Freeman, officiating in the presence of a few close friends and immediate members of the two families.

Cathedral tapers burning in white, wrought iron candelabra illuminated the dim recesses of the altar, banked in white chrysanthemums. Tall baskets overflowing with white chrysanthemums formed an enclosure for the bride and members of her wedding party.

While the guests were being seated, the organist, Mrs. John Sholars, rendered a medley of prenuptial airs, including MacDowell's "To A Wild Rose" and Shubert's "Serenade." Lohengrin's and Mendelssohn's wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional. During the ceremony Cadman's "At Dawning" was rendered.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Paul Theodore Wright, wore a stunning model of clover crepe with close fitting hat of the same shade and corsage of Butterfly roses and pink snapdragons.

Paul Theodore Wright served in the capacity of best man.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a smart street length model of Capri blue crepe fashioned with a circular skirt, and tight fitting basque with square cut neckline outlined with a metallic band. Metallic bands were also noted on the skirt. Her hat, a Milgrim model, was trimmed with Capri blue chenille. She carried her mother's white satin testament, which was adorned with a small bouquet of gardenias and bouvardia.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held in Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gibson's apartment at the Alvis Hotel. Considerable beauty of decoration was noted, with white chrysanthemums predominating among the fall flowers grouped in the background.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke, the bride's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Neidhart, the bridegroom's parents, were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gibson and members of the wedding party.

The bride's table, overlaid with handsome Italian cut work, was adorned with the three-tiered, beautifully-embossed wedding cake. A plaque of white chrysanthemums formed the central decor. Silver candelabra, supporting tall white tapers, were placed at the four corners. Silver compotes held a variety of delicious confections, including white mints embossed in valley lilies. Sandwiches were passed among the guests and coffee was poured from a silver service. Mrs. Paul T. Wright presided over the urns. She was assisted by Mrs. Joseph Elber Dozier.

The bride chose for traveling a two-piece beige wool with harmonizing coat, small mink hat and brown accessories.

Semper Fidelis Class Gives Dinner At Hotel

An enormous gilded cornucopia, flowing with purple Belgian grapes, Japanese persimmons, tangerines, and bright red apples, and encircled with Juniper berries and yellow chrysanthemums, formed a most effective and colorful decor for the dinner table in the Mirror room of Hotel Frances, given by members of the Semper Fidelis class of the First Methodist church of West Monroe.

Down the full length of the U-shaped table, yellow tapers burned in unique candleholders fashioned of oak tree bark. Gilded nut cups were placed at each cover. The printed programs, also serving as place cards, were most attractive, with horns of plenty overflowing with fruits and colors painted in water colors gracing the cover.

Mrs. Cecil McConnell, wearing a blue taffeta evening gown with pink carnation corsage, presided as toastmistress. With characteristic grace she introduced Mrs. C. K. Smith, who gave the invocation, and Mrs. Charles Chisholm, who gave a dramatic reading. Others introduced were Mrs. N. D. McGaughy, who contributed a vocal solo, and Mrs. Jack Willis, who rendered a piano number.

A debate—"Resolved: That the old-fashioned girl had more romantic experience than the modern girl"—was waged between Mrs. Milton Terry and Miss Lily Mae Carroll. They were enthusiastically applauded.

Mrs. William Norris, retiring class president, Mrs. Marshal Downs, the new president, and Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, a former teacher who still retains a warm spot in the heart of every class member, were introduced by Mrs. McConnell. Mrs. Metcalf expressed her delight over the return of Dr. C. K. Smith, pastor of the West Monroe Methodist church, and Mrs. Smith, who served as teacher of the Semper Fidelis class for more than a year. Mrs. Smith graciously responded to the introduction with appropriate remarks.

Those responsible for the unique arrangement of the table decor, Mrs. L. M. Webb, Mrs. Jeff Caldwell, Mrs. George P. Harrell, and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, were introduced and given a vote of thanks.

All members of the class wore charming evening models and corsages. Those present were: Mrs. C. K. Smith, Mrs. Charles Chisholm, Mrs. Herbert Rinehart, Mrs. Jeff Caldwell, Mrs. L. M. Webb, Mrs. William Norris, Mrs. J. H. Carroll, Mrs. Milton Terry, Mrs. E. N. Cannon, Mrs. E. Sherrard, Mrs. W. O. Smith, Mrs. John Peek McKee, Mrs. Norman Rushing, Mrs. George Harrell, Mrs. Dennis Chappell, Mrs. W. D. Golson, Mrs. Jack Willis, Mrs. Cecil McConnell, Mrs. Harry Snyder, Mrs. Marshall Downs, Mrs. Carl White, Mrs. E. Grueber, Mrs. E. L. Page, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mrs. W. D. McGaughy, and Mrs. H. McGee.

Miss Evelyn Jarrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boatner Jarrell of Columbia, who was recently elected vice-president of Kappa Delta sorority at L. S. U. A junior in the school of journalism of the College of Arts and Science at the university, she also is secretary-treasurer of her class and editor for the Delta Gamma Delta intersorority.

'The Usurper' Reviewed By Mrs. John Pracher

"The Usurper," outstanding novel of the year, was reviewed in interesting manner by Mrs. John Pracher before members of the Miro Book club. She said in part:

"Stan Butterworth was 6 feet 7 inches tall. He lived in one room above his store at Barlow bend, and people said he was so mean he ate water-moccasin meat to save living expenses. His wants were few and Cottontown saw him only when he went in to deposit money in the Planter's bank. Everyone called him 'old Stan Butterworth,' though he was only 40 years old. He was the possessor of more hard cash than all the cotton planters in the delta. The Cottontown banker hated to see that pile of money lying idle and more than once tried to interest Stan in investing it; Stan was unmoved. All he knew, he claimed, was 'cotton, mules and niggers.' He'd stick to them.

"It was seeing Lacey McFerrin again after 20 years that caused the dormant seeds of ambition to spring to life in him. Lacey, he learned, was chairman of the cotton festival committee and he knew what an important social event that was. He suspected she was interested in getting her niece crowned 'queen' and her little daughter made leader of the 'junior royalty.' He accepted when the banker asked him to take part in making the arrangements, not a very respectable part. He knew they were trying to use him as a stooge because he had money and was a shrewd and not too scrupulous trader. But he wanted to see more of Lacey, for Lacey, he found, had lost none of the charm and fascination she had had when, a poor, overgrown 'peckerwood' boy, he had given her his heart.

"From the hour of Butterworth's agreement to serve on the festival committee, the life of Cottontown becomes, by stages, irrevocably bound up with this man's destiny. Never again can he be old Stan of Barlow bend, and never again will the people—planters and share croppers alike—be independent of him. They may hate and despite him, they may love and admire him, but during their lives and his, he remains a giant, unmoved and permanent, an anchor that they must depend on.

Many Courtesies Are Extended Miss Edwards

Conversational Hour In Home Of Mrs. George Vaughan Honors Bride-To-Be

Miss Elethia Edwards, whose marriage to Mr. James Douglas Kelly will take place December 22 at the First Baptist church, is being extensively feted with charming prenuptial affairs.

Prominent among the courtesies extended last week was the conversational hour in the home of Mrs. George Vaughan.

The reception suite, florally adorned with beautiful yellow chrysanthemums, formed a lovely setting for the hostess and her guests and Miss Edwards who wore a beautiful peacock blue afternoon model embroidered in iridescent beads. A corsage of mauve colored chrysanthemums added a lovely color note.

Beautiful gifts of a miscellaneous nature were bestowed upon Miss Edwards at this time. They were opened and displayed by Miss Edwards with considerable pride.

The guests were invited into the dining room, where coffee was poured from silver urns placed at one end of the beautifully appointed refreshment table. An oblong plaque of yellow chrysanthemums, with yellow tapers burning in their midst, formed the central floral ornamentation. Silver trays laden with luscious confections were passed among the guests.

Those present in addition to Miss Edwards and her mother, Mrs. P. N. Edwards, were: Mrs. A. G. Bagwell, Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Mrs. William James, Mrs. Milton Adams, Mrs. W. L. Spencer, Mrs. Vernon Harrell, Mrs. Paul Dean, Dr. Julia Hunter, Mrs. J. W. Cummins, Mrs. G. M. L. Key, Mrs. Truly Johnson, Mrs. Milton Adams, Mrs. Bess Weldon Bates, Mrs. A. L. Montgomery, Mrs. L. T. Hastings, Mrs. C. V. Sanders, Mrs. David Doughty, Mrs. B. S. Kelly and Mrs. E. J. Upshaw, Miss Marguerite Ikerd, Miss Helen Carr and Miss Eloise Cann.

Ouachita Parish P.-T. A. Hostesses At Program

Last Thursday night the doors of the Ouachita Parish High school and Grammar school were thrown wide in hospitable manner to the public generally with members of the Parent-Teacher association, acting as hostesses, assisted by members of the Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A.

The visitors were free to roam around the corridors and visit the various rooms where the work accomplished by the pupils was on display. In several rooms a note of hospitality was manifested in the serving of confections.

Later the assemblage met in the auditorium where Mrs. D. L. Nicol, presided during the splendid program. Albert Cloud, Jr., gave the Salute to the Flag and The American's Creed. "Americanism," an oration, by Pelham St. George Dissell, was very splendidly given by Jack Hays.

"The Thunderer March" by Sousa and "The Phantom Trumpeters" by Gillette were played by the Ouachita High school band, directed by Mr. Walter C. Minniear.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon sang in beautiful voice the state P.-T. A. song, "My Louisiana," and members joined in the repetition of the first verse. Mrs. Fagan Cox, state president is desirous of having all members know the adopted song of the organiaztion. Mr. Joe Craig accompanied Mrs. Coon at the piano.

"The Desert Song Overture" by Romberg, "The Stars and Stripes Forever" by Sousa, and "The Star-Spangled Banner" completed the musical numbers. The audience joined in singing the first verse of the anthem.

The report of the registration in the various rooms was made by Miss Zelda Moss, program chairman. Beautiful pot plants were presented Miss Varnado's sixth grade room in the grammar school, and Mrs. C. C. Shultz' sophomore girls in the high school.

Mrs. John Young made several announcements that were of interest to all, stressing the P.-T. A. membership drive, Ouachita-Lake Charles football ticket sale, and the P.-T. A. carnival planned for December 5 at the high school.

Benediction was given by the Rev. C. K. Smith.

Junior Literary Club Meets In Stark Home

Misses Ola Cooper and Elaine McDonald entertained the Mangham Junior Literary club Wednesday evening in the home of Mrs. T. W. Stark.

After the reading of the club collect, led by Mrs. Fleming Hatch, the roll was called and the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. F. A. Childress. Four new members, Mrs. Herman Grant, Miss Ola Boughton, Miss Elaine McDonald, and Miss Theo Davis, were welcomed into the club by the president. A year's leave of absence was granted Mrs. R. L. Matthews, charter member of the club, who has moved to Baton Rouge. Miss Ada Preston was appointed national defense chairman, and Miss Faye Brunson was named to represent the club on the community Christmas tree committee. Plans were made for the annual Christmas party, to be held in the home economics department this year.

Mrs. John McElwee, leader of the program, introduced Mrs. Nathan Blair, who gave an interesting paper on Boys Town, Neb. Reading a personal letter from Father Flanagan, Mrs. Blair disclosed the following facts of interest:

"Last year a new building program was completed, enabling 500 boys to be cared for in place of 200, as previously. A new infirmary was added. At present we are endeavoring to raise funds with which to erect and equip a trade school building. I firmly believe that, in addition to their academic education, these boys must be taught a practical knowledge of some trade, so they can leave Boys Town with the ability to earn their living with their hands."

Mrs. Blair said in part: "Boys Town is a real town, incorporated with its boy mayor and six boy councilmen, regular members of the Nebraska League of Municipalities. Elections are held twice a year, and are hotly contested. A boy who shirks his duty loses his vote, and mighty few boys will take a chance at that.

"There are no distinctions of race, nationality or creed. All that is demanded is that the boy need an opportunity, and that there be room for him. These boys were all once homeless, neglected, abandoned, many of them from broken homes or homes which were a travesty on the name. All these boys make good when brought to Boys Town. Of the 3,000 boys Father Flanagan has welcomed, he has yet to see one of them go wrong after leaving."

Speaking on Secretary of Labor Perkins, Mrs. Paul Frasier said: "Frances Perkins, better known as a problem child to the press in America, has always led a very active life and seems to always hold a public office. She was appointed secretary of labor March 4, 1933, was made chairman of the president's committee on economic security in 1934, is director of the American Child Hygiene association, and is a member of the National Fire Protective association. She was awarded the medal for eminent achievement by the American Women's association in 1933."

At the close of the meeting, a delicious salad course was served to the following: Miss Mary Mhoon Noble, Miss Bessie Noble, Miss Faye Brunson, Miss Theo Davis, Miss Ola Boughton, Miss Ola Cooper, Miss Elaine McDonald, Miss Janet Hixon, Mrs. John S. Hewith, Mrs. F. A. Childress, Mrs. John McElwee, Mrs. Herman Grant, Mrs. Paul Frasier, Mrs. Nathan Blair and Mrs. Fleming Hatch.

Many New Books Listed At Public Library Here

Freedom to read the books of our own choosing is one of the greatest privileges people of this nation enjoy. Recent burning of books in Germany is one of the greatest crimes committed against man in the history of the world to our way of thinking.

The number of men and women who visit daily the Ouachita parish public library on Jackson street for a quiet interlude of reading is steadily increasing. New books are constantly being placed on the shelves, and all the late magazines are found on tables in the reading room.

For the benefit of patrons, the librarian announces the arrival of new fiction as follows:

"Saratoga Trunk," Edna Ferber; "A Lady Goes to Hollywood," Helen Partridge; "The Sun Shall Greet Them," David Rame; "The Hills Beyond," Thomas Wolfe; "Windswept," Mary Ellen Chase; "Timeless Land," Eleanor Dark; and "The Great Big Doorstep," E. P. O'Donnell.

Informative non-fiction titles recently received are: "Inside Latin America," John Gunther; "Big Family," Bellamy Partridge; "Belle Starr," Burton Rascoe; "Cokesbury Shower Book," Arthur Depew; and "That Day Alone," Pierre Van Paassen.

Thrilling new mysteries include: "The Owl Sang Three Times," Vera Kelsey; "House Party Murders," Edgar A. Poe, Jr.; "Here's Blood in Your Eye," Manning Long; "Broken Face Murders," Teilhet; "Eight Faces At Three," Craig Rice; "The Dead Can Tell," Helen Reilly; "Homicide for Hannah," Babcock; "Murder Is Not Mute," Newell; "The Corpse Came Calling," Bestor; and "Ready for Death," Helen Hultman.

In "Windswept," Mary Ellen Chase portrays the past and present of America—the gifts of her newcomers as well as the contributions of her older stock. Windswept is the name of a house on a high promontory of the barren coast of eastern Maine, miles from villages or towns. It is the home of the Marston family, built under tragic circumstances by J[illegible] Marston and lived in and loved [illegible] "That Day Alone" Van Paassen e[illegible]plores the mystery of man and te[illegible] of the human drama behind the tita[illegible] events of our day. A few things [illegible]vealed in this book are: (1) The sec[illegible] of Hess' flight to England, (2) Wh[illegible] moved King Leopold of Belgium [illegible] surrender himself and his army [illegible] Hitler, (3) Why Mussolini, terrifi[illegible] decreed the assassination of an edit[illegible] who wielded only a pen against t[illegible] full power of the Blackshirts, (4) W[illegible] ordered the murder of a king of Y[illegible]goslavia and a prime minister [illegible] his sons and daughters and their ch[illegible]dren.

"The Great Big Doorstep" is a n[illegible] novel by the New Orleans author, [illegible] P. O'Donnell, whose first bo[illegible] "Green Margins," was a selection [illegible] the Book-of-the-Month club. The l[illegible] of the Crochet family (who live [illegible] the deep delta of the Mississippi) [illegible] tenderly and vividly portrayed in "T[illegible] Great Big Doorstep." It was the Mi[illegible]sissippi flood that brought Comm[illegible]dore Crochet an "elegant" big doo[illegible]step from a ruined plantation ma[illegible]sion up the valley. He put it on h[illegible] three-room delta shack, and told h[illegible] wife that some day they were goi[illegible] to have a house to match that doo[illegible]step. And so the adventure begins.

One of the outstanding non-fictio[illegible] titles is "That Day Alone" by Pier[illegible] Van Paassen, the author of the wid[illegible]ly-discussed books "Days of O[illegible] Years" and "The Time Is Now."

"Mirror Lake," an oil painting from the brush of Mrs. George Lowery and a still life in water colors, by Mrs. Elvier Bacon were given first place in the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs art exhibit at the state convention. Both paintings were widely admired. Mrs. Lowery and Mrs. Bacon have both made valuable contributions to the advancement of art in this city and are gaining recognition in Southern Art league circles.

Reception-Tea Honors Miss Elethia Edwards

Mrs. Charles Gaushell And Mrs. Clifford Carroll Are Hostesses At Affair

Mrs. Charles Gaushell donned a rose-colored taffeta evening model and Mrs. Clifford Carroll donned a delft blue net model when they entertained with a reception-tea complimentary to Miss Elethia Edwards at the home of Mrs. Carroll.

A background of beautiful dahlias and chrysanthemums in the rich, glowing shades of autumn created a colorful setting for the beautifully-gowned hostesses and their guests.

Miss Edwards was a charming figure in a bouffant, ashes of roses taffeta model beaded in gold sequins with a corsage of sweetheart roses presented to her by her hostesses.

Mrs. A. R. Doughty, assisting in the courtesies, wore a lovely evening model of white crepe with rhinestone trimming and a corsage of mauve colored chrysanthemums.

Charming music flooded the reception suite during the tea hour with Mrs. J. Norman Coon at the piano and Mrs. A. R. Doughty, soloist.

The hostesses distributed charming little favors—monogrammed booklets in which the guests were requested to write the answers to the contest introduced for diversion during the evening.

The coffee table in the dining room was bathed in candlelight and florally adorned with a wide-spreading plaque of white dahlias, white roses, and white chrysanthemums. Silver trays held a choice variety of confections, including wedding bell mints. Mrs. Doughty presided with charm and grace over the silver coffee urns.

The hostesses and their guests took advantage of this opportunity to present Miss Edwards with beautiful gifts ranging from china, linen, crystal and silver to others of a more personal nature. They were wrapped in white tissue, tied with white satin ribbons and placed in a basket fashioned of white chrysanthemums.

Invited to meet Miss Edwards and her mother, Mrs. P. N. Edwards, were: Miss Beatrice Kornman, Miss Lulu Kornman, Mrs. Ivy Jordan, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Mrs. George Hair, Mrs. Allen West, Mrs. W. A. Brothers, Mrs. J. R. Cotton, Mrs. Tom Greer, Miss Helen Carr, Mrs. W. S. Vincent, Mrs. E. R. McBride, Mrs. B. D. Allbritton, Mrs. Albert Davis, Mrs. C. H. Gibson, Mrs. George Vaughan, Mrs. E. J. Lanham, Mrs. B. A. Myers, Mrs. Fred Cook, Mrs. B. S. Craggs.

Miss Johnnie Edwards, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Miss Marjorie Oliver, Mrs. W. E. McCoy, Miss Eloise Cann, Mrs. Paul Dean, Mrs. E. H. Miller, Mrs. Dewey Simmons, Mrs. Fred Hemler, Mrs. W. B. Inabnett, Mrs. Harvard Nix, Mrs. B. S. Kelly, Miss Dean McKoin, Mrs. E. J. Brown, Mrs. J. D. Reeves, Miss Doris Dieterich, Mrs. Donald Quinn, Miss Melba Busby, Mrs. C. V. Sanders.

Mrs. P. E. Walker, Dr. Julia Hunter, Mrs. C. L. Couch of Alexandria, Mrs. S. L. Webb of Ruston, Mrs. Beverly Colvin of Junction City, Miss Sunshine Shehee of Arcadia.

INTRODUCING MR. AND MRS. R C. BURKE . . .

The wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Burke was an interesting event of recent date. It took place at the First Methodist church and was characterized by simplicity. The reception was held in Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gibson's suite.

Mrs. Venable Reviews 'We Shall Live Again'

"We Shall Live Again," one of the season's most popular novels, was charmingly reviewed by Mrs. H. M. Venable at the last meeting of the Miro Book club in the home of Mrs. S. M. Collins. She said in part:

"Mr. Hindus, author of 'We Shall Live Again,' is an American writer who has traveled extensively in European countries. He studies the people, customs, their way of life and government and writes of what he learns. Several of his late books have been on the New Russia, his last two on Czechoslovakia. He writes here of Czechoslovakia as he saw it on a visit which began June, 1938, and lasted through the terrible weeks of September when the country bowed to Nazi Germany. Mr. Hindus was an eyewitness of three epochal stages in the history of Czechoslovakia. He saw the republic at the height of its glory. He saw its civilization crumble before his eyes and saw the survival of those elements which in his judgment will make it live again. This book tells the story of these three moments in the life of Czechoslovakia.

"When Mr. Hindus went to Czechoslovakia, the German propaganda offensive was then in full swing. Just the month before, the Czechs had mobilized and thereby slowed down the German threats on the Sudeten border. But only for a short time, while the Nazis recovered from the May rebuff and redoubled their political and military pressure. Part one of the book, 'Glory,' recounts the author's wanderings about the countryside, and has to do with weddings, funerals, drinking of wine, picturesque rural sections, quaint peasants, cobblestones and flowers. While weatherbound in a mountain resort, Mr. Hindus has time to consider what he has seen, and draws many generalizations about this progressive little nation, its schools, land reforms and productive enterprises.

"The second part of the book, entitled 'Doom,' recounts the series of dramatic events that rushed one upon another through the turbulent days of September. Sudeten uprisings, the flight of refugees, the tense days in Prague which intervened between the British prime minister's visits with Hitler and the Munich settlement, the exciting time of marching and demonstrations during which an aroused nation mobilized. Then came the dismal finale when Mr. Hindus saw a stunned and grief-stricken people writhe in their agony of a surrender without resistance.

"In the third part, 'Rebirth,' the author stayed on in the country for two months, and during that time of observation was convinced that these people of such matchless ability, skill, and willingness will surely live again. America hopes that time will vindicate the faith of Mr. Hindus in this deserving little nation."

Importance Of 'Y. W.' Organization Stressed

With plans for the annual "open-house" at the Y. W. C. A. perfected one is reminded of the important part this organization plays in the civic life of this community.

The Y. W. C. A. takes you from the word "go" and see you through step by step as your interests develop and your understanding grows. Through the club groups—the five Girl Reserve clubs, the two business clubs, the residence girls' groups—which are based on the girls initiative and the adult guidance which are self governing groups, and which are based on the needs and interests of girls and through its many other activities and community programs the Y. W. C. A. provides training for leadership, knowledge and help in fitting one for this rapidly changing world, and opportunity for creative expression and increased appreciation of life.

The Y. W. C. A. has three important functions: to build an educational and recreational program for the development and enrichment of individuals, to serve women and girls in various forms of individual adjustment, in employment, and housing, and to work as a social force for a better community. Through 1941 the Y. W. C. A. provided a home with wise supervision and counsel for 75 girls and assistance in finding employment for a number of these girls and club activities for 125 Girls Reserves and 125 business girls and community activities and projects such as assisting with the entertainment for the soldiers. The Y. W. C. A. is a vital part of any community life and means a broader relationship for all of its members and the community.

The program of the local Y. W. C. A. is carried on by a board composed of the following officers and members: President, Mrs. J. R. White; vice-president, Mrs. Courtney Oliver; treasurer, Miss Lucyle Godwin; parliamentarian, Miss Eleanor Faulk, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. R. H. B. Gibson, Mrs. J. B. Kugler, Mrs. H. F. Madison, Jr., Mrs. Harvey McDonald, Mrs. Dewitt Milam, Mrs. P. H. Poag, Mrs. William Rodriquez, Mrs. Frank Stubbs, Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. W. J. Yeazey, Mrs. J. E. Walsworth and the staff: Miss Bess Sharp, the general secretary and Mrs. John D. Coats, the residence house mother.

The Y. W. C. A. is having their Fall Open Meeting on Thursday afternoon December 4, 1941, 4 to 6:30 p.m. At this meeting the new members of the board will be elected. Mrs. William Rodriquez, membership chairman and Mrs. Courtney Oliver, nominating committee chairman, are in charge of this meeting.

The Young Women's Christian association is a local, national, and international association of women and girls of widely varied interests and experiences. The Y. W. C. A. is a factor for good in the community life and is an integral part of it. The Y. W. C. A. is not just a building or an organization but a spiritual somethting that bridges chasms, finds common interests, coments friendship, reaches for a clearer vision, greater understanding, and directions for courageous living in a changing world. The Y. W. C. A. is a doorway with a friendly welcome—a doorway that leads to fellowship and friendships, freedom or democracy, and faith—the aboundant life. The Y. W. C. A. gives a broader outlook into relationships and on life. The Y. W. C. A. is an endeavor with a purpose: To help women and girls grow into fine personalities and to make a better society by making a better community. The Y. W. C. A. which is sponsored by the Twin City Community Chest is actively engaged in this great program locally providing a home for girls who are employed or attending school, of providing training girls and women for leadership, of providing for enrichment of life and experience through club groups, and of helping women and girls to discover for themselves their part in living a fuller and happier life in the community. It is difficult to estimate such a great and far reaching program and the good which such an organization because it is not a charity, not a club, not a creed but a vital and dynamic fellowship, building democracy and faith.

Through the Young Women's Christian association, which is one of the agencies supported by the Twin City Community Chest avenues of rich experiences haye been opened up for a large number of girls—younger girls, business girls, residence girls, and of women and has enabled them to discover for themselves their part in living a full life in the community. The Y. W. C. A. means enrichment of life, directions for courageous living through vitalizing democracy and attaining a philosophy for creative living—spiritual development and constructive leisure activities and social relationships.

Miss Merry Burke Wed To Clair E. Neidhart

Ceremony Is Performed At First Methodist Church Here By Rev. A. M. Freeman

An interesting nuptial event, characterized by charming simplicity, was the wedding of Miss Merry Evelyn Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cleveland Burke of Springfield, O. and Clair Edwin Neidhart of Galion, O., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neidhart of Bellefontaine, O.

The ceremony took place, November 22, at the First Methodist church this city, with the pastor, Rev. A. M. Freeman, officiating in the presence of a few close friends and immediate members of the two families.

Cathedral tapers burning in white, wrought iron candelabra illuminated the dim recesses of the altar, banked in white chrysanthemums. Tall baskets overflowing with white chrysanthemums formed an enclosure for the bride and members of her wedding party.

While the guests were being seated, the organist, Mrs. John Sholars, rendered a medley of prenuptial airs, including MacDowell's "To A Wild Rose" and Shubert's "Serenade." Lohengrin's and Mendelssohn's wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional. During the ceremony Cadman's "At Dawning" was rendered.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Paul Theodore Wright, wore a stunning model of clover crepe with close fitting hat of the same shade and corsage of Butterfly roses and pink snapdragons.

Paul Theodore Wright served in the capacity of best man.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a smart street length model of Capri blue crepe fashioned with a circular skirt, and tight fitting basque with square cut neckline outlined with a metallic band. Metallic bands were also noted on the skirt. Her hat, a Milgrim model, was trimmed with Capri blue chenille. She carried her mother's white satin testament, which was adorned with a small bouquet of gardenias and bouvardia.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held in Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gibson's apartment at the Alvis Hotel. Considerable beauty of decoration was noted, with white chrysanthemums predominating among the fall flowers grouped in the background.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke, the bride's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Neidhart, the bridegroom's parents, were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gibson and members of the wedding party.

The bride's table, overlaid with handsome Italian cut work, was adorned with the three-tiered, beautifully-embossed wedding cake. A plaque of white chrysanthemums formed the central decor. Silver candelabra, supporting tall white tapers, were placed at the four corners. Silver compotes held a variety of delicious confections, including white mints embossed in valley lilies. Sandwiches were passed among the guests and coffee was poured from a silver service. Mrs. Paul T. Wright presided over the urns. She was assisted by Mrs. Joseph Elber Dozier.

The bride chose for traveling a two-piece beige wool with harmonizing coat, small mink hat and brown accessories.

Miss Evelyn Jarrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boatner Jarrell of Columbia, who was recently elected vice-president of Kappa Delta sorority at L. S. U. A junior in the school of journalism of the College of Arts and Science at the university, she also is secretary-treasurer of her class and editor for the Delta Gamma Delta intersorority.

Semper Fidelis Class Gives Dinner At Hotel

An enormous gilded cornucopia, flowing with purple Belgian grapes, Japanese persimmons, tangerines, and bright red apples, and encircled with Juniper berries and yellow chrysanthemums, formed a most effective and colorful decor for the dinner table in the Mirror room of Hotel Frances, given by members of the Semper Fidelis class of the First Methodist church of West Monroe.

Down the full length of the U-shaped table, yellow tapers burned in unique candleholders fashioned of oak tree bark. Gilded nut cups were placed at each cover. The printed programs, also serving as place cards, were most attractive, with horns of plenty overflowing with fruits and colors painted in water colors gracing the cover.

Mrs. Cecil McConnell, wearing a blue taffeta evening gown with pink carnation corsage, presided as toastmistress. With characteristic grace she introduced Mrs. C. K. Smith, who gave the invocation, and Mrs. Charles Chisholm, who gave a dramatic reading. Others introduced were Mrs. N. D. McGaughy, who contributed a vocal solo, and Mrs. Jack Willis, who rendered a piano number.

A debate—"Resolved: That the old-fashioned girl had more romantic experience than the modern girl"—was waged between Mrs. Milton Terry and Miss Lily Mae Carroll. They were enthusiastically applauded.

Mrs. William Norris, retiring class president, Mrs. Marshal Downs, the new president, and Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, a former teacher who still retains a warm spot in the heart of every class member, were introduced by Mrs. McConnell. Mrs. Metcalf expressed her delight over the return of Dr. C. K. Smith, pastor of the West Monroe Methodist church, and Mrs. Smith, who served as teacher of the Semper Fidelis class for more than a year. Mrs. Smith graciously responded to the introduction with appropriate remarks.

Those responsible for the unique arrangement of the table decor, Mrs. L. M. Webb, Mrs. Jeff Caldwell, Mrs. George P. Harrell, and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, were introduced and given a vote of thanks.

All members of the class wore charming evening models and corsages. Those present were: Mrs. C. K. Smith, Mrs. Charles Chisholm, Mrs. Herbert Rinehart, Mrs. Jeff Caldwell, Mrs. L. M. Webb, Mrs. William Norris, Mrs. J. H. Carroll, Mrs. Milton Terry, Mrs. E. N. Cannon, Mrs. E. Sherrard, Mrs. W. O. Smith, Mrs. John Peek McKee, Mrs. Norman Rushing, Mrs. George Harrell, Mrs. Dennis Chappell, Mrs. W. D. Golson, Mrs. Jack Willis, Mrs. Cecil McConnell, Mrs. Harry Snyder, Mrs. Marshall Downs, Mrs. Carl White, Mrs. E. Grueber, Mrs. E. L. Page, Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mrs. W. D. McGaughy, and Mrs. H. McGee.

'The Usurper' Reviewed By Mrs. John Pracher

"The Usurper," outstanding novel of the year, was reviewed in interesting manner by Mrs. John Pracher before members of the Miro Book club. She said in part:

"Stan Butterworth was 6 feet 7 inches tall. He lived in one room above his store at Barlow bend, and people said he was so mean he ate water-moccasin meat to save living expenses. His wants were few and Cottontown saw him only when he went in to deposit money in the Planter's bank. Everyone called him 'old Stan Butterworth,' though he was only 40 years old. He was the possessor of more hard cash than all the cotton planters in the delta. The Cottontown banker hated to see that pile of money lying idle and more than once tried to interest Stan in investing it; Stan was unmoved. All he knew, he claimed, was 'cotton, mules and niggers.' He'd stick to them.

"It was seeing Lacey McFerrin again after 20 years that caused the dormant seeds of ambition to spring to life in him. Lacey, he learned, was chairman of the cotton festival committee and he knew what an important social event that was. He suspected she was interested in getting her niece crowned 'queen' and her little daughter made leader of the 'junior royalty.' He accepted when the banker asked him to take part in making the arrangements, not a very respectable part. He knew they were trying to use him as a stooge because he had money and was a shrewd and not too scrupulous trader. But he wanted to see more of Lacey, for Lacey, he found, had lost none of the charm and fascination she had had when, a poor, overgrown 'peckerwood' boy, he had given her his heart.

"From the hour of Butterworth's agreement to serve on the festival committee, the life of Cottontown becomes, by stages, irrevocably bound up with this man's destiny. Never again can he be old Stan of Barlow bend, and never again will the people—planters and share croppers alike—be independent of him. They may hate and despite him, they may love and admire him, but during their lives and his, he remains a giant, unmoved and permanent, an anchor that they must depend on.

Housecoats And Hosiery Always Get Warm Welcome

Negligees For Leisure Hours Make Exciting Gifts For Women

Negligees and housecoats make gracious, personal gifts for all the family, except the male contingent—and they will approve gifts of robes or smoking jackets to don when they shed the cares of the day.

Negligees can be frivolous or discreetly tailored, it's the colors and fabrics that make them lovely. Gleaming satins are flattering in soft tones, and glowy in jewel tones—crepes with hand-finish or lace trims favor pastels, except in black, when the lace is dyed-to-match—velvet is gorgeous in color, and sophisticated in black. Reversible negligees make doubly-welcome gifts, and are particularly appealing in satin with pink on one side, and blue on the other; or black on one side and pastel or turquoise on the other. Either way you look at it, it's a good gift idea!

Warmer negligees or housecoats in sheer wools or rayon pile fabrics, put glamour on a practical basis, and do an equally efficient job of flattery and warmth. Here again color scores, in white that looks like ermine, and pastels that look good enough to eat. Darker colors take on new beauty, too, in these fabrics that have depth to show them off.

Tailored robes that pinch-hit as housecoats, are also on the warm side—in flannels with cheerful color values, and plaids with spirited gaiety. They're fitted or wrap-around, with belts or princess waistlines—and buttons or zippers to tuck you in.

So whether the gift problem be for "something luxurious," or "something practical," there's a negligee, a housecoat or a robe to solve it promptly, and with a warmth of enthusiasm!

Housecoats and hostess gowns have practically limitless gift possibilities—with prices to suit every purse. Printed cotton housecoats, in peppy patterns, are a boon to the hostess for informal entertaining, and a joy to wear in steam-heated apartments. They make "just right" gifts, at modest cost. Sumptuous fabrics, such as silks and satins, are elegant in tailored housecoats for more formal wear, and wonderful Christmas gifts to show off during holiday entertaining, to start the year right. Silks and satins with lace, beading, or even furry accents are luxury lovelies that will make wife proud of her husband (if he gives her one)—and any husband proud of his wife (when she wears it). Velvet dramatizes even the simplest housecoat, and positively glorifies the dressier types, with shirring and draperies, voluminous sleeves and perhaps just the barest suggestion of a train? The velvet versions are usually "hostess gowns"—and so they should be, for the "perfect" hostess and the perfect gift!

Housecoats and hostess gowns with bifurcated skirts are a nice compromise with lounging pajamas having the casual charm of pajamas, plus the flowing grace of skirt fullness. They're full of originality, for the "woman who has everything," and full of prestige for the giver.

They won't fit into the Christmas stockings, but negligees, housecoats or robes will fit into any Christmas list—and stocks will soar as a result! And don't forget, there are robes for little brother and little sister, too—and robes for dad and big brother. Go to town with your Christmas list, and "go to town" all the way down to the very last name—with robes for all, for a robust Merry Christmas!

CHAPTER XII

After the guests had gone, Bill suggested, "Let's walk." And Diana, after a word with Stephen, went with him.

Stephen and Evalyn. The thought of the two of them filled her mind. What a strange, beautiful romance! Poor Stephen, no wonder he had been obliged to take an unknown girl into his house to pose as his wife, if he were in love with a woman like that! And what must the gentle Evalyns life be with Richard Thorpe? She looked happy, contented—at peace with the world. Could it be that he entertained for her a genuine love and affection that made him different toward her? Devoutly Diana hoped so. In spite of the few hours she had known the blind woman, she felt that any hurt to Evalyn Thorpe would be like a physical blow to her. Strange how she felt that. What was it that made her so sure that in Evalyn she had found a friend? Yet she knew in her heart that it was true.

"Diana, I've come here for only one reason."

Piercing the fog of her thoughts, Bill Jackson's voice was like a message from another world—a strange, far-off world of which she'd once been a part, but which was now as alien as if it had never existed. How was it going to be when she'd have to build a new world, one in which the things which absorbed her now would have no place?

"Yes, Bill?"

"I want to know if you're happy!"

She glanced up at his big, overcoated figure, and realized that Bill was very much disturbed. His hand beneath her arm held her body strongly against his own. There was assurance and determination in his touch. Diana sighed. How much simpler it would have been if she had fallen in love with Bill!

"Of course, Bill. Why do you ask?"

He went on. "It struck me as just a little queer—your marriage. You see I remembered distinctly that day sitting by the stove in my store, when I asked if you loved anybody else and you said 'no.' Then in less than a week you'd married this Curt. Can you blame me for being a bit curious?"

She hedged. "Maybe it was love at first sight."

"No," he answered, "if it had been—if you and the man you married were genuine lovers, you wouldn't be coming out with me like this!"

"You mean I shouldn't have come? Nonsense! I felt the need of a little air after an evening indoors and I've known you all my life. Stephen understands that."

"Maybe. Still, loving you as I do, I figured I had a right to know just where I stand. I've never for a moment given up the thought that one day you'll come back—you'll remember that I'm waiting to offer you a lot of devotion—that I can make you comfortable. Somehow this marriage doesn't seem to make a lot of difference in my mind. Your father, too—when I questioned him, he evaded me."

"All right, Bill," Diana said. "I'll tell you the truth."

They stopped in the shadow of a huge box hedge that lined the sidewalk. After all, as he said, he had a right to know. In a few words she told him of the business arrangement she had with Stephen Curt. He was silent when she had finished.

"Well?"

Still he did not answer.

"Bill, don't stand there like a dummy!"

"Words fail me," he said finally. "I wouldn't have thought you'd be so mercenary!"

Diana felt her face flushing in the cold darkness. It was a little disturbing to feel a pedestal on which you've always been enshrined toppling. "Don't be silly. Why shouldn't I do this? It's just like taking on another job. In a few months I'll be free and $10,000 richer. I don't think that's such a bad bargain!"

How exasperating he was. She wished he hadn't come—wished she wouldn't have to spend the night with thoughts he had started in motion.

When Larkin let them in, Bill stepped inside for a moment just as Stephen was crossing the hallway from the library. He stopped, came toward them, smiling pleasantly.

"Too bad you didn't come earlier, Mr. Jackson. Any friend of Diana's is always welcome. To be sure it was a rather dull affair."

Bill looked at him steadily and Diana, watching them, realized that they were something alike.

"I think I ought to tell you, Mr. Curt," Bill was saying, "I came tonight because it struck me as rather queer that Diana should have married you out of a clear sky, and because I wanted to be sure of her happiness and well being. You see, I love her very much."

Stephen's face did not change by so much as the flicker of an eyelash. "I see," he answered after a moment. "And I think I ought to tell you that Diana did not mention to me that there was another man in her life."

Then it was that Diana's temper, held in leash, but fed now by a sort of nervous exhaustion, flashed forth. "And I'll tell both of you that Bill knows I am not in love with him and never have been! And what's more, never will be! Oh, I'm fond of him—have known him since childhood. But that doesn't give him the right to come here and question my motives!"

She turned angrily to Stephen, the bright tears glistening on her lashes. "And there's no part of our bargain that gives you the right to question what I do or do not tell you. I'll have you both remember that I'm quite able to manage my affairs without assistance from either of you!"

She stood there trembling, and suddenly Stephen laughed. "There's no use in getting all wrought up like this," he said. "I think it's very commendable that Mr. Jackson here took the trouble to find out if you were all right." He turned to Bill. "Forgive Diana, won't you? She's tired. And won't you come again when you're in town?"

Bill knew that he was being quietly, efficiently dismissed, and after a few words for Diana accompanied by a look of misery, he made his departure.

Stephen turned to her. "Want to talk about it?"

"I'm sure there's nothing further to say on the subject," she answered shortly, but followed him into the library. She sat quietly in one of the big chairs, feeling her nerves relax watching Stephen jamming tobacco into his pipe.

When he had lighted it, he spoke. "I like Bill Jackson. He's a fine, upstanding man. Anyone can see that."

"Of course," she answered, a little tartly. "The kind of man any girl in—in my position should be glad to grab up."

"I didn't say that," he answered quietly. "But a girl might do worse than accept a love like that!"

"Oh, of course, I know you're right. But don't you see? I want something different—something exciting. That's why I came away from the farm. That's why your—your offer seemed so alluring."

He smiled. "I saw that day in Thorpe's office that your eyes were full of dreams. I sincerely hope, my dear, that they are not impossible of fulfullment."

She got up and walked about, picking up an object here and there, while he watched her through half-closed lids. "Oh, life's so muddled! Just when you think things are straightening out, they snarl up again. Nobody seems entirely contented. Everyone wants something they haven't got. Bill could be happy with a girl who likes his sort of life—and he wants me. You must turn to a girl you don't even know when you want a temporary wife. And there's Adela. What does she want? She doesn't like me—and she's not happy, Stephen!"

His face grew grave. "No, she's not happy." He sighed. "I don't know just what will become of Adela. Frankly, I had hoped you two would become friends. I'm sure you'd be good for her."

"We can't be friends. She's jealous of me." Diana stopped her prowling, struck by the thought, and came to stand before Stephen. "That's it. She's jealous. She idolizes you. And she's afraid you might fall in love with me. That's why she dislikes me so!"

He shrugged. "That's not impossible, you know."

She brushed that aside. "Nonsense! I remember quite well your saying, 'The woman I love married another man.' And tonight, Stephen—when I saw Evalyn Thorpe—when I saw the look on your face—I knew."

He said nothing. The firelight playing on his features revealed nothing of his thoughts. It was very quiet now in the big book-lined room and Diana came to sit on a small hassock near Stephen's knees. For a long time they gazed quietly into the flames, each absorbed in his own thoughts, feeling no need of speech. Finally, not knowing why, she turned to him, slipped her fingers beneath his, felt them close about her own warmly. All the turmoil of the evening seemed to be dissolved in that firm, sure grasp.

"All my life I'll be grateful for your friendship, Stephen," she said softly.

He stood up, drew her gently into the circle of his arms, placed his lips for a brief moment on her forehead. "I'm going to see that things come out right for you, Diana, if there's anything I can do about it," he muttered a little fiercely. "And now, my dear child, do you realize it's nearly morning?"

NEW COAT IDEAL FOR YOUNGSTERS

All-Weather Reversibles Are Popular Gifts Shown In Local Shops

If you want to make your daughter's eyes sparkle on Christmas morning—surprise her with a new coat. And because she'll wear it long after Christmas is over, it will keep her happy and well dressed for months to come. Prime favorite with the teen age girl is the bright plaid reversible coat with detachable hood. All-weather coats, these reversibles are treated for water-repellency on both the wool and cotton gabardine side. For the more sophisticated teen age miss, pick the cavalry twill boys' coat, fashioned just like her beau's. Smart for school as they are for "best," these coats have big welt seamed patch pockets, small change pocket, and small collar. For the younger girl, why not a bright plaid raincoat, umbrella and matching hat? These are wonderfully practical as well as being bright and Christmas-y. A simple super gift for wee tots as well as girls is the three-piece coat set. Consisting of fitted princess coat, matching bonet and zip closed leggings, these are Young America's favorites. Many of them are velvet trimmed or if you want to make your daughter feel extra-special, choose hers with fur collar and cuffs. One of the newest, most practical of these coat sets is the four-piece ensemble. Made of wool and corduroy, it includes a wool coat, corduroy coat—each with matching leggings. Thrifty mothers will like this ensemble too because it can be worn four different ways, as each piece can be interchanged with the other. The new smooth shouldered casual fleece wrap-around coat would make any girl happier on Christmas! Color plays an important part in these Christmas gift coats and you'll see lots of holly red, winter-green, rich blue, lots and lots of natural color coats. So to make good little happy girls this Christmas, we suggest a brand new coat! See them at your local stores today—they have the coat your daughter wants most!

Accessory Gifts Always Please The Women Folks

Local Stores Offer Wide Choice Of Smart Wearable Accessories

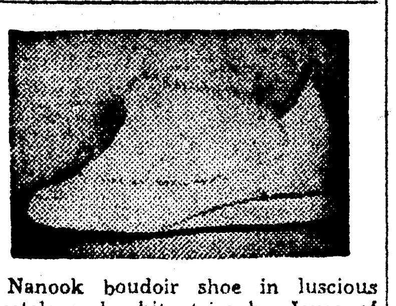
Christmas gifts of accessories compliment both the giver and the recipient, because the smart woman cannot have too many accessories; and the smart Christmas shopper makes the most of that knowledge.

Grandma used to say "you can judge a lady by her handkerchief"—and grandma was right, except that she should have used the plural. You can judge a lady by her handkerchiefs—dozens of them! There's no limit to the variety, and originality, of handkerchiefs to choose for gift-giving. Snowy white ones, with a touch of hand work, never go amiss—and the sheerer the better. Gay prints reflect the spirit of the season, and get applause from young and old. Nursery rhymes, embroidered animals, and similar whimsy are favorites with the small fry, and they even come in book form to make it more exciting. Generous size squares, in white or white-with-color, go over big with men who like their jacket pockets dressed up a bit—so there you have it.

Umbrellas to mend!—to mend frayed nerves and Christmas-shopping worries! Give an umbrella, in silk or cotton, colors or patterns, and pick a handle to smarten up the whole idea. There are malacca crooks, or silver-mounted gnarled woods for men's umbrellas with a well-bred look—crystal, hooks or metal mountings for ladies' umbrellas that will brighten the darkest day—and even leather or fur covered handles, for luxury—and much praise!

Scarves are warm well-wishers, and wonderful gift items for Christmas and the winter weather. Wools, whether crocheted or knit, have added prestige when they bear a "hand knit" label—and they're surprisingly low priced for hand work. These, of course, come in every imaginable color—for youngsters or for oldsters, and they're fun as well as forthright. Silk scarves, for day or evening, are gracious gifts for men, in either squares or made-up scarf lengths—and initials add an appreciated personal touch. Silk scarves for women offer a wide field for self-expression, and are colorful, versatile gifts that can be worn as scarves, neckerchiefs or head-dresses all year round.

Within four months after enlistment, United State navy recruits automatically receive a 70 per cent increase in pay and a promotion to a higher rating.



Nanook boudoir shoe in luscious pastels and white trim by Joyce of California.

Birds have the quickest eyes, being able to change their focus faster than any other creature.

CHRISTMAS IS TIME FOR GAMES AT HOME

Mothers, fathers, aunts, uncles and cousins usually participate at some time or other during the holidays in the games that sister and brother receive from Santa Claus and so we find the staple "bread and butter." Dominoes, checkers, anagrams, Chinese checkers, "Bingo" and "Parchesi" still good.

Boys and girls are exceptionally keen about baseball and football board games. An all star baseball game of this type features big league stars playing their own regular positions on the field. The game was designed by a former Giant baseball star.

Dart games, steady year round sellers in toy, adult game and sporting goods departments are exceptionally good at Christmas. These have appeal for young and old . . . many of them have double face with a baseball game on reverse side.

Among the old-time games which have been modernized is a fishing game with colored metal fish, fish poles with magnets and "frying pans."

Card games of all kinds make nice gifts and other old-time numbers are all available in adult game and toy departments.

A table top bowling game introduced early this year is a dollar number, which appeals to all those who want to "bowl" right on top of the bridge table.

"Treasure Hunt" is a favorite party game which comes attractively packaged.

LUGGAGE GIFTS ALWAYS POPULAR

Striped Canvas Luggage Featured At Popular Prices In Local Stores

No matter whether your Christmas budget is bursting with dollars, or already badly overstrained, you'll find a gift for everyone on your list in the luggage departments of the local stores.

Matched luggage sets are always welcome. In the inexpensive price group, you'll find hard-wearing striped canvas luggage in sizes varying from overnight cases to wardrobe trunks, reinforced at the necessary points with genuine saddle leather or cowhide. Two or three of these make a most imposing gift!

Also in the inexpensive price range is a new type of luggage, made of a material which appears to be rawhide, without the costliness of that rich leather! This new material can stand a terrific amount of abuse, which is certainly what we look for in luggage. You'll find nine sizes available, all priced to please.

For that great American institution travelling by automobile, the stores are showing new wedge shaped luggage designed to fit the luggage compartment of your car. This does away with waste space, and each piece is tapered to really fit.

Being scuffproof and roughproof, it makes it even more difficult to resist.

Heavy luggage can spoil most of the fun of traveling, so harken while we tell of the virtues of some new lightweight, streamlined canvas luggage. Aptly called "magic carpet bags," this trimly-styled luggage is bound with tan cowhide and is offered in navy, brown, or the smart new olive drab. A fine example of "modern design!"

What lovely lady's heart wouldn't quicken at the sight of one of the new handsomely fitted beauty cases! There's a gleaming glass or plastic container for every one of her beautifiers. You'll find them in a wide range of delectable colors, and in leathers real or simulated. Fine for the gals from 16 to 60!

For the boys in training, what could be more appropriate than the new "furlough" bag. This is really a two-in-one bag, with room for soiled clothing in a separate compartment underneath the regular packing area. An added feature is two oil-silk lined pockets for carrying toilet articles. Very slick, says we, and fine for dad, as well!

Little sister will behave beautifully when your beau comes to call if you tempt her with one of the shiny new steel carry-all for roller or ice skates. She can bang it, dent it, but she can't break it! And it certainly won't bruise your budget one bit!

He won't be in the dark for long if you give him one of the new folding utility kits. These are fitted with a razor that has an enclosed light, as well as every other necessity that the boys at camp can use. That should throw some light on the gift problem!

There's nothing better for the men on your gift list than a zipper sports bag. These are available in genuine seal leather and come in the popular 18-inch size. Plaid, rayon and cotton linings make things even more cheerful.

What every woman wants—this 4-piece matching set in floral bouquet print Tissue-spun. Quilted mandarin jacket, 2-piece tailored pajamas, shirtwaist top nightgown and matching quilted bedjacket. All from A. Barsa & Sons, Inc.

SWEATERS FOR EVERY OCCASION AVAILABLE

If you're up the proverbial tree about what to give your mother, your sister, your cousin or your aunt for Christmas—say it with sweaters! And no matter what their taste, you'll find exactly the sweater they want most at your local stores. Newest for the sportsminded girl is the Argyle plaid sweater with V-neckline (she'll wear it smartly with her dickey!), or this same style in solid color. Peasant embroidered sweaters in pullover and cardigan styles are prime favorites for daytime as well as winter sports wear. Wonderfully bright, they have gay peasantype embroidered accents, pompoms silver colored metal buttons. Classic twin sweaters in new longer lengths are sure to please gifts. Fashion news is noted in ribbed shoulder yokes, deep ribbed cuffs and grosgrain bound cardigrans. We noted a marvelous coat sweater—the kind we know would make a perfect gift for mother. In the new longer length, it's lightweight yet warm, has flattering V-neckline and button front closing. For the college and teen age girl as well as the career girl, we suggest one of the new brushed wool sweaters. Heavenly in white and the new soft pastels, pretty for dancing.

Sweaters make fashion news for evening this year, so why not a sparkling sweater for the glamour girls on your list? Newest, most spohisticated of all is the zip-closed long torso sweater with all-over sequin or nail-head trim.

WARM UNDERWEAR MAKES WARM GIFT

There's a warm feeling for warm undies these chilly days, and even the best-dressed gal on your Christmas list will go rapturous, if you give her some of the fine "woolies" available in smart shops. They're fine as silk, light as a feather, and warm as toast—in fine wool, sometimes mixed with fibrous yarns and streamlined to modern specifications.

For the sports addict, there's an endless variety of sturdy, warm undearwear that is a downright necessity for even a mediocre of comfort. And don't overlook the red flannels in this group, either—they're fun and pretty wonderful heat-preservers. Any bright young thing will be very grateful for a gift of really fine "all wool and a yard wide" undies for active sportswear.

Nightgown, blessed with long sleeves, and room to wrap up in, are desirable gifts for women of all ages—they are no longer labeled "old-fashioned," and surely they don't look it! Lightweight flannels are pretty marvelous, and the colors are a particular joy. Fine gauge wool knits that take to tucks, shirring and gathers as cheerfully as silk or cotton, are practically luxury items——and would be highly prized as a most distinctive, thoughtful gift for any woman who delights in cuddly, feather-light wool confections.

So do let someone "pull the wool over your eyes" when you do your Christmas shopping, and win yourself a round of applause by giving warm undies as gifts for the family—little sister, great-granny and everyone in-between. They will be warmly welcomed!

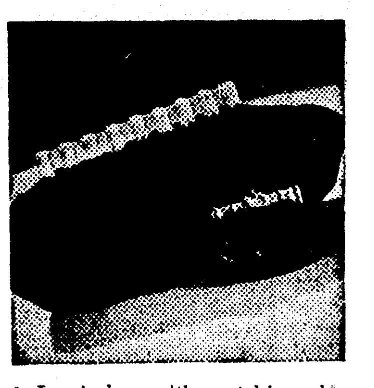
'LITTLE' CHRISTMAS IS BIG, AFTER ALL

For those "little" gifts, and to please fussy Great-Aunt Matilda, why not a token of leather? The stores are simply bursting with new items that would gladden the heart of every friend and relative.

Zipped leather travel clocks in alligator, morocco or handsome ostrich grains are a welcome idea for the inveterate traveller. A nice touch is to have the recipient's name or initials stamped in gold leaf on the lid. Perhaps as a reminder that time is golden?

Since it's "papa who pays" it's a wise child who remembers him handsomely on Christmas day. "Life with Father" will be easier if you give him a new leather billfold. These have a compartment for just about everything, not to forget a "secret" one, just for fun!

If the man of your life is a "big business" tycoon, or even a struggling, "up-and-coming," he'd appreciate a zipped brief case. These fairly bristle with importance, and have loads of inside pockets, plus metal re-inforced corners for longer wear.



A Lewis bag with matching change purse in draped broadcloth with clear-as-crystal Lucite frame.

FURS FOR 'SOMEONE' CERTAIN TO PLEASE

Furs take first place as the very special Christmas gift for that "very special" person. A gift of a fur coat has lasting beauty, and is a lasting remembrance. It is not necessary to spend a great deal to bestow this particularly glamorous gift of furs. Seal dyed coney, mouton lamb, Persian paw, and leopard cat are just a few of the inexpensive furs that wear well, look well, and give continuous joy to the wearer. Coats in these furs offer a choice for a wide range of types and ages, and better shops are most willing to make helpful suggestions, and offer reliable guidance.

Precious furs, of course, make "precious" gifts indeed. For instance, a silver fox jacket for the debutant daughter, a Persian lamb for wife mother. Processed lambs are guaranteed to put a sparkle in the most jaded feminine eye. Furs are no longer the luxury they used to be. Stores are offering a wide range of styles a popular budget prices. Easy terms make a fur coat purchase hard to resist.

Housecoats And Hosiery Always Get Warm Welcome

Negligees For Leisure Hours Make Exciting Gifts For Women

Negligees and housecoats make gracious, personal gifts for all the family, except the male contingent—and they will approve gifts of robes or smoking jackets to don when they shed the cares of the day.

Negligees can be frivolous or discreetly tailored, it's the colors and fabrics that make them lovely. Gleaming satins are flattering in soft tones, and glowy in jewel tones—crepes with hand finish or lace trims favor pastels, except in black, when the lace is dyed-to-match—velvet is gorgeous in color, and sophisticated in black. Reversible negligees make doubly-welcome gifts, and are particularly appealing in satin with pink on one side, and blue on the other; or black on one side and pastel or turquoise on the other. Either way you look at it, it's a good gift idea!

Warmer negligees or housecoats in sheer wools or rayon pile fabrics, put glamour on a practical basis, and do an equally efficient job of flattery and warmth. Here again color scores, in white that looks like ermine, and pastels that look good enough to eat. Darker colors take on new beauty, too, in these fabrics that have depth to show them off.

Tailored robes that pinch-hit as housecoats, are also on the warm side—in flannels with cheerful color values, and plaids with spirited gaiety. They're fitted or wrap-around, with belts or princess waistlines—and buttons or zippers to tuck you in.

So whether the gift problem be for "something luxurious," or "something practical," there's a negligee, a housecoat or a robe to solve it promptly, and with a warmth of enthusiasm!

Housecoats and hostess gowns have practically limitless gift possibilities—with prices to suit every purse. Printed cotton housecoats, in peppy patterns, are a boon to the hostess for informal entertaining, and a joy to wear in steam-heated apartments. They make "just right" gifts, at modest cost. Sumptuous fabrics, such as silks and satins, are elegant in tailored housecoats for more formal wear, and wonderful Christmas gifts to show off during holiday entertaining, to start the year right. Silks and satins with lace, beading, or even furry accents are luxury lovelies that will make wife proud of her husband (if he gives her one)—and any husband proud of his wife (when she wears it). Velvet dramatizes even the simplest housecoat, and positively glorifies the dressier types, with shirring and draperies, voluminous sleeves and perhaps just the barest suggestion of a train? The velvet versions are usually "hostess gowns"—and so they should be, for the "perfect" hostess and the perfect gift!

Housecoats and hostess gowns with bifurcated skirts are a nice compromise with lounging pajamas having the casual charm of pajamas, plus the flowing grace of skirt fullness. They're full of originality, for the "woman who has everything," and full of prestige for the giver.

They won't fit into the Christmas stockings, but negligees, housecoats or robes will fit into any Christmas list—and stocks will soar as a result! And don't forget, there are robes for little brother and little sister, too—and robes for dad and big brother. Go to town with your Christmas list, and "go to town" all the way down to the very last name—with robes for all, for a robust Merry Christmas!

LADY BY REQUEST

CHAPTER XII

After the guests had gone, Bill suggested, "Let's walk." And Diana, after a word with Stephen, went with him.

Stephen and Evalyn. The thought of the two of them filled her mind. What a strange, beautiful romance! Poor Stephen, no wonder he had been obliged to take an unknown girl into his house to pose as his wife, if he were in love with a woman like that! And what must the gentle Evalyns life be with Richard Thorpe? She looked happy, contented—at peace with the world. Could it be that he entertained for her a genuine love and affection that made him different toward her? Devoutly Diana hoped so. In spite of the few hours she had known the blind woman, she felt that any hurt to Evalyn Thorpe would be like a physical blow to her. Strange how she felt that. What was it that made her so sure that in Evalyn she had found a friend? Yet she knew in her heart that it was true.

"Diana, I've come here for only one reason."

Piercing the fog of her thoughts, Bill Jackson's voice was like a message from another world—a strange, far-off world of which she'd once been a part, but which was now as alien as if it had never existed. How was it going to be when she'd have to build a new world, one in which the things which absorbed her now would have no place?

"Yes, Bill?"

"I want to know if you're happy!"

She glanced up at his big, overcoated figure, and realized that Bill was very much disturbed. His hand beneath her arm held her body strongly against his own. There was assurance and determination in his touch. Diana sighed. How much simpler it would have been if she had fallen in love with Bill!

"Of course, Bill. Why do you ask?"

He went on. "It struck me as just a little queer—your marriage. You see I remembered distinctly that day sitting by the stove in my store, when I asked if you loved anybody else and you said 'no.' Then in less than a week you'd married this Curt. Can you blame me for being a bit curious?"

She hedged. "Maybe it was love at first sight."

"No," he answered, "if it had been—if you and the man you married were genuine lovers, you wouldn't be coming out with me like this!"

"You mean I shouldn't have come? Nonsense! I felt the need of a little air after an evening indoors and I've known you all my life. Stephen understands that."

"Maybe. Still, loving you as I do, I figured I had a right to know just where I stand. I've never for a moment given up the thought that one day you'll come back—you'll remember that I'm waiting to offer you a lot of devotion—that I can make you comfortable. Somehow this marriage doesn't seem to make a lot of difference in my mind. Your father, too—when I questioned him, he evaded me."

"All right, Bill," Diana said. "I'll tell you the truth."

They stopped in the shadow of a huge box hedge that lined the sidewalk. After all, as he said, he had a right to know. In a few words she told him of the business arrangement she had with Stephen Curt. He was silent when she had finished.

"Well?"

Still he did not answer.

"Bill, don't stand there like a dummy!"

"Words fail me," he said finally. "I wouldn't have thought you'd be so mercenary!"

Diana felt her face flushing in the cold darkness. It was a little disturbing to feel a pedestal on which you've always been enshrined toppling. "Don't be silly. Why shouldn't I do this? It's just like taking on another job. In a few months I'll be free and $10,000 richer. I don't think that's such a bad bargain!"

How exasperating he was. She wished he hadn't come—wished she wouldn't have to spend the night with thoughts he had started in motion.

When Larkin let them in, Bill stepped inside for a moment just as Stephen was crossing the hallway from the library. He stopped, came toward them, smiling pleasantly.

"Too bad you didn't come earlier, Mr. Jackson. Any friend of Diana's is always welcome. To be sure it was a rather dull affair."

Bill looked at him steadily and Diana, watching them, realized that they were something alike.

"I think I ought to tell you, Mr. Curt," Bill was saying, "I came tonight because it struck me as rather queer that Diana should have married you out of a clear sky, and because I wanted to be sure of her happiness and well being. You see, I love her very much."

Stephen's face did not change by so much as the flicker of an eyelash. "I see," he answered after a moment. "And I think I ought to tell you that Diana did not mention to me that there was another man in her life."

Then it was that Diana's temper, held in leash, but fed now by a sort of nervous exhaustion, flashed forth. "And I'll tell both of you that Bill knows I am not in love with him and never have been! And what's more, never will be! Oh, I'm fond of him—have known him since childhood. But that doesn't give him the right to come here and question my motives!"

She turned angrily to Stephen, the bright tears glistening on her lashes. "And there's no part of our bargain that gives you the right to question what I do or do not tell you. I'll have you both remember that I'm quite able to manage my affairs without assistance from either of you!"

She stood there trembling, and suddenly Stephen laughed. "There's no use in getting all wrought up like this," he said. "I think it's very commendable that Mr. Jackson here took the trouble to find out if you were all right." He turned to Bill. "Forgive Diana, won't you? She's tired. And won't you come again when you're in town?"

Bill knew that he was being quietly, efficiently dismissed, and after a few words for Diana accompanied by a look of misery, he made his departure.

Stephen turned to her. "Want to talk about it?"

"I'm sure there's nothing further to say on the subject," she answered shortly, but followed him into the library. She sat quietly in one of the big chairs, feeling her nerves relax watching Stephen jamming tobacco into his pipe.

When he had lighted it, he spoke. "I like Bill Jackson. He's a fine, upstanding man. Anyone can see that."

"Of course," she answered, a little tartly. "The kind of man any girl in—in my position should be glad to grab up."

"I didn't say that," he answered quietly. "But a girl might do worse than accept a love like that!"

"Oh, of course, I know you're right. But don't you see? I want something different—something exciting. That's why I came away from the farm. That's why your—your offer seemed so alluring."

He smiled. "I saw that day in Thorpe's office that your eyes were full of dreams. I sincerely hope, my dear, that they are not impossible of fulfullment."

She got up and walked about, picking up an object here and there, while he watched her through half-closed lids. "Oh, life's so muddled! Just when you think things are straightening out, they snarl up again. Nobody seems entirely contented. Everyone wants something they haven't got. Bill could be happy with a girl who likes his sort of life—and he wants me. You must turn to a girl you don't even know when you want a temporary wife. And there's Adela. What does she want? She doesn't like me—and she's not happy, Stephen!"

His face grew grave. "No, she's not happy." He sighed. "I don't know just what will become of Adela. Frankly, I had hoped you two would become friends. I'm sure you'd be good for her."

"We can't be friends. She's jealous of me." Diana stopped her prowling, struck by the thought, and came to stand before Stephen. "That's it. She's jealous. She idolizes you. And she's afraid you might fall in love with me. That's why she dislikes me so!"

He shrugged. "That's not impossible, you know."

She brushed that aside. "Nonsense! I remember quite well your saying, 'The woman I love married another man.' And tonight, Stephen—when I saw Evalyn Thorpe—when I saw the look on your face—I knew."

He said nothing. The firelight playing on his features revealed nothing of his thoughts. It was very quiet now in the big book-lined room and Diana came to sit on a small hassock near Stephen's knees. For a long time they gazed quietly into the flames, each absorbed in his own thoughts, feeling no need of speech. Finally, not knowing why, she turned to him, slipped her fingers beneath his, felt them close about her own warmly. All the turmoil of the evening seemed to be dissolved in that firm, sure grasp.

"All my life I'll be grateful for your friendship, Stephen," she said softly.

He stood up, drew her gently into the circle of his arms, placed his lips for a brief moment on her forehead. "I'm going to see that things come out right for you, Diana, if there's anything I can do about it," he muttered a little fiercely. "And now, my dear child, do you realize it's nearly morning?"

The quaint McGuffy doll with pigtails, button shoes and brimmed straw hat is the same character doll which has been popular for several years. It is now featured in miniature size.

The "Heartbeat" doll has a "heart" that actually beats . . . a simulated stethoscope comes with this doll so that the little mother may listen to the heartbeat. (The doll's heart will continue beating for four days with one winding!)

Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy are still perennial favorite rag dolls . . . children are familiar with the "Raggedy Ann" stories and now with the technicolor film "Raggedy Ann and Andy" the characters have become even more lovable.

From the animal kingdom there is the Victory Lion in brown mohair and tan brushed cloth with a V for Victory on the back.

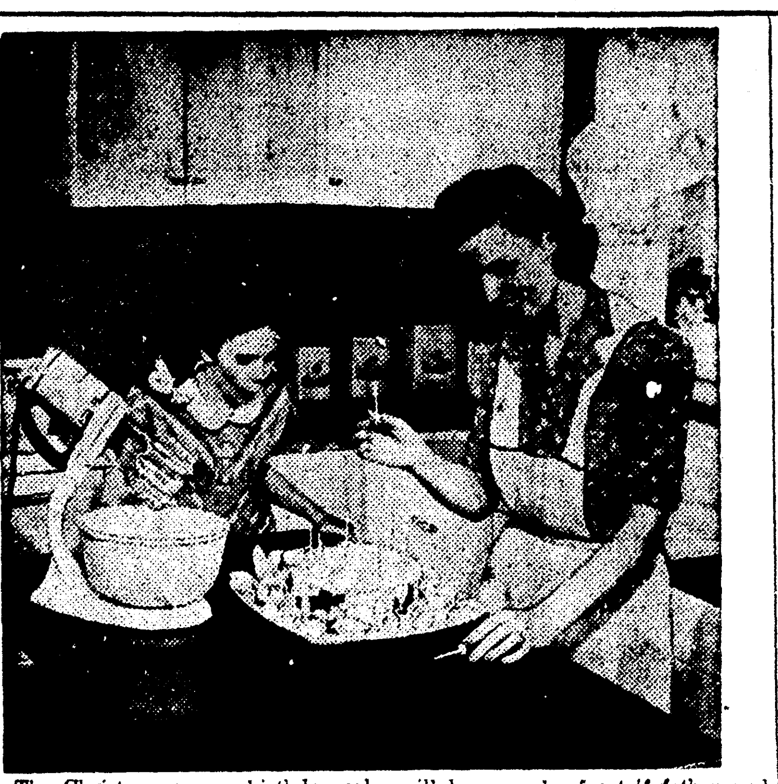
Rocking horses in black and white fur cloth with Martingale trappings, swinging horses in floor frames, large and small sizes are what little boys love.

Teddy bears, dogs of all kinds, pandas and elephants are among the other popular fur fabric toys. . . .

Sanitary dolls and animals at $1.00 and up are cute looking kapok stuffed cotton toys which have a layer of pliofilm laminated to the cloth, making them shine with a soilproof and dustproof surface.



The Christmas season birthday cake will be a work of art if father and the boys present mother with this General Electric mixer on Christmas morning.

IT FELT LIKE SUNDAY

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(AP)—It was Saturday morning. The church bell tolled loud and long. Lafayette's volunteer fire department raced to the church. Men dropped their work and hurried to the scene. The streets buzzed with automobiles, bicycles and other vehicles. At the church, where the people thought they were summoned by a fire alarm, they found only Walter Cate, church janitor. He thought it was Sunday.

Decorator Lamps To Make Welcome Gifts For Home

Regency And Federal American Lamps, New Table Models Popular

Every year lamps of all kinds head the list of suggested gift items for the home. Table lamps are among the most popular sellers and boudoir lamps in pairs or in sets of three (one for the night table and two for the vanity) are also in big demand at Christmas time. Tall crystal sticks, plain bronze plated or polished brass bases . . . champagne, beige or similar neutral toned shades are featured on floor and table lamps.

A new 50-inch height in floor lamps is selling successfully in several stores, these come in traditional and modern types to harmonize with any interior . . . Decorative china or Dresden type figurine lamps all with rayon taffeta or Clair de Lune shades in white or soft pastel colors make pretty gifts.

Regency and Federal American styles predominate in gift lamps for the living room. These may be simple or elaborate and priced anywhere from $5 or less up to $50 or higher.

Many table lamps are taller than usual, this is particularly noticed in Regency and modern styles.

Reading lamps are always acceptable gifts for young and old. . . . Floor lamps in bridge and regulation height are usually equipped with three-way lighting. . . .

The current development of American Federal and Pennsylvania Dutch in interior decoration and the continued improvement of Modern design are all stressed in the featured table and floor lamps which are highlighted for Christmas gifts. . . .

American ceramics and glass predominate in table bases at popular prices. . . .

Classic American tole lamps because of their harmonizing with Federal furnishings have taken on a new importance . . . these are featured in popular price lines in table, desk or floor styles.

Fluorescent lighting is growing tremendously important and is particularaly recommended for gifts of desk lamps and bed lamps . . . the newest development in fluorescent lighting is found in the decorative table lamps, which feature a round fluorescent bulb . . . these retail at prices from $14.95 up and are styled for traditional or modern interiors.

Plastic lamps are the newest for formal rooms . . . these are usually clear lucite, simple in design with satin or other luxurious fabric shade. These luxury gifts appeal to many and are perfect for your favorite hostess.

Plastic bed lamps are the other extreme appealing to customers who want inexpensive lamps.

TO MY MANY FRIENDS IN NORTH LOUISIANA

For the past two and a half years it has been my happy privilege to have been in charge of the United States army recruiting office here in Monroe. During these many busy months approximately two thousand splendid young men from this section have been enlisted in the regular army through the facilities of this local army recruiting station, and it is needless to state that the position which I have occupied during my tour of duty in this splendid city has been my pride and joy. Time does not permit me to thank each and everyone of you who have been so lovely to me. Truly, Monroe and its people are the most wonderful in the world, and I am grateful that I have had the opportunity to be a part of it.

No matter where I may be stationed during the rest of my army career, Monroe will always be home sweet home to me. We army people love Monroe. From the bottom of my heart I am grateful and appreciative to all of you who have been so considerate and cooperative with the United States army recruiting service. Thank you so much!

NEW COAT IDEAL FOR YOUNGSTERS

All-Weather Reversibles Are Popular Gifts Shown In Local Shops

If you want to make your daughter's eyes sparkle on Christmas morning—surprise her with a new coat. And because she'll wear it long after Christmas is over, it will keep her happy and well dressed for months to come. Prime favorite with the teen age girl is the bright plaid reversible coat with detachable hood. All-weather coats, these reversibles are treated for water-repellency on both the wool and cotton gabardine side. For the more sophisticated teen age miss, pick the cavalry twill boys' coat, fashioned just like her beau's. Smart for school as they are for "best," these coats have big welt seamed patch pockets, small change pocket, and small collar. For the younger girl, why not a bright plaid raincoat, umbrella and matching hat? These are wonderfully practical as well as being bright and Christmas-y. A simple super gift for wee tots as well as girls is the three-piece coat set. Consisting of fitted princess coat, matching bonet and zip closed leggings, these are Young America's favorites. Many of them are velvet trimmed or if you want to make your daughter feel extra-special, choose hers with fur collar and cuffs. One of the newest, most practical of these coat sets is the four-piece ensemble. Made of wool and corduroy, it includes a wool coat, corduroy coat—each with matching leggings. Thrifty mothers will like this ensemble too because it can be worn four different ways, as each piece can be interchanged with the other. The new smooth shouldered casual fleece wrap-around coat would make any girl happier on Christmas! Color plays an important part in these Christmas gift coats and you'll see lots of holly red, winter-green, rich blue, lots and lots of natural color coats. So to make good little happy girls this Christmas, we suggest a brand new coat! See them at your local stores today—they have the coat your daughter wants most!

FISH FRY

BASTROP, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Members of the Louisiana Power and Light company enjoyed a delicious fish fry at the Country Club lounge Monday night. All the employes of the local organization and the following guests from Monroe were present to spend a pleasant social evening together: O. A. Evans, Jack Haynes, Jack Wyatt, Homer Ross and George Rundall.

Accessory Gifts Always Please The Women Folks

Local Stores Offer Wide Choice Of Smart Wearable Accessories

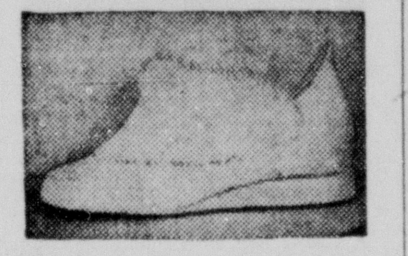
Christmas gifts of accessories compliment both the giver and the recipient, because the smart woman cannot have too many accessories; and the smart Christmas shopper makes the most of that knowledge.

Grandma used to say "you can judge a lady by her handkerchief"—and grandma was right, except that she should have used the plural. You can judge a lady by her handkerchiefs—dozens of them! There's no limit to the variety, and originality, of handkerchiefs to choose for gift-giving. Snowy white ones, with a touch of hand work, never go amiss—and the sheerer the better. Gay prints reflect the spirit of the season, and get applause from young and old. Nursery rhymes, embroidered animals, and similar whimsy are favorites with the small fry, and they even come in book form to make it more exciting. Generous size squares, in white or white-with-color, go over big with men who like their jacket pockets dressed up a bit—so there you have it.

Umbrellas to mend!—to mend frayed nerves and Christmas-shopping worries! Give an umbrella, in silk or cotton, colors or patterns, and pick a handle to smarten up the whole idea. There are malacca crooks, or silver-mounted gnarled woods for men's umbrellas with a well-bred look—crystal, hooks or metal mountings for ladies' umbrellas that will brighten the darkest day—and even leather or fur covered handles, for luxury—and much praise!

Scarves are warm well-wishers, and wonderful gift items for Christmas and the winter weather. Wools, whether crocheted or knit, have added prestige when they bear a "hand knit" label—and they're surprisingly low priced for hand work. These, of course, come in every imaginable color—for youngsters or for oldsters, and they're fun as well as forthright. Silk scarves, for day or evening, are gracious gifts for men, in either squares or made-up scarf lengths—and initials add an appreciated personal touch. Silk scarves for women offer a wide field for self-expression, and are colorful, versatile gifts that can be worn as scarves, neckerchiefs or head-dresses all year round.

Within four months after enlistment, United State navy recruits automatically receive a 70 per cent increase in pay and a promotion to a higher rating.



Nanook boudoir shoe in luscious pastels and white trim by Joyce of California.

Birds have the quickest eyes, being able to change their focus faster than any other creature.

CHRISTMAS IS TIME FOR GAMES AT HOME

Mothers, fathers, aunts, uncles and cousins usually participate at some time or other during the holidays in the games that sister and brother receive from Santa Claus and so we find the staple "bread and butter." Dominoes, checkers, anagrams, Chinese checkers, "Bingo" and "Parchesi" still good.

Boys and girls are exceptionally keen about baseball and football board games. An all star baseball game of this type features big league stars playing their own regular positions on the field. The game was designed by a former Giant baseball star.

Dart games, steady year round sellers in toy, adult game and sporting goods departments are exceptionally good at Christmas. These have appeal for young and old . . . many of them have double face with a baseball game on reverse side.

Among the old-time games which have been modernized is a fishing game with colored metal fish, fish poles with magnets and "frying pans."

Card games of all kinds make nice gifts and other old-time numbers are all available in adult game and toy departments.

A table top bowling game introduced early this year is a dollar number, which appeals to all those who want to "bowl" right on top of the bridge table.

"Treasure Hunt" is a favorite party game which comes attractively packaged.

LUGGAGE GIFTS ALWAYS POPULAR

Striped Canvas Luggage Featured At Popular Prices In Local Stores

No matter whether your Christmas budget is bursting with dollars, or already badly overstrained, you'll find a gift for everyone on your list in the luggage departments of the local stores.

Matched luggage sets are always welcome. In the inexpensive price group, you'll find hard-wearing striped canvas luggage in sizes varying from overnight cases to wardrobe trunks, reinforced at the necessary points with genuine saddle leather or cowhide. Two or three of these make a most imposing gift!

Also in the inexpensive price range is a new type of luggage, made of a material which appears to be rawhide, without the costliness of that rich leather! This new material can stand a terrific amount of abuse, which is certainly what we look for in luggage. You'll find nine sizes available, all priced to please.

For that great American institution travelling by automobile, the stores are showing new wedge shaped luggage designed to fit the luggage compartment of your car. This does away with waste space, and each piece is tapered to really fit.

Being scuffproof and roughproof, it makes it even more difficult to resist.

Heavy luggage can spoil most of the fun of traveling, so harken while we tell of the virtues of some new lightweight, streamlined canvas luggage. Aptly called "magic carpet bags," this trimly-styled luggage is bound with tan cowhide and is offered in navy, brown, or the smart new olive drab. A fine example of "modern design!"

What lovely lady's heart wouldn't quicken at the sight of one of the new handsomely fitted beauty cases! There's a gleaming glass or plastic container for every one of her beautifiers. You'll find them in a wide range of delectable colors, and in leathers real or simulated. Fine for the gals from 16 to 60!

For the boys in training, what could be more appropriate than the new "furlough" bag. This is really a two-in-one bag, with room for soiled clothing in a separate compartment underneath the regular packing area. An added feature is two oil-silk lined pockets for carrying toilet articles. Very slick, says we, and fine for dad, as well!

Little sister will behave beautifully when your beau comes to call if you tempt her with one of the shiny new steel carry-all for roller or ice skates. She can bang it, dent it, but she can't break it! And it certainly won't bruise your budget one bit!

He won't be in the dark for long if you give him one of the new folding utility kits. These are fitted with a razor that has an enclosed light, as well as every other necessity that the boys at camp can use. That should throw some light on the gift problem!

There's nothing better for the men on your gift list than a zipper sports bag. These are available in genuine seal leather and come in the popular 18-inch size. Plaid, rayon and cotton linings make things even more cheerful.

What every woman wants—this 4-piece matching set in floral bouquet print Tissue-spun. Quilted mandarin jacket, 2-piece tailored pajamas, shirtwaist top nightgown and matching quilted bedjacket. All from A. Barsa & Sons, Inc.

SWEATERS FOR EVERY OCCASION AVAILABLE

If you're up the proverbial tree about what to give your mother, your sister, your cousin or your aunt for Christmas—say it with sweaters! And no matter what their taste, you'll find exactly the sweater they want most at your local stores. Newest for the sportsminded girl is the Argyle plaid sweater with V-neckline (she'll wear it smartly with her dickey!), or this same style in solid color. Peasant embroidered sweaters in pullover and cardigan styles are prime favorites for daytime as well as winter sports wear. Wonderfully bright, they have gay peasantype embroidered accents, pompoms silver colored metal buttons. Classic twin sweaters in new longer lengths are sure to please gifts. Fashion news is noted in ribbed shoulder yokes, deep ribbed cuffs and grosgrain bound cardigrans. We noted a marvelous coat sweater—the kind we know would make a perfect gift for mother. In the new longer length, it's lightweight yet warm, has flattering V-neckline and button front closing. For the college and teen age girl as well as the career girl, we suggest one of the new brushed wool sweaters. Heavenly in white and the new soft pastels, pretty for dancing.

Sweaters make fashion news for evening this year, so why not a sparkling sweater for the glamour girls on your list? Newest, most spohisticated of all is the zip-closed long torso sweater with all-over sequin or nailhead trim.

WARM UNDERWEAR MAKES WARM GIFT

There's a warm feeling for warm undies these chilly days, and even the best-dressed gal on your Christmas list will go rapturous, if you give her some of the fine "woolies" available in smart shops. They're fine as silk, light as a feather, and warm as toast—in fine wool, sometimes mixed with fibrous yarns and streamlined to modern specifications.

For the sports addict, there's an endless variety of sturdy, warm undearwear that is a downright necessity for even a mediocre of comfort. And don't overlook the red flannels in this group, either—they're fun and pretty wonderful heat-preservers. Any bright young thing will be very grateful for a gift of really fine "all wool and a yard wide" undies for active sportswear.

Nightgown, blessed with long sleeves, and room to wrap up in, are desirable gifts for women of all ages—they are no longer labeled "old-fashioned," and surely they don't look it! Lightweight flannels are pretty marvelous, and the colors are a particular joy. Fine gauge wool knits that take to tucks, shirring and gathers as cheerfully as silk or cotton, are practically luxury items——and would be highly prized as a most distinctive, thoughtful gift for any woman who delights in cuddly, feather-light wool confections.

So do let someone "pull the wool over your eyes" when you do your Christmas shopping, and win yourself a round of applause by giving warm undies as gifts for the family—little sister, great-granny and everyone in-between. They will be warmly welcomed!

'LITTLE' CHRISTMAS IS BIG, AFTER ALL

For those "little" gifts, and to please fussy Great-Aunt Matilda, why not a token of leather? The stores are simply bursting with new items that would gladden the heart of every friend and relative.

Zipped leather travel clocks in alligator, morocco or handsome ostrich grains are a welcome idea for the inveterate traveller. A nice touch is to have the recipient's name or initials stamped in gold leaf on the lid. Perhaps as a reminder that time is golden?

Since it's "papa who pays" it's a wise child who remembers him handsomely on Christmas day. "Life with Father" will be easier if you give him a new leather billfold. These have a compartment for just about everything, not to forget a "secret" one, just for fun!

If the man of your life is a "big business" tycoon, or even a struggling, "up-and-coming," he'd appreciate a zipped brief case. These fairly bristle with importance, and have loads of inside pockets, plus metal re-inforced corners for longer wear.

A Lewis bag with matching change purse in draped broadcloth with clear-as-crystal Lucite frame.

FURS FOR 'SOMEONE' CERTAIN TO PLEASE

Furs take first place as the very special Christmas gift for that "very special" person. A gift of a fur coat has lasting beauty, and is a lasting remembrance. It is not necessary to spend a great deal to bestow this particularly glamorous gift of furs. Seal dyed coney, mouton lamb, Persian paw, and leopard cat are just a few of the inexpensive furs that wear well, look well, and give continuous joy to the wearer. Coats in these furs offer a choice for a wide range of types and ages, and better shops are most willing to make helpful suggestions, and offer reliable guidance.

Precious furs, of course, make "precious" gifts indeed. For instance, a silver fox jacket for the debutante daughter, a Persian lamb for wife or mother. Processed lambs are guaranteed to put a sparkle in the most jaded feminine eye. Furs are no longer the luxury they used to be. Stores are offering a wide range of styles at popular budget prices. Easy terms make a fur coat purchase hard to resist.

'Birth Of The Blues' Opens Today At The Paramount

Colorful New Orleans days whe[illegible] and jazz was fighting for recognition is reborn in the "Birth of the Blues," opening today on the Paramount screen for a three-day engagement. Bing Crosby, Mary Martin and Brian Donlevy are the co-stars in this filmusical, with little Carolyn Lee, J. Carrol Naish and "Rochester" in the supporting cast. Songs presented include "Tiger Rag," "My Melancholy Baby," "St. Louis Blues," "Cuddle Up a Little Closer" and "Wait 'Til the Sun Shines, Nellie."

It's "The Night of January 16th," and Robert Preston and Ellen Drew supply laughs and thrills in this love-and-murder thriller, playing Saturday at the Paramount. The story of murder for one person, romance for two and thrills for all gives Nils Asther, Clarence Kolb, Cliff Nazarro and Margaret Hayes a splendid opportunity to prove they're master entertainers.

50 BRAZILIANS WILL VISIT LOUISIANA

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 29.—(Special)—Fifty students and professors from Piracicaba Agricultural College, Sao Paulo, Brazil, will visit Louisiana State University and its college of agriculture December 5-8 during a month's tour of the United States agricultural institutions. They also will visit the agricultural stations at Houma and Crowley, Loyola and Tulane Universities in New Orleans, and the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

Latin American students at the university, including S. C. Arruda of Sao Paulo, Brazil, who was sent to L. S. U. by the Brazilian government to do graduate study in agriculture this year, will assist in entertaining the visitors while they are at the university. Dr. Henry Barker of the bureau of plant industry will accompany the group on its tour.

VETERAN BASTROP NURSE TO GO TO LITTLE ROCK

BASTROP, Nov. 29.—(Special)—Miss Maida Grissette who has served as superintendent of the Bastrop General hospital in Bastrop for the past 10 years has resigned to accept a position in Little Rock, Ark.

Miss Grissette served five years here, being then called to El Dorado, Ark., where she spent one year as superintendent in the Rosamond hospital before she was called back to Bastrop by the city council, hospital and doctor's staff. Before coming to Bastrop she was superintendent of nurses in the Baptist hospital and the Missouri Pacific hospital, Little Rock, Ark.

Crosby And Martin Top Film's Cast

Brian Donlevy, Carolyn Lee And Rochester Also Stars Of Picture

THAT historic, happy time in American music when the scent of lavendar was crowded out by the hot, peppery swing of blues rhythms forms the dynamic and melodic background of "Birth of the Blues," Paramount's tribute to a form of music that America took to its heart and promptly sent to its feet.

The melodic newcomer, whose cast scintillates with such stars as Bing Crosby, Mary Martin, Brian Donlevy, Carolyn Lee, Jack Teagarden and his band, opens today at the Paramount theater, after being heralded by preview critics as a masterpiece among film musicals.

Directed by Victor Schertzinger, who had previously shown his directional mettle with such successes as "Road to Singapore" and "Road to Zanizar," two previous Bing Crosby starrers, "Birth of the Blues" sends out with a raft of fifteen song numbers, including one new one, the already-popular, "The Waiter and the Porter and the Upstairs Maid." In this chronicle of how the first white bands took those blue melodies born on the levees and the plantations and hurled them across the nation through the scalding-hot saxes, the clarinets and the throbbing trombones, Paramount has hit on a subject that's surefire for screen entertainment.

With a cast as important as the one in "Birth of the Blues," it is practically a foregone conclusion that this wonderful music is going to receive full justice. And there'll be plenty of free and easy fun between tunes. After all, it's got Bing Crosby and Mary Martin at the head of the cast!

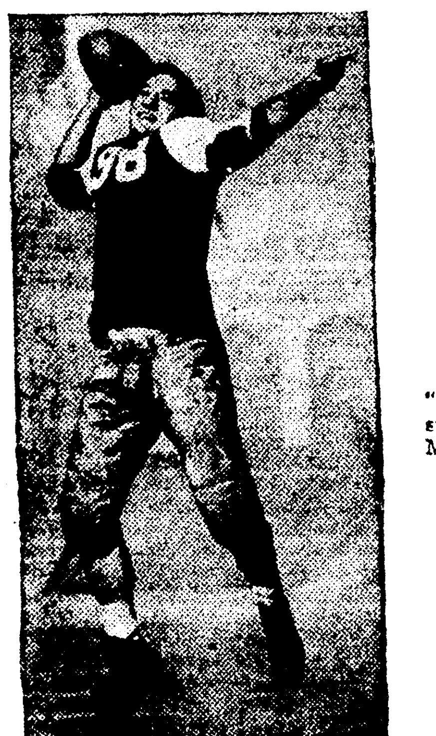
Some of the songs heard in "Birth of the Blues" are those classical blues favorites, "St. Louis Blues,," "Memphis Blues,," "Birth Of The Blues," "St. James Infirmary Blues" and "At a Georgia Camp Meeting." Among the other long-lasting melodic delights, sung and played in that ol' Dixieland jazz style, are "Melancholy Baby," "Shine," "Cuddle Up a Little Closer, Lovey Mine" and "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie."

In the picture, Bing Crosby, as a clarinetist and singer, is an orchestra leader who forms a band and pioneers in popularizing blues music. Jack Teagarden, who is conceded to be the hottest trombonist in the country, is his pal, who helps him round up the most talented instrumentalists in New Orleans, birthplace of the blues music. Brian Donlevy plays the part of a torrid trumpet player. Little Carolyn Lee, who scored heavily in "Honeymoon in Bali" and "Virginia," is Mary Martin's tiny singing and dancing niece.

With this wealth of talent, under the direction of Victor Schertzinger, great things can't fail to happen. We sense a real hit in "Birth of the Blues"!

Joan Fontaine, whose latest hit shows her co-starring with Cary Grant, again plays the devoted young wife whose marital happiness is imperilled by her husband's actions. "Suspicion," starting Wednesday for a three-day showing at the Paramount is a dramatic, subtle, tense and worthy successor to "Rebecca," which was Miss Fontaine's last starring vehicle. Mystery and romance, unfolded in a startling new manner, forms the basis for the picture.

At last, the much-talked-of and widely heralded "Sergeant York," starring Gary Cooper and featuring Joan Leslie and Walter Brennan, comes to the Paramount this Saturday for the gala midnight preview. Based on the true life story of the real Sergeant Alvin York, Gary Cooper presents a portrayal that made the living Sergeant York approve most heartily and without any reservation this story of World War I.



Tom Harmon, Michigan's sensation, in his first film appearance, "Harmon of Michigan," proves himself a serious contender for screen honors—just as on the field. Co-starred with Anita Louise, Tom has his great team-mate, Forest Evashevski, run interference for him. A great football romance playing Wednesday at the Capitol.

'Manpower' Here Today At Capitol

Edward G. Robinson, Marlene Dietrich, George Raft Head Cast

FILMDOM'S most dynamic threesome are starred in Warner Bros.' exciting film, "Manpower," which makes its local bow today at the Capitol theater. The unbeatable star combination which heads the cast is Edward G. Robinson, Marlene Dietrich and George Raft. You can imagine the action, and excitement that sweeps through the film when those three get together!

Robinson and Raft play the roles of a couple of robust linemen whose dangerous job it is to repair broken high tension wires. They are great pals, sharing each other's happiness and trouble, until a de-lucious blonde, played by alluring Marlene Dietrich, comes along. Hard, cold and calculating, she suspects Robinson of having ulterior motives when he showers her with gifts and shows his affection in many ways. But Robinson is sincere. He has never known the love of a woman and Dietrich becomes his ideal.

Raft sees her for what she is and tells Robinson to forget about her. He says that she has gold-digger's blood in her veins and will bring nothing but trouble to Robinson. Raft goes still further. He asks Dietrich to drop Robinson. That sends her into a rage and she accepts Robinson's marriage proposal partly because she feels sorry for him and partly to spite the embittered Raft.

But a marriage built on spite and pity is bound to have disastrous results. Try as she may, Dietrich can't get used to Robinson's well-meaning, but clumsy ways. And to make things worse, she falls head-over-heels for Raft!

What a setup! The pent-up emotions of those three characters run through their hearts with the power of a high-voltage cable . . . Robinson idolizing Dietrich . . . Raft, at first contemptuous of her, later fascinating by her confession of love for him . . . Dietrich, nearly driven to madness with her pretended love for Robinson, having to listen to him continually praise the man she really loves. It's a situation loaded with T.N.T., and it explodes in the high-powered climax.

Alan Hale and Frank McHugh supply plenty of laughs in "Manpower" as two practical jokers who don't lose their sense of humor in the face of danger. Other players in the supporting cast are Walter Catlett, Eve Arden and Barbara Pepper.

Raoul Walsh who has directed many an action-packed film hit was in familiar territory on his "Manpower" assignment, which is an original screenplay written by two of Hollywood's most talented scenarists, who wrote the script for "Torrid Zone," Richard Macaulay and Jerry Wald.

IT FELT LIKE SUNDAY

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(AP)—It was Saturday morning. The church bell tolled loud and long. Lafayette's volunteer fire department raced to the church. Men dropped their work and hurried to the scene. The streets buzzed with automobiles, bicycles and other vehicles. At the church, where the people thought they were summoned by a fire alarm, they found only Walter Cate, church janitor. He thought it was Sunday.

TO MY MANY FRIENDS IN NORTH LOUISIANA

For the past two and a half years it has been my happy privilege to have been in charge of the United States army recruiting office here in Monroe. During these many busy months approximately two thousand splendid young men from this section have been enlisted in the regular army through the facilities of this local army recruiting station, and it is needless to state that the position which I have occupied during my tour of duty in this splendid city has been my pride and joy. Time does not permit me to thank each and everyone of you who have been so lovely to me. Truly, Monroe and its people are the most wonderful in the world, and I am grateful that I have had the opportunity to be a part of it.

No matter where I may be stationed during the rest of my army career, Monroe will always be home sweet home to me. We army people love Monroe. From the bottom of my heart I am grateful and appreciative to all of you who have been so considerate and cooperative with the United States army recruiting service. Thank you so much!

ACCESSORIES FOR MEN ARE POPULAR

Shirts, Ties, Robes And Pajamas Are Certain To Please The Men

Take our word for it, ladies! Men, too, like smart coordinated accessories that jibe together. So for the men in your life, including your beau, big brother and your Dad—say Merry Christmas this year with matched accessories. They'll mean it when they thank you for them! For instance, a harmonized set consisting of shirt, tie and hose, the latter wool ribbed the way most men like them, makes a welcome gift. Satisfying as a bright Yule log are cherry pajamas in striped broadcloth. Notched collars are convertible to meet his needs. And men say they like variety! We say give it to them for Christmas in colorbright pajamas. Or if you would strike his weak spot, suprise him with gay triple striped suspenders and matching tie. These are featured in a variety of well coordinated colors in many different textured weaves. Or tuck some socks in his Christmas sock—he can't have too many. In bright hued combinations with overplaids or soft solid colors, they are nice little "extra" gifts. If he goes in for golf or is smooth at winter sports, you'll break par with a wind and rain resistant golf or ski jacket. Or if he likes to lounge around the house, a loafer jacket would be in order. For and after Christmas a suede jacket is something he'd really like.

Really fine handkerchiefs are something that all men like and appreciate receiving—they're the one gift that's absolutely sure never to be tucked away and forgotten about. And they like their handkerchiefs monogrammed, besides which it makes your gift so much more personal—makes his gift just for "him." As for your favorite man-of-the-moment, hand-fringed silk muffler made especially "his" with his monogram makes yours the elegant gift.

Exquisite Lingerie First Choice For Christmas Gift

Black Lingerie, New Midriff Gowns, Bedjackets Slips Popular

Nothing makes quite so exciting a Christmas present as lingerie. It's the one thing a woman never tires of . . . can never have enough of! Designed to bring forth "Oh's" and "Ah's" when the packages are opened Christmas morning are the enchanting night fashions at Vanity Fair. Sculptured in jersey, the new pretties run the gamut from the flowing folds of Grecian drapery to the ruffles and ribbons of the mid-Victorians . . . all streamlined for comfortable, practical sleeping.

Newest and most exciting of all is black . . . ideal because it's the color almost every woman longs for and seldom buys herself. (And that, you know, is the real test of the perfect gift.) Too, black is very high fashion this year . . . and the slips make a wonderful base for the black dresses that have become almost a winter uniform. True "black magic" is the Vanity Fair slip with a wide border of lace banding the hemline and the deep V top. Another we liked had a midriff and ruffle of net . . . still another was lavishly embroidered with eyelets.

Very glamorous indeed are the "evening gowns" which go to bed . . . so exquisitely designed they could "do the town" with perfect aplomb. One beautifully draped gown has an elongated waistline, a slim silhouette . . . skillfully achieved by shirring to a long front panel. Another has tiny cap sleeves, a diamond-shaped open midriff. And for those with a flair for the dramatic, choose the Harlequin gown. Made of sheerest black jersey with a fine openwork pattern, it's fitted to the knees . . . then flairs out with startling insets of white jersey.

There is a good deal of purest white in the collection . . . another feminine weakness. And for the practical-minded, it's nice to realize that because these Vanity Fair delectables are rayon, they'll stay white long after Christmas . . . never turn yellow under the ravages of time and laundress. Particularly appealing is a five-piece set embroidered with clean-cut eyelets. The set includes slips, panties, bedjacket, nightgown and robe . . . snowy white, lavishly sprinkled with the romantic embroidery. And any one of the pieces would make a very special present.

For a luxury-loving lady, we suggest a pretty little frou-frou bedjacket. Of soft, smooth jersey in palest pink, it's bordered with fluffy marabou at the collar and the wide sleeves. Just right to discourage drafts for readers-in-bed . . . beguiling as anything over a breakfast tray. Equally lush is a ruffled petticoat. The ruffle is made of fine net, edged with lace and banded at top with narrow satin ribbon . . . wonderfully feminine, a trifle flirtatious.

We have a number of suggestions, too, for the feminine-without-frills lady. One is a tailored robe with graceful scroll quilting on sleeves, lapels and sash. No floating furbelows mar the comfort of tailored lines, yet the quilting adds a prettifying touch. An ideal gown is sleekly fitted, trimmed with a V of gleaming milanalse at the neck. There's a matching slip, too . . . so you can make a set if you're very much in the spirit of Christmas.

According to Yolande, well known designer of hand-made underthings, Christmas 1941 lingerie will be more feminine and more luxurious than ever before. "Rare laces, sumptuous fabrics, flattering siren-slim lines, will distinguish the slips and gowns that Mrs. and Miss America will wear," she says. "Of laces, rare Alencon is still first choice, but the binches and Vals have a new, fresh look that portends an increasing demand for them." "For traveling and lounging around the house, pajamas and matching robes are included in every modern woman's lingerie wardrobe," Yolande concludes.

American Made Electrical Gifts Perfect For Homes

Dual Automatic Toasters, Electric Coffee Makers Are Popular

Because electrical gifts are "Made in America" gifts they have more appeal this year than ever and are sure to be appreciated by every member of the family who uses them.

Christmas season entertaining takes on added zeal when the correct services for hospitality are available in the home.

Among the most popular gifts of chromium are toasters—a new "Dual Automatic" type is featured this year . . . this regulates the color and degree of crispness of the toast. . . . Another new type has a dial control which pops up toast automatically and in addition, one slice may be removed without disturbing the other.

Coffee makers of all kinds are always good gift items separate or in complete sets with serving trays . . . glass coffee makers complete with electric stove are very popular gift items, those which have a glass filter rod are most popular, but all are efficient and work quickly to produce clear full flavored coffee.

Electric table broilers are luxury items for many people but really necessities for those who get used to cooking at the table with little effort . . . Many good styles at prices ranging from as low as $6.00.

Waffle irons, single or double, round or square shapes are perennial Christmas gifts for the home . . . these are often offered in sets with a batter pitcher, syrup jug and servers.

HANDBAGS TO MAKE IDEAL XMAS GIFTS

There's a Merry Christmas "in the bag" when the giver remembers handbags, for young and old.

There are plushy little bags, in muff or animal shapes, for the little miss who found pennies in the toe of her stocking, and needs a purse for her wealth. Other "little girl" delights are miniatures of grown-up handbags, complete with slide fasteners, and pocket mirrors, in either fabric or leather.

For old sister, there are plaids and pigskins, wools, and wonders in smooth leathers that borrow their colors from Christmas itself—holly red and brightest green.

Grown-up gift lists, for sister, mother, aunt or sweetheart, can be checked off with a minimum of fuss and worry, at any smart handbag counter. Muff bags in fur fabrics, or coating fabric trimmed with fur, are a welcome gift for most any woman. Leather bags, with multiple-compartments, and a generous sprinkling of zipper pockets, are a delight to older wom[en] —particularly those who take the[ir] budgeting seriously. And for light[er] moments, the assortment of eveni[ng] bags is dazzling, and quite the a[n]swer for her gift—in glitter versio[ns] of rhinestones or sequins; and love[ly] heirloom types in tapestry or metal[lic] fabrics.

MONROE, LOUISIANA, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1941

'Birth Of The Blues' Opens Today At The Paramount

Colorful New Orleans days wher[illegible]land jazz was fighting for recognition is reborn in the "Birth of the Blues," opening today on the Paramount screen for a three-day engagement. Bing Crosby, Mary Martin and Brian Donlevy are the co-stars in this filmusical, with little Carolyn Lee, J. Carrol Naish and "Rochester" in the supporting cast. Songs presented include "Tiger Rag," "My Melancholy Baby," "St. Louis Blues," "Cuddle Up a Little Closer" and "Wait 'Til the Sun Shines, Nellie."

Joan Fontaine, whose latest hit shows her co-starring with Cary Grant, again plays the devoted young wife whose marital happiness is imperilled by her husband's actions. "Suspicion," starting Wednesday for a three-day showing at the Paramount is a dramatic, subtle, tense and worthy successor to "Rebecca," which was Miss Fontaine's last starring vehicle. Mystery and romance, unfolded in a startling new manner, forms the basis for the picture.

"Manpower," playing today only at the Capitol, brings together three great stars, Edward G. Robinson, Marlene Dietrich and George Raft, in a picture that is packed with punches that land square on the chin and heart.

It's "The Night of January 16th," and Robert Preston and Ellen Drew supply laughs and thrills in this love-and-murder thriller, playing Saturday at the Paramount. The story of murder for one person, romance for two and thrills for all gives Nils Asther, Clarence Kolb, Cliff Nazarro and Margaret Hayes a splendid opportunity to prove they're master entertainers.

Crosby And Martin Top Film's Cast

Brian Donlevy, Carolyn Lee And Rochester Also Stars Of Picture

THAT historic, happy time in American music when the scent of lavendar was crowded out by the hot, peppery swing of blues rhythms forms the dynamic and melodic background of "Birth of the Blues," Paramount's tribute to a form of music that America took to its heart and promptly sent to its feet.

The melodic newcomer, whose cast scintillates with such stars as Bing Crosby, Mary Martin, Brian Donlevy, Carolyn Lee, Jack Teagarden and his band, opens today at the Paramount theater, after being heralded by preview critics as a masterpiece among film musicals.

Directed by Victor Schertzinger, who had previously shown his directional meetle with such successes as "Road to Singapore" and "Road to Zanizar," two previous Bing Crosby starrers, "Birth of the Blues" sends out with a raft of fifteen song numbers, including one new one, the already-popular, "The Waiter and the Porter and the Upstairs Maid." In this chronicle of how the first white bands took those blue melodies born on the levees and the plantations and hurled them across the nation through the scalding-hot saxes, the clarinets and the throbbing trombones, Paramount has hit on a subject that's surefire for screen entertainment.

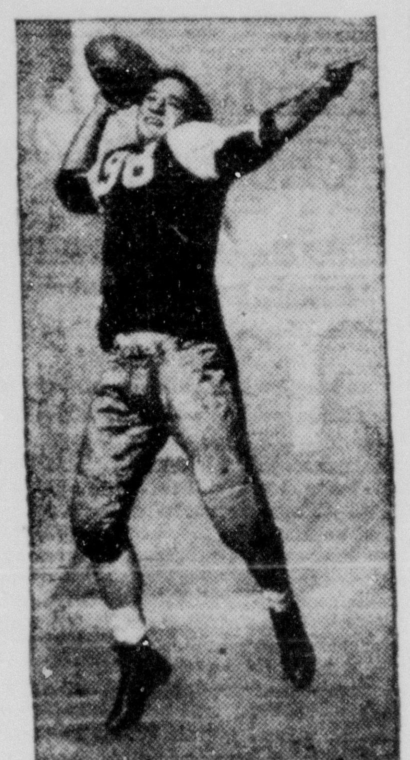
With a cast as important as the one in "Birth of the Blues," it is practically a foregone conclusion that this wonderful music is going to receive full justice. And there'll be plenty of free and easy fun between tunes. After all, it's got Bing Crosby and Mary Martin at the head of the cast!

Some of the songs heard in "Birth of the Blues" are those classical blues favorites, "St. Louis Blues,," "Memphis Blues,," "Birth Of The Blues," "St. James Infirmary Blues" and "At a Georgia Camp Meeting." Among the other long-lasting melodic delights, sung and played in that ol' Dixieland jazz style, are "Melancholy Baby," "Shine," "Cuddle Up a Little Closer, Lovey Mine" and "Wait Till the Sun Shines, Nellie."

In the picture, Bing Crosby, as a clarinetist and singer, is an orchestra leader who forms a band and pioneers in popularizing blues music. Jack Teagarden, who is conceded to be the hottest trombonist in the country, is his pal, who helps him round up the most talented instrumentalists in New Orleans, birthplace of the blues music. Brian Donlevy plays the part of a torrid trumpet player. Little Carolyn Lee, who scored heavily in "Honeymoon in Bali" and "Virginia," is Mary Martin's tiny singing and dancing niece.

With this wealth of talent, under the direction of Victor Schertzinger, great things can't fail to happen. We sense a real hit in "Birth of the Blues"!

At last, the much-talked-of and widely heralded "Sergeant York," starring Gary Cooper and featuring Joan Leslie and Walter Brennan, comes to the Paramount this Saturday for the gala midnight preview. Based on the true life story of the real Sergeant Alvin York, Gary Cooper presents a portrayal that made the living Sergeant York approve most heartily and without any reservation this story of World War I.



Tom Harmon, Michigan's sensation, in his first film appearance, "Harmon of Michigan," proves himself a serious contender for screen honors—just as on the field. Co-starred with Anita Louise, Tom has his great team-mate, Forest Evashevski, run interference for him. A great football romance playing Wednesday at the Capitol.

"Hold Back the Dawn," magnificent love romance of the border, and starring Olivia de Havilland, Charles Boyer and Paulette Goddard, plays Monday and Tuesday on the Capitol screen. Walter Abel, as the border inspector, turns in a memorable performance.

High speed hilarity with no limits on laughs, plays the Capitol screen Thursday with Lynn Bari, Alan Curtis, Sheila Ryan and Don de Forest doing nip-ups in "We Go Fast," a romance with coffee pot cuties and speed demon debs.

"It's molder! What a dame can do to a guy," says Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom, the professional dumb kluck, in "The Stork Pays Off," co-starring Rochelle Hudson, Victor Jory and Horace MacMahon Friday at the Capitol.

"Stick 'em up," says Tom Keene, star of "Dynamite Canyon," playing Saturday at the Capitol, and the desperadoes know their game is up when a two-fisted Arizona ranger swings into action. Featuring "Rusty," the wonder horse.

'Manpower' Here Today At Capitol

FILMDOM'S most dynamic threesome are starred in Warner Bros.' exciting film, "Manpower," which makes its local bow today at the Capitol theater. The unbeatable star combination which heads the cast is Edward G. Robinson, Marlene Dietrich and George Raft. You can imagine the action, and excitement that sweeps through the film when those three get together!

Robinson and Raft play the roles of a couple of robust linemen whose dangerous job it is to repair broken high tension wires. They are great pals, sharing each other's happiness and trouble, until a de-lucious blonde, played by alluring Marlene Dietrich, comes along. Hard, cold and calculating, she suspects Robinson of having ulterior motives when he showers her with gifts and shows his affection in many ways. But Robinson is sincere. He has never known the love of a woman and Dietrich becomes his ideal.

Raft sees her for what she is and tells Robinson to forget about her. He says that she has gold-digger's blood in her veins and will bring nothing but trouble to Robinson. Raft goes still further. He asks Dietrich to drop Robinson. That sends her into a rage and she accepts Robinson's marriage proposal partly because she feels sorry for him and partly to spite the embittered Raft.

But a marriage built on spite and pity is bound to have disastrous results. Try as she may, Dietrich can't get used to Robinson's well-meaning, but clumsy ways. And to make things worse, she falls head-over-heels for Raft!

What a setup! The pent-up emotions of those three characters run through their hearts with the power of a high-voltage cable . . . Robinson idolizing Dietrich . . . Raft, at first contemptuous of her, later fascinating by her confession of love for him . . . Dietrich, nearly driven to madness with her pretended love for Robinson, having to listen to him continually praise the man she really loves. It's a situation loaded with T.N.T., and it explodes in the high-powered climax.

Alan Hale and Frank McHugh supply plenty of laughs in "Manpower" as two practical jokers who don't lose their sense of humor in the face of danger. Other players in the supporting cast are Walter Catlett, Eve Arden and Barbara Pepper.

Raoul Walsh who has directed many an action-packed film hit was in familiar territory on his "Manpower" assignment, which is an original screenplay written by two of Hollywood's most talented scenarists, who wrote the script for "Torrid Zone," Richard Macaulay and Jerry Wald.

ACCESSORIES FOR MEN ARE POPULAR

Shirts, Ties, Robes And Pajamas Are Certain To Please The Men

Take our word for it, ladies! Men, too, like smart coordinated accessories that jibe together. So for the men in your life, including your beau, big brother and your Dad—say Merry Christmas this year with matched accessories. They'll mean it when they thank you for them! For instance, a harmonized set consisting of shirt, tie and hose, the latter wool ribbed the way most men like them, makes a welcome gift. Satisfying as a bright Yule log are cherry pajamas in striped broadcloth. Notched collars are convertible to meet his needs. And men say they like variety! We say give it to them for Christmas in colorbright pajamas. Or if you would strike his weak spot, suprise him with gay triple striped suspenders and matching tie. These are featured in a variety of well coordinated colors in many different textured weaves. Or tuck some socks in his Christmas sock—he can't have too many. In bright hued combinations with overplaids or soft solid colors, they are nice little "extra" gifts. If he goes in for golf or is smooth at winter sports, you'll break par with a wind and rain resistant golf or ski jacket. Or if he likes to lounge around the house, a loafer jacket would be in order. For and after Christmas a suede jacket is something he'd really like.

Really fine handkerchiefs are something that all men like and appreciate receiving—they're the one gift that's absolutely sure never to be tucked away and forgotten about. And they like their handkerchiefs monogrammed, besides which it makes your gift so much more personal—makes his gift just for "him." As for your favorite man-of-the-moment, hand-fringed silk muffler made especially "his" with his monogram makes yours the elegant gift.

Nothing makes quite so exciting a Christmas present as lingerie. It's the one thing a woman never tires of . . . can never have enough of! Designed to bring forth "Oh's" and "Ah's" when the packages are opened Christmas morning are the enchanting night fashions at Vanity Fair. Sculptured in jersey, the new pretties run the gamut from the flowing folds of Grecian drapery to the ruffles and ribbons of the mid-Victorians . . . all streamlined for comfortable, practical sleeping.

Newest and most exciting of all is black . . . ideal because it's the color almost every woman longs for and seldom buys herself. (And that, you know, is the real test of the perfect gift.) Too, black is very high fashion this year . . . and the slips make a wonderful base for the black dresses that have become almost a winter uniform. True "black magic" is the Vanity Fair slip with a wide border of lace banding the hemline and the deep V top. Another we liked had a midriff and ruffle of net . . . still another was lavishly embroidered with eyelets.

Very glamorous indeed are the "evening gowns" which go to bed . . . so exquisitely designed they could "do the town" with perfect aplomb. One beautifully draped gown has an elongated waistline, a slim silhouette . . . skillfully achieved by shirring to a long front panel. Another has tiny cap sleeves, a diamond-shaped open midriff. And for those with a flair for the dramatic, choose the Harlequin gown. Made of sheerest black jersey with a fine openwork pattern, it's fitted to the knees . . . then flairs out with startling insets of white jersey.

There is a good deal of purest white in the collection . . . another feminine weakness. And for the practical-minded, it's nice to realize that because these Vanity Fair delectables are rayon, they'll stay white long after Christmas . . . never turn yellow under the ravages of time and laundress. Particularly appealing is a five-piece set embroidered with clean-cut eyelets. The set includes slips, panties, bedjacket, nightgown and robe . . . snowy white, lavishly sprinkled with the romantic embroidery. And any one of the pieces would make a very special present.

For a luxury-loving lady, we suggest a pretty little frou-frou bedjacket. Of soft, smooth jersey in palest pink, it's bordered with fluffy marabou at the collar and the wide sleeves. Just right to discourage drafts for readers-in-bed . . . beguiling as anything over a breakfast tray. Equally lush is a ruffled petticoat. The ruffle is made of fine net, edged with lace and banded at top with narrow satin ribbon . . . wonderfully feminine, a trifle flirtatious.

We have a number of suggestions, too, for the feminine-without-frills lady. One is a tailored robe with graceful scroll quilting on sleeves, lapels and sash. No floating furbelows mar the comfort of tailored lines, yet the quilting adds a prettifying touch. An ideal gown is sleekly fitted, trimmed with a V of gleaming milanaise at the neck. There's a matching slip, too . . . so you can make a set if you're very much in the spirit of Christmas.

According to Yolande, well known designer of hand-made underthings, Christmas 1941 lingerie will be more feminine and more luxurious than ever before. "Rare laces, sumptuous fabrics, flattering siren-slim lines, will distinguish the slips and gowns that Mrs. and Miss America will wear," she says. "Of laces, rare Alencon is still first choice, but the binches and Vals have a new, fresh look that portends an increasing demand for them." "For traveling and lounging around the house, pajamas and matching robes are included in every modern woman's lingerie wardrobe," Yolande concludes.

American Made Electrical Gifts Perfect For Homes

Dual Automatic Toasters, Electric Coffee Makers Are Popular

Because electrical gifts are "Made in America" gifts they have more appeal this year than ever and are sure to be appreciated by every member of the family who uses them.

Christmas season entertaining takes on added zeal when the correct services for hospitality are available in the home.

Among the most popular gifts of chromium are toasters—a new "Dual Automatic" type is featured this year . . . this regulates the color and degree of crispness of the toast. . . . Another new type has a dial control which pops up toast automatically and in addition, one slice may be removed without disturbing the other.

Coffee makers of all kinds are always good gift items separate or in complete sets with serving trays . . . glass coffee makers complete with electric stove are very popular gift items, those which have a glass filter rod are most popular, but all are efficient and work quickly to produce clear full flavored coffee.

Electric table broilers are luxury items for many people but really necessities for those who get used to cooking at the table with little effort . . . Many good styles at prices ranging from as low as $6.00.

Waffle irons, single or double, round or square shapes are perennial Christmas gifts for the home . . . these are often offered in sets with a batter pitcher, syrup jug and servers.

Electric irons are useful gifts for the women members of the family . . . light weight travel irons for the young business woman or one who travels often . . . heavy automatic types for the housewife woh wants to lighten her work. A folding iron which weighs less than two pounds has a plastic handle and is equipped with a slide fastened traveling case . . . a new automatic iron has an air-cooled feature and is equipped with dual sole plate for flatwork, tucks, ruffles and corners, the iron also has a handle convenient for a left or right-handed person.

Steam irons which are fully automatic for dry and steam ironing are again best sellers and a pleasure to use on wool, rayon or cotton.

Labor-saving devices such as vacuum cleaners, electric washers and ironers are often presented as family gifts to the home and are promoted as such in most electrical departments.

Electric refrigerators make marvelous family gifts at Christmas time. . . . Sometimes an old electric refrigerator is timely replaced at Christmas time.

Sun lamps and electric Vibrators are often presented as luxury gifts to the older members of the family or to convalescents and of course there is the electric blanket, which has long been a luxury gift item which sells steadily at a price just under $50. Electric heating pads are classed as necessities.

HANDBAGS TO MAKE IDEAL XMAS GIFTS

There's a Merry Christmas "in the bag" when the giver remembers handbags, for young and old.

There are plushy little bags, in muff or animal shapes, for the little miss who found pennies in the toe of her stocking, and needs a purse for her wealth. Other "little girl" delights are miniatures of grown-up handbags, complete with slide fasteners, and pocket mirrors, in either fabric or leather.

For old sister, there are plaids and pigskins, wools, and wonders in smooth leathers that borrow their colors from Christmas itself—holly red and brightest green.

Grown-up gift lists, for sister, mother, aunt or sweetheart, can be checked off with a minimum of fuss and worry, at any smart handbag counter. Muff bags in fur fabrics, or coating fabric trimmed with fur, are a welcome gift for most any woman. Leather bags, with multiple-compartments, and a generous sprinkling of zipper pockets, are a delight to older women—particularly those who take their budgeting seriously. And for lighter moments, the assortment of evening bags is dazzling, and quite the answer for her gift—in glitter versions of rhinestones or sequins; and lovely heirloom types in tapestry or metallic fabrics.

I THOUGHT YOU WAS GONNA GIVE MR. TOEHOLD ANOTHER DEMONSTRATION IN THAT SECOND-HAND PILE OF JUNK OF YOURS TO-DAY, UNCLE WILLIE.
WELL, I FIGURED, KAYO, THAT I'D STAND A BETTER CHANCT OF SELLING IT TO HIM AT NIGHT.
THE CAR DON'T LOOK SO DINGY AFTER DARK.
OH
I MUST ADMIT, MULLINS, THAT THIS JOB HAS A VERY SMOOTH RUNNING MOTOR—I CAN'T EVEN HEAR IT.
WELL, IT AIN'T RUNNING YET, MR. TOEHOLD.
THERE! NOW, IT IS.
THAT MUSTA BEEN A SWELL SALES TALK YOU GIMME LAST NIGHT, MULLINS—WHERE-ALL DID WE GO, ANYWAY?
I DON'T REMEMBER. I GUESS I'D ATE SOMETHING WHICH DISAGREED WITH ME.
THAT LAST PLACE WAS A SWELL SPOT. WHAT DID THE CHECK COME TO?
ME! BUT WHAT I CAN'T FIGURE OUT IS WHERE I GOT ALL THE DOUGH TO PAY IT.
OH-OH! NOW WHAT SEEMS TO BE THE MATTER?
FROM THE WAY THE SCENERY'S STANDING STILL, I'D SAY THE CAR HAS STOPPED.
MAYBE WE'RE OUT OF GAS. YOU BETTER GO GET SOME.
THE GAGE DON'T WORK SO GOOD. I'LL TAKE A LOOK AND SEE IF IT'S EMPTY.
BLOOM!
GEE! THAT IS TOUGH LUCK. TO THINK THAT ONLY LAST NIGHT YOU SOLD THAT CAR FOR $35.00 CASH! AND NOW YOU'LL HAVE TO REFUND THE MONEY, MULLINS.
I DID? WELL, THAT SHOULDN'T WORRY YOU, MR. TOEHOLD.

MORGUE
CHESTER GOULD
FINGERPRINTS FOUND ON THIS MANHOLE COVER HAVE PROVED TO BE THOSE OF THE MOLE!
THE MOLE? YOU MEAN THAT VICIOUS KILLER WHO WAS SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN MURDERED BY HIS OWN GANG IN- -IN-1926?
WHY, THEY WERE SUPPOSED TO HAVE SHOT HIM AND TOSSED HIS BODY IN THE BAY!
YES, THEY WERE SUPPOSED TO HAVE, BUT THE BODY WAS NEVER FOUND!
FURTHERMORE, ANALYSIS OF A SUBSTANCE FOUND ON THE LEGS OF DUKE'S TROUSERS SHOWS IT TO BE BLUE CLAY. A CLAY THAT LIES ABOUT TWELVE FEET BELOW THE CITY'S SURFACE.
YOU MEAN DUKE HAD BEEN DOWN IN A HOLE-OR-A CAVE?
BEYOND QUESTION, CHIEF!
MEANWHILE, IN THE UNDERGROUND LAIR OF THE MOLE—
HELLO-HELLO, OILY! HOW ABOUT MY FOOD? IS THE COAST CLEAR?
THEY TOOK OUT THE BODY THIS MORNING AND HAVEN'T BEEN BACK SINCE. YOUR FOOD IS READY!
IN THE "FILLING" STATION ADJOINING THE JUNK YARD, A SWARTHY CHARACTER DESCENDS INTO A GREASING PIT, TRAY IN HAND.
GAS
TWO HINGED CEMENT BLOCKS SWING OUTWARD AND A HAIRY HAND SNATCHES THE TRAY.
REMEMBER, OILY, YOU'RE THE ONLY PARTNER I'VE GOT AND THIS GREASING PIT OUTLET IS MY ONLY EMERGENCY ESCAPE- JUST SEE TO IT YOU NEVER LET ME DOWN!
OIL
MOLE, WE'VE BEEN FURNISHING A HIDEOUT HERE FOR CROOKS FOR FIFTEEN YEARS AND I'VE NEVER DOUBLE-CROSSED YOU YET, HAVE I?
GOOD BOY, OILY! BY THE WAY, HERE IS YOUR SHARE OF DUKE'S DOUGH!
WHEN CROOKS COME TO MOLE, AS A LAST RESORT, TO HIDE OUT FROM THE POLICE, MOLE DOESN'T CHARGE THEM A FLAT RATE. MOLE TAKES EVERYTHING THEY'VE GOT!
